State May Rest Today In Kohler Ouster

4 BIG ISSUES FOR CAMPAIGN NEXT AUTUMN

Higher Living Cost as Result on Tariff Bill to Be Stressed

DRY LAW FIGHT CENTER

Parker Nomination and Unemployment Other Points Under Fire

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington (CFA)—Within the short space of a month, the major issues of the congressional campaign will have been made.

Assuming the passage of the pending tariff bill, the controversy will center, first, on the increased cost to the consumer of necessities of life; second, in the opposition of organized labor on account of the Parker nomination; third, on the amount of unemployment and the responsibility of the administration for the economic situation; and fourth, on the attitude of the administration toward prohibition enforcement.

Inasmuch as the London naval treaty probably will be ratified after a brief debate and the world court entry of the United States will not be insisted upon for consideration by the senate until next December, the foregoing constitute the principal points likely to be discussed in the campaign.

In the dry districts the attack will be on the character of the enforcement machinery, whereas in the wet districts the criticism will be of the usual sort against the administration for failing to advocate modification.

Doctor Ends His Life With Shotgun Blast

His throat torn open by a charge from a shot gun, the body of Dr. R. J. Fairchild, elderly Clintonville physician, was found in a chair in his Clintonville office in the Folkmann building on Main-st. shortly after 7:30 Thursday morning by Roy Morris, an attorney, who occupies an office in the same building.

Following an investigation by the coroner, sheriff and chief of police of Clintonville, it was decided that no inquest would be necessary. It was evident that Dr. Fairchild took his own life, according to the authorities.

The shot gun, from which one charge had been fired, was still braced between the dead man's legs when the body was found, the stock of the gun resting on the floor.

Dr. Fairchild apparently had placed the gun between his legs, rested his throat over the end of the barrel, and pulled the trigger with the aid of a pair of pliers which were found on the floor beside the chair.

Nobody heard the shot and no cause for the act could be advanced by his friends. His wife died last fall, and he had occupied quarters in the Hotel Marson annex since that time.

His only survivor is a son, Leonard, of Miami, Ariz., who was immediately notified.

Dr. Fairchild, who formerly practiced at Embarras, came to Clintonville about 15 years ago. He was between 65 and 70 years of age.

FIND NEW CLEW TO FUGITIVE SLAYER

Henry Mallette Appears at Home of His Sister Near Merrillan

Merrillan (P)—The reappearance of Henry Mallette, barefoot fugitive slayer, today instilled new vigor into the search for him, which has been conducted since April 23 when he shot George Casper near here while Casper pleaded on his knees for mercy.

Mallette appeared Tuesday night at the home of his sister, Mrs. Mary Wison, a few miles from Merrillan, it was learned today. He first demanded food, then inquired if Casper were dead. Mrs. Wison refused him food and when she told him Casper was dead, he hastened away.

When Mallette fled the scene of the shooting, he was barefoot and carried the shotgun with which the slaying was committed. He still was barefoot and had the gun at Mrs. Wison's.

After Mallette's tracks had been found in low land north of Merrillan yesterday, Sheriff Carl Anderson decided to station men with field glasses on beacon towers today to keep a lookout for him. He had a force of deputies and volunteers searching in the woods and tangled swamps around this village.

The shooting for which Mallette is sought occurred on Casper's farm. When Casper and his housekeeper returned late at night, Mallette was waiting for them in the darkened house. He shot Casper as the latter begged mercy, then knifed the woman unconscious and fled.

TREMPEALEAU MARSH DISPUTE BEFORE JUDGE

Alma (P)—The "battle of Trempealeau marsh," today was in the hands of Circuit Judge S. E. Smalley as he sought to settle the dispute between the Delta Fish and Fur Farms, Inc., and 23 hunters and members of the Trempealeau Bay Upper Marsh Restoration club.

The company accused hunters of trespassing on private lands last fall. The hunters insisted the delta marsh was navigable water and hence open hunting grounds. The company placarded the marsh and arrested invading hunters.

Judge Smalley gave attorneys 20 days to file briefs. He said the only question involved is whether the waters are navigable.

PRESCOTT IS LAST WITNESS, WILKIE SAYS

Governor and Wiperman Among Witnesses During Morning Session

Sheboygan (P)—The state hopes to close its case in the ouster trial of Gov. Walter J. Kohler, this afternoon, it was announced by Harold M. Wilkie, special prosecutor, at noon today.

Wilkie said he plans to call only one more witness—Frank Prescott, Milwaukee assemblyman—before beginning argument over the admissibility of more than 350 state exhibits.

Working rapidly in an effort to bring his work to a close, after nearly three weeks' testimony, Wilkie examined the governor; R. O. Wiperman, secretary of the state Republican committee, and several employees of the Kohler company this morning.

Wiperman had been expected to give the most sensational testimony of the trial. Wilkie, instead of examining him at length, asked only one question:

"Did the governor say to you in a conversation that 'this campaign is costing a lot of money' and did you reply, 'yes, it's costing a lot more than the $25,000 you estimated?'"

"Yes," Wiperman answered.

"That is all," Wilkie said.

The governor's third appearance on the stand was marked by his statement that "if I had been home, I would have stopped some of the things going on there; but not being there, I couldn't." He referred to activities of his employees during the campaign. The state maintains he ordered them to work for him.

The state put no questions concerning a statement yesterday by Charles B. Perry, assembly speaker, that Kohler had been quoted at a meeting of Republicans in Green Day, as saying he was "desirous" of having George L. Gilkey, Merrill, become chairman of the state committee. Gilkey was chosen. The state considers this proof the committee was a "personal campaign group" run for Kohler's benefit.

GAVE "DEFINITE ORDER"

When I went into this campaign," the governor said, "I told the men to keep the company out. I didn't usually give orders; I usually put them in the form of requests. But this time there was a very definite order."

M'BRIDE TELLS ABOUT FUNDS OF DRY LEAGUE

Washington (P)—F. Scott McBride of the Anti-Saloon league, testified today before the senate lobby committee that his organization spent $275,000 last year and collected $269,916. McBride said that $164,154 of this was raised by popular subscription.

At the conclusion of testimony, Chairman Caraway said a committee investigator would go to the headquarters of the league at Westernville, Ohio, to examine its records.

McBride testified that the league watched the prohibition actions of legislators and district attorneys closely. He said it was rarely necessary to use political pressure on members of congress but added that he would not say that this would not or had not been done.

WATCHES "CONSTABLE" CARRY AWAY HIS TILL

Kansas City (P)—Mildly curious, George Lombard watched a man with a constable's badge leave his confectionery with the shop's cash register under his arm.

"Now, what law have I broken?" the constable asked.

After reviewing past actions the confectioner decided his conscience was clear. He notified police. They decided he had been robbed.

Lombard said the officious one entered his shop last night, displayed a badge, and said he had come for the till. The cash register, valued at $150 contained $20.

OSHKOSH MAN CHIEF OF EQUITABLE UNION

Oshkosh (P)—The first annual convention of the Equitable Reserve association, recently formed by merger of the Fraternal Reserve association and the Equitable Fraternal Union, today stood adjourned after election of officers.

Joseph H. Kitz, Oshkosh, was elected president; H. L. Miller, Beloit, vice president, and Mrs. Anna D. Nelson, Waupaca, secretary. Twenty-eight delegates were selected to attend the supreme convention of the organization at Neenah, June 2 to 5.

Sale Of Oil Firm Brings Millions To Woman Golfer

Marion Hollins Gets $2,500,000 From $10,500,000 Kettleman Hills Deal

Los Angeles (P)—Sale of the Kettleman Oil company, for approximately $10,500,000 with a resulting profit of $2,500,000 to Marion Hollins, Pebble Beach, Calif., former woman's national golf champion, has been revealed here.

Persevering financing efforts of Miss Hollins were said last night to have been responsible for development of the property, in Kettleman hills, arid range in the San Joaquin valley.

Purchasers of the company included the Pacific Western Oil company, the Standard Oil Company of California, and the Honolulu Consolidated Oil company. A small group of large stockholders, including eastern capitalists, also benefited handsomely from the sale.

Other stockholders who received large amounts of money included Harold E. Talbot, Jr., New York financier; Walter P. Chrysler, automobile manufacturer; Samuel McRoberts, New York banker; McKim Hollins, the golfer's brother, and the Payne Whitney estate.

The Pacific Western paid $1,000,000 for an individual half interest in the Kettleman company while the Standard Oil company and the Honolulu Consolidated paid $2,500,000 for its capital stock.

It was said that Miss Hollins, through her friendship with Col. Franklin P. Kenney, of Pebble Beach, then president of the Marland Oil company, became interested in the sale.

FREAKISH WEATHER HITS CALIFORNIA

Heavy Snow Falls in Sierra Mountains—Gale Rages Along South Coast

San Francisco (P)—Freak May weather had brought heavy snow falls to the Sierra mountains today, while a terrific gale yesterday struck the southern California coast.

Eight inches of snow fell at the Calaveras grove of big trees in little more than an hour. Snow also fell from the Tahoe region to Ash mountain in Sequoia National park.

Heavy gales struck the southern California coast near Redondo beach and for several hours threatened fishing enthusiasts and crews of small boats with disaster.

At the St. James parochial school classes were dismissed when the wind reached a velocity that seemed likely to cave in the school building.

In a small launch, Gilbert Roland and Townsend Nether, husband of Constance Talmadge, were unable to land on the unprotected Santa Monica coast line for several hours. They finally landed in a cove.

An end to the freakish weather was promised in most sections today but orchardists were uneasy over the prospect of frost.

The higher ranges of the Sierras and the mountains of southern California were promised more snow, however, as was Nevada and southern Idaho. Frosts were expected in the northwest and in the valleys of northern and central California.

SNOW IN MONTANA

Twin Falls, Mont. (P)—For the first time in 24 years a heavy snow has visited this section in May, a three-inch fall yesterday causing alarm of fruit growers. Temperatures also tumbled to new seasonal low records.

COLLEGE ROMANCE ENDS IN DECREE FOR WIFE

Milwaukee (P)—The college romance of Jacobus Kellerman, a native of South Africa, and Alice Kelly, who were married Aug. 8, 1928, at Madison, while studying for higher degrees at the University of Wisconsin, came to an end in the divorce court here today.

Circuit Judge Charles L. Aarons granted Mrs. Kellerman a divorce after finding her husband, a candidate for the degree of doctor of philosophy guilty of a "very refined" type of cruel and inhuman treatment. She was given back her maiden name.

Mrs. Kellerman, who received a master of arts at Wisconsin, is a librarian in the legislative reference library in Madison. Kellerman is connected with the animal chemistry department of the university.

JUDGE ASKS WHY HE BROKE U. S. PADLOCK PUT ON HIP POCKET

Kansas City (P)—Jedlin A. Brown, 35, of Springfield, Mo., came here today to tell Federal District Judge Albert L. Reeves why he had broken a padlock legally fastened to his hip pocket.

A year ago the judge sentenced Brown to six months in jail on a charge of larceny of a bookcase. It was from his pockets. Upon his release from prison, he was ordered to carry a padlock on his hip.

In spite of the padlocking, Brown's ability to scout thirty souls was as good as ever, federal agents said. A wink, a flip of the coat tail and Brown was followed into an alley where a sale was made. One day Brown winked at one too many strangers. It was a federal agent.

He was arrested and his citation for contempt followed.

EXPECT FEDERAL SUIT AGAINST RADIO FIRM

Washington (P)—The department of justice is expected to bring suit against the Radio Corporation of America "within a week" by members of the senate interstate commerce committee, who today were informed by John Lord Brien, special assistant to the attorney general, on the progress of investigations looking toward action.

After hearing a letter from O'Brien in executive session, the committee decided not to question him. He had been summoned to appear. He has conferred with Chairman Gonzales.

Along with his own comments, O'Brien sent the committee a statement from the Radio corporation which said contracts for unification of its radio holdings with those of Westinghouse and General Electric had not been consummated.

The committee believes suits will be filed by the department within a few days or at most within a week.

DRUNKEN AUTOIST PAYS FINE OF $50

Walter Witt Loses Driving License for Six Months

Walter Witt, 224 S. Outagamie-st., was fined $50 and costs by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court Thursday morning when he pleaded guilty of drunken driving. The judge also ordered that Witt's driving license be revoked for six months, and an order to that effect is being sent to the secretary of state.

Witt appeared in municipal court Wednesday morning. George Croner, 525 N. Richmond-st. who was with Witt when he was arrested paid a fine of $10 and costs Wednesday morning for drunkenness.

The men were arrested by Police Chief George T. Prim and Officer Carl Radtke at the corner of Spencer-ave and Bond-st. where their car went into the ditch about 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. When the police arrived the two men were trying to get their machine out of the ditch.

Two bottles full of alleged whisky were found in the car and confiscated by the police.

OIL REFINING YARDS, DOCKS RAZED BY FIRE

Tanker Also Destroyed, 3 Men Injured, New Jersey City Shaken by Blasts

Bayonne, N. J. (P)—The start of an explosion in a 10,000 gallon oil tanker, today raved through the yards of the Gulf Refining company at Constable Hook, threatening the destruction of that plant and the adjacent yards of the Tidewater Oil company and the Standard Oil company.

Three men were injured, one seriously. Officials and all other employees were accounted for.

Shortly after noon two tanks containing between 50,000 and 100,000 barrels of gasoline and five tanks of lesser capacity exploded, along with a number of tank cars containing fuel oil.

Two hours earlier, the tanker Schenck, a lumber craft used as a gasoline supply boat, went up in a ball of flames. Two members of the crew received minor burns.

The flames spread from the tanker, destroying three docks and razing between the yard. All the tanks in the yard blew forward, scattering flaming gasoline in all directions.

A truck load of chemical extinguishers was brought from Newark in an effort to check the flames.

OTHER TANKERS ESCAPE

Two storage tanks were saved from the docks before the flames reached them.

Flames and billows of smoke and smoke smoke three hundred feet into the air with each explosion. Two members of the Bayonne department were overcome by smoke.

Police said reports from Staten Island, across the bay, were that a small boat was blown from its moorings and sunk by the explosion of the Schenck.

The Gulf Refining plant, a reservation of many acres, has more than 100 storage tanks in its yard. One great tank near where the flames started contained a highly inflammable liquid. The majority of the tanks were filled with gasoline.

In the center of the explosion stood a large warehouse, containing ten thousand bags of grain and fuel oil. This structure and its contents were together with an annex over that it vibrated and the bay. The drums flew straight upward to heights which fishermen said reached 1,000 feet.

Later, when the wind shifted, at least six tanks were blown from their moorings and floated in the bay.

Employees of the oil company risked their lives building out a dam of earth to keep the flaming liquid from spreading to the huge gasoline tanks. In all, 11 storage tanks of fuel oil were set off by the fire. Workers managed to pump out the contents of many other tanks.

Authorities expressed no fear that the flames would reach dwellings of the city, but admitted hoseholders packed their possessions for evacuation. In several nearby streets.

2 Convicts Shot Dead In Accident

Killed While Sleeping in Ohio Prison as Result of Machine Gun Mishap

Columbus, Ohio (P)—Two sleeping Ohio penitentiary convicts were killed by machine gun bullets today when the weapon, mounted in the prison yard after last night's stockade fire, was accidentally discharged by Ohio national guardsmen. The victims were asleep in the B and C dormitories when the bullets passed through a barred window. They were struck in the head and died almost instantly.

The dead were believed to be James W. Ross, 40, of Cleveland, and Albert E. Hughes, Negro, 30, of Cleveland. Ross, admitted to the penitentiary in 1925, was serving a 10 to 15 years for burglary and larceny. Hughes, admitted last June 1926, was serving to 20 years for manslaughter. Identification was not made by all members of the prison guard. One guardman pointing out the dead bodies of the person had been confined since the disastrous fire.

The machine gun when fired, exploded, landed in three cells, wounding 14 by fire and smoke.

A third convict was wounded. A bullet entered the side of his head, but he escaped serious injury. He was taken to the hospital, but died of the wound. He was named as James W. Ross, 40, of Cleveland, who had been confined since the disastrous fire.

Two guards were injured, one seriously. Officials and all other employees were accounted for.

20 MEN SEIZED IN SHOLAPUR

Sholapur, Bombay, India (P)—Twenty men were seized in the city of Sholapur, a city of 120,000, during the night. The city was seized during the fight lasting through the night.

Police stations, courts and all liquor shops were burned by the revolters.

ANGLO-EGYPTIAN PACT EFFORTS PROVE FAILURE

London (P)—The proposed Anglo-Egyptian negotiations for a treaty were reported in well-informed quarters today to have broken down.

Negotiations have been in progress several weeks. Between British foreign office officials and Egyptian leaders, led by the Egyptian premier.

The chief point of disagreement apparently has been over the provisions of the treaty regarding the Sudan, which territory the Egyptians asserted it was impossible for them to sign away.

The negotiations were stated to have been perfectly friendly but that they have been broken off temporarily. The Egyptian delegation will leave for Cairo tomorrow.

A British statement said that the present reasons are clear and that no future meeting was arranged.

Foreign Minister Henderson planned to make a statement in the house of commons during the afternoon.

TWO SLAYERS FACING EXECUTION TOMORROW

Chicago (P)—August Vogel, the "whim player," and William Lombard, young Cleveland gunman, both convicted of murder, will be executed early tomorrow, unless final attempts to save their lives are successful.

Counsel for both planned today to seek writs of suspensions from Supreme Court Justice Frederick De Young to halt the executions, pending appeals.

Vogel, a drug store clerk, shot and killed Lyle Perrenoud last fall in an argument following a traffic accident. Lombard was convicted of fatally shooting Milton Vashol, a restaurant owner, in a holdup in June, 1929.

DEATH ROLL IN QUAKE MAY EXCEED THOUSAND

Rangoon, Burma (P)—The Exchange Telegraph today reported that the discovery of additional bodies would bring the death toll of the disastrous earthquake at Rangoon this week up to fully 1,000.

More than 300 persons were still lying in the streets, and bodies were being found in huge fissures which opened up after the quake.

THREE ROBBERS SEIZE $20,000 PAYROLL FUND

Hammond, Ind. (P)—Three unmasked robbers held up the Maywood Trust and Savings bank of Hammond today, escaping with $20,000 in cash which had just been transferred to the bank to cash checks for steel company employees whose payday was today.

The $20,000 had just been delivered to the Maywood bank from the Hammond Trust and Savings bank. A police detail guarded the transfer. The police departed and the bank had no opportunity to put the money away before the trio of robbers stepped in and the leader demanded: "Where's that money that was just brought in here?"

Bound up the cashier, Paul Secord, and two other employees, the robbers retained one of their number to guard the three employees while the other two scooped up the money and fled. They were joined by the third robber and all escaped in an automobile.

Three Names Mentioned For Supreme Court Bench

LEADERS NOW WAITING FOR NEW ACTION

Booth of Illinois, Newton Baker, and John W. Davis Are Favored

Washington — (P) — President Hoover continued today to maintain his silence upon the rejection by the senate of Judge John J. Parker for the supreme court.

Shortly after the president reached his office, Vice President Curtis called and discussed the situation. It was said at the White House that no decision had yet been reached as to whether any statement would be made by the president at this time. It was indicated, however, that nothing would be said today.

President Hoover is expected at the capitol to undertake immediately consideration of another appointment to the vacant post on the supreme court bench with a view of sending it to the senate in time to obtain confirmation at this session. From some quarters it has been suggested to the president that he withhold comment upon the Parker case until the new nomination is sent to the senate.

Washington — (P) — A White House statement on the senate's rejection of Judge John J. Parker as a member of the supreme court was expected today as President Hoover again took up the task of filling a vacancy on the nation's highest tribunal.

Speculation was made as to whom the chief executive might tender the office and three names were prominently mentioned. They were those of Chief Justice Fenton Whitlock, Booth of the court of claims, an Illinois Republican, Newton D. Baker, President Wilson's secretary of war, and John W. Davis, the Democratic presidential nominee of 1924.

The senate's action in defeating the Parker nomination left three names open to the president. Life said it would submit Judge Parker's name, but until the adjournment of congress and give the North Carolina jurist a recess appointment, or seek a new appointee. The impression prevailed among those who have discussed the situation with the president that he had decided upon the last.

By a vote of 41 to 39, the senate in mid-afternoon yesterday turned down the Parker nomination after ten days of debate, in which the charges of labor and Negro origin against that jurist was predominate among the working men and the Negro race had a prominent part.

The discussion also brought forth an allegation from the ranks of labor that Parker had been bought to obtain votes for him in offering federal judgeships to some members of the senate opposed to the nomination.

Soon after the vote, Senator Allen of Kansas, who supported Parker, and Undersecretary Cotton of the state department, conferred with the chief executive, and a little later Attorney General Mitchell called at the White House.

They declined to reveal what had occurred in the course of their discussion with the president, but it was intimated that Mr. Hoover is preparing a statement for publication today.

Labor's opposition to Parker was based upon a decision which the jurist rendered as a member of the circuit court of appeals in which he upheld the so-called "yellow dog" contract, under which employees bind themselves not to become affiliated with the unions.

President William Green of the American Federation of Labor last night termed the senate's action "a victory for justice, righteousness and human rights."

"No one will be disappointed over the outcome," he said, "except those who believe in yellow-dog contracts with the industrial servitude which such contracts impose upon helpless working people and those members among the privileged men who enjoy the protection which indefensible injunctions provide."

"Labor is inexpressibly grateful to those staunch defenders of human rights in the United States senate who voted against the confirmation of Judge Parker."

Senator Glenn, Republican, Illinois, who voted against Parker, issued a statement after the roll call saying he could not approve placing on the supreme bench one who believes that some 14,000,000 of our citizens should have no right to participate in their government."

NEGROES PROTEST

This concerned the protest of the Association for the Advancement of Colored People, which contended that Parker had revealed such a belief in delivering a campaign speech as Republican nominee for governor of North Carolina in 1920.

A dispatch from Raleigh, N. C., late last night said that a movement has begun to persuade Judge Parker to become a candidate for the senate in the election of next fall. The period for filing such a nomination has expired, but it was suggested that this difficulty might be obviated by having the nominee be the Republican primary in which the executive committee then naming Parker in his place.

Some Republican leaders of the state were represented as opposing such a course but as wanting Judge Parker to run for the senate in 1932. It would be a candidate this year, he might find himself opposed by Senator Furnifold M. Simmons, who is a candidate for re-nomination to the senate.

Senator Overman, Democrat, North Carolina, who was a leader in the fight for confirmation, will be re-elected in 1932.

Mother Slays Seven Children

Driven to despair by poverty, Mrs. Ethel Yeldem of Columbus, Ohio, shot and killed seven of her 12 children and then fired a bullet in her own body in an attempt to end her own life. The day before she went to a Columbus photographer with 16 of her children to pose for a group picture—the one shown above. In the picture the father, Mr. Yeldem, Elmer Yeldem, Allen and Alice Yeldem, are shown leaning against their mother's knees. Mrs. Yeldem, Elmer Yeldem, Vernon Geller and Wayne Yeldem of the children in this picture. Mildred Yeldem and Vernon were the ones who escaped. ## FLAG AT COURTHOUSE FLYING AT HALFMAST

Flags on the county courthouse were at half mast Thursday in memory of David Hodgins, who was killed from his home at Hortonville Thursday afternoon. Mr. Hodgins had served for more than 20 years on the county board. Most of the county officials attended the funeral.

NO CHANGE IN COAL PRICES IN APPLETON

Although coal prices have been dropping in cities in the Fox river valley, no noticeable change has been evidenced here since last fall, according to reports of local dealers. The price of anthracite coal at Green Bay dropped 60 cents per ton recently, and in other cities similar decreases took place, it is reported.

WISCONSIN WEATHER

Partly cloudy to cloudy tonight and Friday, possibly showers tonight in extreme north portion, not much change in temperature.

GENERAL WEATHER

Low pressure still exists over the western half of the country, with the center of the disturbance having moved directly northward during the past 24 hours and now overlying northern Minnesota. More rain has fallen over the upper Mississippi and Missouri valleys, the Great Lakes region and isolated sections in the Rocky Mountain states. High pressure and most fair weather prevails over the south Atlantic states and western Canada. Partly cloudy and continued rain is expected in the section tonight and Friday.

STUDENTS FILL OUT REGISTRATION CARDS

Junior and sophomore students at Appleton senior high school filled out advanced registration blanks yesterday during home room period for the subjects they expect to take next year.

American history and junior English are required of all those who will be juniors next year. One science also is required provided that none has been previously studied during the sophomore year. The juniors are required to sign up for either senior English or sociology. Sophomores are permitted to choose two elective subjects and the junior, three. No student who has not had an average of at least B in the subjects studied this year is allowed to sign up for more than four for the coming semester.

Advanced registration for the ninth grade students in the junior high school took place last Friday. The enrollment at the high school this year was 929 but approximately 970 are expected for the year 1930-1931.

9 TALKS IN WEEK FACE UNIVERSITY PRESIDENT

Madison — (P) — Nine addresses in the state during the week beginning Thursday is the heavy speaking schedule faced by Dr. Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin.

His speaking engagements begin in Milwaukee Thursday with addresses before the joint meeting of Milwaukee service clubs and to the Wisconsin Chemical society meeting. Returning to Madison, Dr. Frank will address the Wisconsin Press association conference Friday, and then next week he will speak at Waupaca, Wisconsin Rapids, Medford, Merrill, Antigo, and Rhinelander.

It Works Miracles With Sore Burning Tired Aching Feet

A new discovery — so please do not get it mixed up in your mind with the failures you have tried before.

They call it Radox and your feet can be so tired and weary — so sore and inflamed that every step you take is torture — your poor feet burn and ache all day long.

Just take a footbath tonight with Radox — a joyous invigorating foot bath — directions come with each package — and when you walk tomorrow if you don't say it is the most wonderful discovery to make ailing feet strong and vigorous — money back.

If you have come to Radox southern 3 or 4 miles in succession and then pick out the coin roads and all the Radox at Schmitt Bros. Drug Co. or see the distributors and others.

STALWART GROUP OF REPUBLICANS SELECTS OSHKOSH

Conference Will Be Held There June 10 and 11. Committee Decides

Oshkosh was chosen as the place for the June conference of stalwart Republicans at a meeting of the G. O. P. state committee at Milwaukee Wednesday. William H. Zuehlke, chairman of the Outagamie Republican group, and A. C. Rule, attend the meeting at Milwaukee. The conference is to be held June 10 and 11 for the purpose of endorsing Republican candidates for state offices which must be filled at the fall election. George L. Gilkey, Merrill, chairman of the state committee, presided at the meeting Wednesday. Appleton was one of the cities suggested as the place for the June meeting.

The committee worked out a basis of representation which calls for 1,137 delegates, with one absolute delegate for every county and one for each 500 votes. The conservative candidates for governor, attorney general, secretary of state and state treasurer, will be nominated at the convention.

A committee, appointed to work out final plans, consists of W. J. Campbell, Oshkosh Senator Walter S. Goodland, Racine; Mrs. R. W. Bowen, Augusta; Miss Florence S. Bickel, Oshkosh, and Mr. Gilkey.

APPLETON WOMEN AT ECONOMICS CLUB MEET

Twelve women attended an all-day meeting of the Seymour Home Economics club at Seymour Wednesday. Miss Harriet Thompson, county home demonstration agent, attended the meeting. Home cleaning problems were discussed.

OPEN BIDS ON COUNTY JOBS AT GREEN BAY

Bids on two Outagamie county projects, paving on Highway 55 north of Seaside and resurfacing four miles and building three miles of new road on Highway 5 between Kaukauna and Tiedem, were opened at the divisional state highway office at Green Bay Wednesday afternoon. The bids still were tabulated the bids Thursday and Frank Appleton, highway commissioner, was present. It was expected that the contract probably would be awarded Thursday afternoon or Friday.

APPLETON JEWELER IS NAMED STATE DIRECTOR

Otto Fischer, Appleton jeweler, was elected to the board of directors of the Wisconsin Retail Jeweler's association at its annual convention at Wausau this week. Gustave Keller, St., was chosen delegate to the national convention of jewelers in New York in September, and A. W. Anderson, Neenah, was elected secretary.

Other officers elected were A. C. Hentschel, Milwaukee, president; T. J. Dale, Kenosha, vice president; Henry F. Stecher, Milwaukee, treasurer. Other directors elected were W. J. Upmeyer, Milwaukee; Frank Lajugues, Wausau; L. M. Nelson, Madison; and John Komel, Oshkosh.

The next convention of the Wisconsin association, to be a twice instead of two day meeting, will be held at Delavan. Two days will be devoted to business and one to social activities.

About 300 jewelers attended the Wausau meeting. Those who attended from Appleton were Mr. Fischer, Mr. and Mrs. Keller, Mr. and Mrs. Henry N. Marx, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kamps and Carl J. Fennie.

FIND STOCKBRIDGE DOCTOR NOT GUILTY

Judge Says Physician Could Not Tell Patient Had Scarlet Fever

Dr. R. E. Dorn, Stockbridge, was found not guilty by Judge John I. Dume in justice court at Chilton Wednesday afternoon on charges of failure to report and quarantine contagious diseases.

Dr. Dorn had been arrested on three warrants charging him with offenses in three cases but he was tried on only one and the other two warrants were automatically quashed when he was found not guilty on one.

The defense advanced by Dr. Dorn was that when he was called to the home of Louis J. Heller to treat a patient that he was unable at that early stage to diagnose the illness as scarlet fever. The judge held that Dr. Dorn could not have diagnosed the case at that time.

Heller was one of the state's witnesses and he told of calling Dr. Dorn and of later calling Dr. J. J. Minahan to treat a patient at his home. Dr. Minahan told of diagnosing the case as scarlet fever and ordering the home quarantined. Dr. C. E. Royt, deputy state health officer, told of the investigations which led him to secure the warrants for Dr. Dorn.

SANATORIUM COMMITTEE ALLOWS $3,000 BILLS

Bills totaling $3,000 were allowed by the sanatorium building committee at a special meeting Wednesday afternoon at Riverview sanatorium, Little Chute. The committee also voted to allow the bills of the general contractor as soon as the final work had been inspected by the supervising architect and the building inspector and approved.

Dr. Dorn. The arrest of the Stockbridge doctor followed an epidemic of scarlet fever in that village.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause." But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or over increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderly at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall Drug Store. Dorn's Inc. adv.

LIGHT CONTRACT LEGAL, ATTORNEY ADVISES COUNCIL

Legality Not Affected Because McGillan Was on Committee

That the street lighting contract between the city of Appleton and the Wisconsin Michigan Power company is legal, despite the fact that R. F. McGillan, an employee of the Power company and an alderman, was head of the committee which made the contract, is the ruling of the city attorney, read at the meeting of the common council Wednesday night. He also ruled that the fact that Alderman McGillan is an employee of the Power company does not make him ineligible to hold the office of alderman.

Basing his opinion upon section 62.07 (7) (d) of the Wisconsin statutes the attorney stated that inasmuch as Mr. McGillan is one of 200 employees of the Power company, not a stockholder or an officer and because his wages are not affected by the signing of the contract, he benefits neither directly nor indirectly by the contract and the contract is therefore legal. He further points out that the element of competitive bidding is eliminated because in a contract of this kind the Power company is the only utility which could enter into a contract with the city.

"If Mr. McGillan were in an executive position with the company," "drawing a fairly good salary," the ruling reads from which fact it would probably be determined that he would benefit personally by the fact that he was able to close up a contract between his company and the city, the contract might then be considered void."

LEASE IS BINDING
The attorney also ruled that the city's lease with the Whiting airport, by which the city is obligated to pay the airport $2,000 annually for 10 years, is binding and that unless the lessor fails to live up to the terms of the lease or until the airport service is abandoned, the city must abide by its contract.

Because the airport is located outside the city limits and because adjoining cities on the airport route are profiting at the expense of the city of Appleton, in the use of the airport, it was felt that perhaps the city could break its contract with the airport.

It was pointed out, however, by Alderman Mike Steinhilber that with other cities in the state appropri-

All Auto Thefts In City For Four Years Now Solved

The single automobile theft in Appleton in the last four years, which had not been cleared up by local police through recovery or discovery of the stolen car, was cleaned up this week when police received word from Warren, O. that a car owned by the August Brandt Co. of Appleton, had been found in that city.

Police Chief George T. Prim said that the car was discovered when the Warren fire department was called to put out a blaze in a Ford coupe, affire on the outskirts of the city. The machine, which had been stolen from Appleton March 16, 1929, was almost entirely destroyed by the fire but the ownership was traced through the engine number. Near the car, when the firemen arrived, was a can which had contained gasoline and the Warren police believe the car was set afire.

On the same night that the Ford was found at Warren another machine of the same make and model was stolen from that city.

Chief Prim said that the discovery of this car clears the stolen car slate at the police department for the last four years. He said this is an unusual record for a city of this size. Most of the cars, however, the chief said, which are stolen in Appleton are taken by "joyriders" who later abandon the machines on the outskirts of Appleton or some nearby city.

ing huge sums to construct municipal airports, Appleton is really in a fortunate position to be able to lease an airport at this price.

A third opinion furnished by the attorney was on the matter of street excavation by public utilities. The attorney ruled that public utilities must secure a permit to make excavations, but that a difference between the rulings of the statutes and the ordinances on this subject makes it questionable as to the source of this permit. In case any corporation or individual shall neglect to repair or restore to its former condition any street excavated, the board of public works shall order the work done at the expense of the corporation or individual.

Dr. Carl Neidhold, Mrs. Dan Steinberg, George Loos Are Named

Three new members were elected to the board of health by the common council Wednesday night. Dr. Carl Neidhold, Mrs. Dan Steinberg and George Loos will replace Dr. Charles Reinick, Mrs. Mabel Shannon and A. R. Geyer. The committee is made of these three members, two aldermen, the city physician and the mayor.

Mayor John Goodland Jr. reappointed I. J. Cameron and Fred Dauchert to the board of appeals. Both terms will expire in 1933. Other members of this board are Homer Benton, whose term will end in 1932, August M. Winters and George Schmidt, who will serve until 1931.

W. H. Timm and C. D. Boyd were reappointed to the planning commission. Mr. Timm was returned to the committee for one year so that in the future the term of one member will expire each year. Other members of the board are George T. Richard, Mayor Goodland, and

M. H. Ramstead, a Wisconsin business man, reports that he secured a simple home treatment which quickly healed him of stomach ulcers, gas pains, indigestion and constipation after many years of suffering. He says he was so bad he was put on a strict diet, had begun to lose weight and could not get a good night's sleep. Now though years have passed, he still is in the best of health and can eat anything he wants. Mr. Ramstead is so grateful for his own recovery that he wants every sufferer to try this splendid treatment without cost or obligation. If you suffer, just send your name and address to M. H. Ramstead, Dept. 745, Box 925, Milwaukee, Wis. He will tell you all about his own experiences and send you a full size $1.00 treatment free. Write him today.

Prof. C. P. Fairfield, who will serve during their terms of office; and F. S. Bradford, whose term will expire in 1932. The term of Mr. Timm will end in 1931 and that of Mr. Boyd in 1933.

Announcement was made of the appointment of John Roach to the police and fire commission, for a five year term. He succeeds E. A. Schnitzler.

The transfer of the ornamental light on the Firestone Tire and Rubber company property was referred back to the street lighting committee after the members of the committee were unable to agree on what committee action had been taken. With the presentation of 30 feet of property on the north city limits for use as a roadway on the north edge of Erb park, the council decided to open the road from Meadest. and to name it Roosevelt-st.

The price committee was authorized to seek bids on a washing machine for the City Home.

All petitions for sidewalks, street lights catch basins, grading, graveling and oiling were referred to the proper committees.

Council Orders Public Hearing On Street Widening

WANT TO KNOW HOW PROPERTY OWNERS FEEL

Control of Alicia Park Transferred Back to Park Commission

A public hearing on the widening of Appleton, Oneida, Lawrence and Washington streets will be held at a date to be set by the mayor, it was decided at the meeting of the common council Wednesday evening. The meeting will be called early enough so that if the sentiment of property holders is for widening of the streets the work can be done before the summer season, which will begin this week, is finished. In this way the widening of Oneida, Lawrence and Washington streets can be done before these streets are resurfaced with bituthillite, although there is no reason for an immediate decision on Appleton street, those property holders will be asked to attend the meeting because it is understood that many signers of the petition to widen the street were laboring under strong impressions as to the assessment of benefits and damages.

The control of Alicia park was transferred from the public building and grounds committee to the park board with the adoption of a resolution by the building and grounds committee. The committee chairman reported that there is an understanding with the park board that the tourist camp be continued for the coming summer, because it has been advertised in a number of publications. The attendant at the swimming pool will be engaged by the park board in the future.

A resolution was adopted ordering John Bregan and Sons, contractors who installed the Brewster storm sewer, to start the repair of the street within six days.

TURN DOWN REQUEST

The request of the Catholic Home corporation for the refund of $250.00 of the amount of the tax on its property for 1929 was rejected. Because the home is used exclusively for religious and charitable organizations, the owners feel that it should not be taxed. However, the fact that the building is owned by individuals puts it on the tax roll.

Plans and specifications for the storm sewer from Franklin, Morrison and Harrison streets, from Drew to Appleton streets, and those for the storm sewer on S. Memorial street and Lawrence street, were accepted, and the board of public works instructed to advertise for bids.

The bid of the Seneca Oil company to furnish oil for city streets was accepted. Names of streets which the street and bridge committee has decided need oil was ordered published so that property holders may have an opportunity to protest. All streets listed in the report will be oiled unless a remonstrance is filed.

A revised route of Wisconsin Michigan Power company buses, transferring the service from S. State to S. Walnut, so as to relieve the hazard to St. Mary school children, was referred to the street and bridge committee, as was a request from the Fox River bus company to change its route in an effort to provide better service and eliminate the crossing of railroad tracks.

In the future, buses will be required to stop beyond the stop and go signals when the lights are green so that the view of other machines will not be obstructed as the buses are depositing passengers. The attorney was instructed to draw up a resolution to this effect.

TAKE BANK OFFER

The offer of the First National Bank to pay 2 percent per thousand interest on daily bank deposits, and to loan the city money at 5 percent if all funds passing through the city treasury are deposited at that bank was accepted and the First National was voted the official depository of the city. The Appleton Post-Crescent was again named the official newspaper for the publication of all legal notices.

Permission for the Spanish American War veterans to use the band for Memorial Day was granted and the council voted to defray expenses of the day's activities up to $200.

The clerk was instructed to borrow $20,000 until March 1, 1931, the money to be used to defray city expenses. The fire department was given permission to hire an extra fireman during the vacation season.

The voting place for the second precinct of the Sixth ward in the future will be located in the basement of the Columbus school, and the voting place for the first precinct of the Fourth ward in the basement of the Richmond school. Permanent voting booths will be installed.

A platting problem in the Fourth ward was referred to the city engineer and city attorney, and an opinion upon the right of the city to legislate against the high terracing of laws was requested from the attorney. Sidewalks built were accepted at 15 cents a foot.

Assessment of benefits and damages on the installation of a small section of sewer on Eldoradio street was confirmed.

A petition from the merchants division of the chamber of commerce asking for the enforcement of the 30-minute parking ordinance was received and placed on file.

TWO SPEAKERS AT TOASTMASTERS' CLUB

The regular weekly meeting of the Toastmasters' club of the Y. M. C. will be held at the association building, beginning at 6:35 Thursday evening. George A. Johnson will be the speaker and talks will be given by Henry Ondings and Les C. Smith, commander of Onyx, a post of the American Legion.

La Vahn Maesch, professor of organ at the Lawrence college conservatory of music will present his students in recital at the First Congregational church at 7:30 tonight. The program includes: "Prologue" by Rogers, played by Ruth Buckmaster; "Spring Madrigal," Hatz by Irene Bidwell; "Andantino" Lamare by Alice Tuttle; "Toccata and Fugue in D minor," Bach, by Helen Hector.

"In Summer," Stebbens, and "In Moonlight," Kinder, will be played by Lynda Peterman; "Supplication," Frysinger, and Minuet from "L'Arlésienne," Bizet, by Edward Dix; and "Festiva Toccata," Fletcher, by Ruth Buckmaster.

STOCK PRICE REBOUND DRAWS NEW SELLING

New York—(AP)—Stock prices rebounded sharply on the New York Stock exchange today, as bears were driven to cover in the copper shares, after a further selling movement which depressed U. S. Steel to a new low for the year, the rebound attracted renewed selling, however, and trading became dull, with price trends irregular.

The coppers were rushed up $3 to more than $5 a share, as bears, who had been expecting further reductions in the price of the red metal, rushed to cover their short commitments when it was reported that the latest decline in the metal, taking it to 12 1/2 cents a pound, was meeting with substantial buying from consumers both in the United States and abroad.

Wall Street expects however, that many of the present dividend rates on the copper shares, which were put into effect with the metal selling at 15 cents a pound, will shortly be reduced, and the advance in this group, therefore, attracted scant following and soon lost its vigor.

U. S. Steel, after selling off more than $2 a share to a new 1930 low at $16.75, attracted strong support and more than cancelled its loss. The stock sold as low as $15 a share in the autumn crash.

PAJAMA CLAD HARVARD STUDENTS FIGHT COPS

Cambridge, Mass.—(AP)—Several hundred Harvard students, many in pajama clads, rioted last night through the central section, defying 40 policemen to create order and pelting officers and bystanders with bottles, fruit, telephone books and pails and trays of water.

Carroll H. Larker, secretary of the Phi Kappa Phi association, was arrested in pajamas and bath robe and charged with disturbance of the peace. Samuel C. Davis, Jr., of Boston, freshman, were taken to the college infirmary with injuries received in the melee.

The trouble started, police believed, after a water battle in one of the dormitories during a warm evening. The familiar pelting cry of "Rhinoceros, Rhinoceros!" assembled the students. A nearby policeman turned in a plea and alarm was turned in to bring apparatus to the fray.

REV. CAMILLUS SPEAKS AT HOSPITAL DEDICATION

The Rev. Camillus O. Becker, formerly of St. Joseph Catholic church, was one of the assistant masters of ceremonies at the solemn dedication of high mass by Archbishop Sebastian G. Messmer of Milwaukee, marking opening of St. Joseph's hospital, Milwaukee. The new Milwaukee hospital is located on the northwest side and has 1,200 rooms not including closets.

Father Becker reviewed the history of the order of the Sisters of St. Francis, who will minister to the ailing and the injured in the hospital. In America only fifty-eight years, the influence of the order has grown, he said, and it could be likened to mustard seed planted in St. Louis, Mo., until it has become like a great tree, covering Colorado, Montana, Missouri and Wisconsin.

INVESTIGATE BURGLARY AT APPLETON THEATRE

Police Thursday morning were investigating an attempted burglary at Brin's Appleton theatre Wednesday night or Thursday morning. Police Chief George T. Prine assigned Detective-Sergeant Matthew McGinnis to work on the case. The attempted burglary was discovered by theatre employees Thursday morning when they opened the place. Entrance had been made by forcing open a window in the women's rest room and through that room to the office. The combination had not been knocked off the safe but the marauders were unable to get the safe open. Nothing else had been damaged.

STUDENT SINGS PROGRAM FOR COLLEGE FOLKS

David Scoular, Oshkosh, well known Lawrence college conservatory student, presented a program of tenor solos yesterday in student convocation at the college. Scoular sang "The Crying of Water" by Campbell-Tipton; "Songs My Mother Taught Me," Dvorak; "So Sweet Is She," Old English. He responded to enthusiastic encore requests with "The Years At The Springs" arranged by Mrs. A. Beech; "The Wolf, or Love Lift," Mendelssohn; and "Meditation" by Russell Danbury, a Lawrence conservatory student. Lucille Nelson accompanied him.

OPEN NEW GARAGE

Announcement of the opening of a new garage, the 14 and 16 Motor Car company of Detroit, at the corner of route 1, Menasha, has been made. The company will handle repossessed cars.

20 FROM APPLETON AT ANNUAL MEETING OF STATE Y. M. C. A.

Judson G. Rosebush Re-named Delegate to National Council

More than 20 persons represented Appleton Y. M. C. A. at all or part of the state association convention meetings and the annual dinner Wednesday at Oshkosh. J. H. Harwood, president of the business meeting, and Judson G. Rosebush, treasurer, attended the annual banquet. About 200 delegates from the state attended the sessions.

With Mr. Harwood presiding, the convention opened at 10 o'clock in the morning with a business session in order. The first meeting was held in the banquet room on the mezzanine floor of the hotel. Dr. Fred Jordan of Rice Lake, Wis., conducted the morning worship period. Dr. Jordan is district superintendent of the Methodist Episcopal church of Northwest Wisconsin.

Other features of the meeting included the reading of minutes of the 1929 state convention held at Beaver Dam, by Robert Bethards, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. at Fond du Lac.

C. C. Lane, executive secretary of the central branch of the Y. M. C. A. of Milwaukee, presented nominations for position on the state board of directors which were voted upon. In separate sessions, the northern and southern electoral group chose delegates to the national council.

Judson G. Rosebush was unanimously re-elected as representative from the northern section of the state and Dr. J. B. Modestus was named as representative from the southern section.

Dr. Frank Baker, president of Milwaukee State Teachers college was speaker at the noon luncheon and business meetings were resumed at 2:30. All meetings were held at the Hotel Rank.

The afternoon session featured reports on a survey of state associations and of organized districts of the state.

Walter W. Head, Chicago banker and treasurer of the national council of the Y. M. C. A., was the principal speaker at the annual banquet.

Among the Appleton people attending the meeting were George F. Werner, general secretary of the Appleton association, C. B. Bailey, A. P. Jensen, Wayne Vincent, and W. D. Farnum of the employed clairs, P. J. Harwood, D. E. Smith, James A. Wood, A. P. Tuttle, A. C. Remley, A. R. Baas, T. E. Orblison, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Whitman, G. E. Buchanan, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Super of the board of directors and Norman Knutson, O. A. Smith, William Cole, Harry Parton and Earl Volting.

SELECT "GOOD WILL" STUDENT TOMORROW

The recipient of the Lawrence college "good-will" student scholarship for a year's study abroad will be announced tomorrow in student convocation, according to William Morton, chairman of the committee making the selection.

The campaign for funds, which has reached completion, has been successful and the committee has devoted its time to the selection of the student to meet the rigid requirements laid down. The students must have a high scholastic average, a good understanding of a foreign language, and a strong, positive personality.

Comments and opinions as to the fortunate person to receive this opportunity, not only of study but also of representing the Lawrence student body in European nations, have been very current on the college campus. The disclosure tomorrow is being anxiously awaited by students and faculty alike.

WARM DAYS, COOL NIGHTS TO CONTINUE

Warm days and cool nights have been Appleton's mood for the last two days and apparently will continue, according to weather forecasts. The weather man has predicted a little change in temperature with a few showers in the extreme northern portion of the state and perhaps cloudy sky tonight and Friday.

A cool northwest wind Wednesday evening checked a typical spring day and cooled off the air just enough to make sleeping comfortable and a top coat a necessity for motoring. Thursday morning's sun warmed things up a bit and at noon the mercury was at 66. The lowest mark Wednesday night was reported at 47.

BOOK VAUDEVILLE SHOW FOR MASONIC STAG

Doctors and dentists from the city are in charge of the program for the monthly star party for Masons at the Masonic temple Friday night. Dinner will be served at 6:30, followed by the entertainment program beginning at 7:30. A professional vaudeville show, consisting of five acts, has been secured.

MARSHMALLOW ROAST ENJOYED BY 4-H CLUB

A marshmallow roast was staged at the monthly meeting of the Happy Valley 4-H club last week. Following the marshmallow roast there was a business meeting and a song contest. The next meeting will be held at the schoolhouse on May 13, according to Miss Anita Schultz, club reporter.

THREE WOMEN AT MEETING IN MANITOWOC

Mrs. Chris Fahley, Miss Evelyn Brandt, and Mrs. E. F. Franz will attend the Sheboygan classical convention of the Women's missionary society Saturday at Manitowoc as delegates from First Reformed church. The convention will open Friday night with a devotional service at which Ben Stucki, superintendent of the Indian school at Neillsville, will be the speaker. The newly organized Women's Missionary society of Kiel will be welcomed into the association at this time.

Election of officers and other business will take up the time Saturday morning and in the afternoon reports of the departmental secretaries will be submitted. A banquet will be served at noon and the convention will close at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

HINT DISCORD AT M. E. SOUTHERN CONFERENCE

Dallas, Texas—(AP)—With discord hinted at with the arrival of the Rev. Rembert C. Smith, of Washington, Ga., who has promised to challenge the political activities of four bishops in the quadrennial general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, today settled down to enact religious legislation for 3,000,000 members.

Smith sent word ahead that he intended to air the alleged political activities of Bishop James Cannon of Virginia, Bishop E. D. Muzzon of North Carolina, Bishop H. M. Dix of Tennessee, and Bishop H. M. Moore of Dallas.

Election yesterday of Rev. Orkney Hutchinson of Oklahoma City, Okla., as chairman of the episcopacy committee, was taken by many of the delegates as significant, inasmuch as Rev. Hutchinson had been mentioned consistently as a probable bishop in the event the conference decided to elect.

With ecclesiastical committees organized, it was only a matter of routine for the churchmen to settle down to the task of making laws to govern the ministry and the laity for the ensuing four years.

Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes of the Chicago area, Methodist Episcopal church, spoke last night on "Intellectual Perils and Christian Protections." He was the guest bishop of the northern branch of Methodism.

SYNOD FINDS ONTARIO BOOZE LAW INADEQUATE

Toronto—(AP)—Declaring the present liquor legislation in Ontario "entirely inadequate," the Presbyterian synod of Toronto and Kingston adopted a resolution calling upon the provincial and federal governments to take such steps as shall control the liquor traffic with the view of ultimate prohibition.

Objection to the term "prohibition" was voiced by Dr. W. G. Wisheart of the University of Toronto, and the Rev. John Lennox, of Havelock.

"You will never get Canadian public opinion to submit to that," said Mr. Lennox. "As soon as you get a club over a man's head and tell him what he must do, he won't do it." The meeting approved the action of the federal parliament in refusing clearances of liquor to countries having prohibitory laws.

HIGH SCHOOL LIBRARY RECEIVES NEW BOOKS

"Journey's End" by Sherif, "The White House Gang" by Looker and "Mimosa" by Edna Ferber's newest books are three of the latest additions to the Appleton high school library.

Other books added recently are "Vocational and Moral Guidance" by Davis, "American Government and Politics" by Beard, and the latest volume of Literary Digest.

KIWANISANS SEE HOW NEWSPAPER IS MADE

An educational film on the making of the Chicago Tribune, was shown at the Kiwanis club Wednesday noon at the regular weekly meeting. The film showed activities in various departments of the newspaper. Members of the program committee met Tuesday evening at Conway hotel and outlined programs to July 1. Ray Eichelberger is chairman of the committee.

Y. M. C. A. DIRECTORS WILL MEET TONIGHT

Directors of Appleton Y. M. C. A. will meet at 7:30 tonight at the association building. Reports of employment officers will be heard and routine business transacted. The annual state convention of the association Wednesday also will be discussed.

BIRTHS

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Tyson, 1214 E. Pacific-st, at St. Elizabeth hospital Saturday.

A daughter was born Saturday to Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Schultz, 1425 E. Gunn-st, at St. Elizabeth hospital.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

A marriage license was issued Thursday by John E. Hantsch, county clerk, to Martin Vande Zanden, route 1, Oneida and Minnie Van Beck, route 2, West De Pere.

SKISER SERVICE

Services will be held at Moses Mount (five synagogues) at 8 o'clock Friday night. The sermon by the Rabbi J. S. Glick will be "The Fountain of Perpetual Youth."

Maybe one reason why so many of our teams take their names from history is that they sometimes make runs.

NEW RASH OF DOG RACE TRACKS MAY APPEAR IN CHICAGO

States Attorney's Office Acts to Block This Gambling Activity

BY OWEN L. SCOTT

Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press Chicago—(CPA)—Racing hounds again are attempting to get the housewives of this metropolis by the ear, coupling grocery money and upsetting family budgets.

A regular rash of dog race tracks is about to break out in the four corners of the city, if the courts permit, and now it is proposed to turn the $7,000,000 Chicago stadium into a glorified kennel club, designed to wear dollars away from the gullible.

This running of whippets, the so-called "poor man's race horse," is a hard trade. It is described by business men as affording peculiarly vicious type of gambling because of the appeal to housewives who toss away their allowance money with reckless abandon. The result is that legitimate business suffers.

Just how real this appeal may be judged by the fact that the state attorney reports that the Capone organization which is credited with having the greater part of the local concession—protected by the courts—realized $700,000 profit in one year from a single track. This has led Pat Roche, chief investigator for State Attorney John A. Swanson to say:

"If the stadium opens with dog races, I'll see that these hounds are put in the dog pound. It is a shame to have a $700,000 profit to be made by public officials the association of Commerce and like agencies might as well close up their tent."

The gangster-hoodlum element got its hands on horse racing here two years ago when Terry Druggan and Frankie Lake, beer barons, gained control of the fashionable Arlington Heights track.

Business men finally drove them out and took over the establishment. But dog racing has been particularly repulsive because of the many methods of framing the events.

The running of whippets for sport is a practice at least one hundred years old. It started as a rabbit baiting pastime as these speed merchants of the dog kingdom were developed. The modern whippet is one of the fastest things that runs. It can make 200 yards in about eleven seconds and does over sixty miles an hour when in high gear.

Training as racers starts in puppyhood as the animals are taught to chase mechanical rabbits. The racing dogs are spirited and put up an exciting show.

The trouble comes when they are used to extract hard earned pay checks from the class of people who make that type of racing their sport. Track operators have a score of ways of fixing the outcome of races. They use the regular pari-mutuel system of betting, but so far have convinced the courts that it's not betting at all, but rather involves the purchase by the gambler of an interest in the dog.

Businessmen are concerned over the sport because of its special attraction to housewives. Too much grocery money finds its way into the coffers of promoters, who sometimes represent big time gangsters.

BLAST ENDANGERS PLANT

Bayonne, N. J.—(AP)—The entire plant of the Gulf Refining company was in danger of destruction today after a tanker loaded with gasoline exploded at the pier. Between 30 and 40 men were injured and three members of the tanker's crew were missing. Flames spread swiftly across the yard and attacked several fuel tanks and a warehouse where gasoline was stored.

DEATHS

MRS. M. L. MUNSERT

Mrs. M. L. Munsert, 74, of Clintonville died Wednesday evening. She had been in failing health for several months but had been seriously ill about a week. She was born in Hortonville, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Schmitt, and moved to Bear Creek when she married M. L. Munsert. In 1882 the family moved to Clintonville. Mr. Munsert died two years ago.

Survivors are W. J. Munsert, Oconto Falls, and Mrs. E. A. Miller, Clintonville; four grandchildren and two brothers, John Schmitt, Clintonville, and Nicholas Schmitt, Hortonville. The Munserts were long connected with the lumber industry in and near Clintonville and well known throughout this section of the state.

State May Rest Today In Trial Of Governor

Thomas quoted the governor as saying he "had no campaign committee."

In the hearing, the governor was asked concerning his knowledge of campaign expenditures.

He was quoted as saying he knew nothing of this "because I have no committee."

Returning to examination, the prosecution asked why in the John Doe hearing he had mentioned giving orders only to Chase. He explained it was because the questions generally mentioned only Chase and did not concern the other two company heads.

"I never gave Chase," he said, "any authority to incur expenses—neither did I incur expenses, except those for postage."

He testified that he had asked Superior Judge S. B. Schell, Madison, who presided in the John Doe hearing, to make the testimony public "but he didn't for some reason. I was willing to have it made public."

Walter J. Pfister, city editor of the Sheboygan Press, was the next witness. Prosecutors asked him about several stories carried in the paper. He said several had been received from George Geiger, a publicity agent for Kohler during the campaign.

Pfister was asked how the items were brought to him. He said some were brought down by a Kohler truck driver, and some came by phone. On several occasions he said he called Geiger.

Charles E. Broughton, editor and publisher of the Press, said items from Kohler were printed because they were legitimate news in his territory.

"Our paper is a Democrat paper," he said. "We ordered everything from Kohler to be published. We had no interest in State Republican publicity, as a Democrat paper, and used none of it, but considered material from Kohler as news."

Later he said that every day, the Press gets howling scores and other news from Kohler, which is brought down in a truck.

Geiger, he said, was considered a good newspaperman and his matter cleared the city desk without correction.

Harry Maier, telegraph editor of the Press, testified he went on a plane trip to Oshkosh with the governor and Geiger July 16. He identified a clipping from the Press in which Kohler was quoted as saying his campaign "would be an enlarged front porch campaign." He wrote the item.

"Did the governor say that," asked Prosecutor Wilkie.

"He did."

Wilkie attempted thrice to introduce the clipping as evidence, but the judge ruled against him. He emphasized that the item indicated the governor had served notice of the "pilgrimage" to Kohler by voters.

LETTERS DESTROYED

A. J. Kroos was asked if he had any correspondence concerning pilgrimages to Kohler. He did not recall, but "if there were any letters they would have been destroyed in the regular course of business," he said.

L. P. Chase, company attorney, told of being elected president of a Kohler-for-Governor club formed in the village. Over objections of the prosecution, he said that the organization was voluntary.

This cross-examination of Wilkie was used to elicit from him a statement that his conversation with Kohler concerning campaign expenses was "in sport, humorous and facetious."

He was asked whether the committee in any way was controlled by the governor's personal campaign.

"No," was his answer. "The governor conducted his own campaign."

"Did Kohler ever authorize you or the committee to spend any money for him?"

"He did not."

"During the campaign, how frequently did you see Kohler?"

"At the most three times."

"Did the committee raise its own money?"

"It did."

"Did Kohler ever contribute one cent?"

"He did not."

Explaining his conversation with Kohler, he said the governor had dropped in at the Milwaukee offices and just stopped to chat with him a minute. The discussion was entirely facetious, he said.

Wilkie asked if George Angelbeck (of the Kohler Co.) did not have the power to supervise advertising.

"No, I controlled it," Wilkie said.

After the defense had objected that Wilkie was trying to impeach his own witness, the judge ordered him to take up a new line of questioning.

Wilkie asked that the record show that he had obtained but been unable to serve subpoenas for Mrs. Harry Thomas, Sheboygan, Republican national committeewoman for Wisconsin; Carl Kahn, a publicity worker and former Milwaukee newspaperman; and George Meredith, Milwaukee contractor. George Vite, national committeeman had been summoned but was ill and could not appear.

CAPONE NIGHT CLUBS RAIDED AT CHICAGO

Chicago—(AP)—Special prohibition agents, acting under order from Washington, raided two Capone-operated night clubs in Cicero early today, made five arrests and seized a small quantity of liquor.

The Cotton club, a popular resort operated by Ralph Capone, brother of Al (Scarface) Capone, and the Greyhound inn, also a Capone night club, were the places raided.

At the Cotton club the raiders seized records which they hope may give information showing Capone's reputed connections with the beer traffic in Cicero. The men arrested were bartenders and waiters. Ralph Capone was not found.

The raid at the Cotton club was made when the place was filled with fashionably dressed women and men. None of the patrons was questioned or molested. At the Greyhound inn there were several hoodlums among the patrons, the raiders said. Two pistols were found on the floor.

PARKER'S REJECTION

The senate has rejected President Hoover's appointment of Judge John J. Parker for the United States supreme court by a vote of 41 to 39. Sixteen other senators were paired for and against him. Twenty-nine Republicans and 10 Democrats voted for confirmation and 23 Democrats and 17 Republicans with one Independent voted to defeat him. In the Republican party most of the old stand-pat crowd were found on the side of Judge Parker and the liberals against him. The same is true to a certain extent of the Democrats. In a general way this represents, we think, public opinion throughout the country.

Four factors operated to prevent confirmation of Judge Parker. One was his labor decision in the Redjacket case which while technically defended could have been better explained. It could have been shown, for instance, that he was not in sympathy with the precedent he felt bound to follow, were that the fact. The second was his frank statement of opinion concerning negro participation in southern politics. The third was the fact that the appointment could fairly be construed as, in a measure, political. The fourth was the failure by his partisans to establish that extraordinary and outstanding ability which members of the supreme bench should possess. While negative in its effects, the fourth cause was nevertheless potent. Justice Hughes was opposed with almost equal vigor, and with even more bitter personal attack, but his great record and his very eminent capacity and fitness for the high honor were such as to break down the opposition.

All things considered, the country may congratulate itself that the Parker appointment was defeated. We cannot help but feel that President Hoover was led to make it without a full knowledge of the objections that might be raised to it and with too much reliance upon the advice and pressure of friends. While Judge Parker's real leanings and philosophy were not disclosed by the hearings, nevertheless the impression is justified, we think, that he belongs to the conservatives rather than the liberals. It is to the latter class President Hoover by his training and experience and concern for the national interests ought to look, we believe, to supply this vacancy.

A MEASURE OF CIVIC CONSCIOUSNESS

There is no better means of measuring the civic consciousness of any community than the buying habits. No one in the home community, least of all the purchaser, profits from buying out of town, and everyone is the gainer when the purchase is made at home. Every dollar sent out of the city is a dollar taken out of home circulation, is just that much less money available for paying salaries of home people and development of the home community.

In this complicated age the prosperity of every person depends in a large measure upon the prosperity of everyone else. If the merchants are less prosperous because their prospective customers do their trading in other cities the merchants are not the only sufferers. If their business falls off because of out-of-town trading they are compelled to reduce their staff of employees and people without work have no purchasing power and if purchasing power is reduced merchants will sell still less and a vicious circle is created.

No community can be prosperous unless its business people are prospering and by the same token any city is prosperous in which its merchants are making money.

Appleton is no exception to this rule. This city will continue to grow and to prosper only so long as the people of Appleton do their trading here. Merchants, because of their conspicuous position in the economic life of the city, are called upon to do more than their share toward the development of the community and they are enabled to give this help only because they have the patronage of the people who live here. If this patronage is withdrawn and sent elsewhere the businessman will be in no position to continue his part in community enterprise and a period of stagnation or even worse is sure to follow.

THE NEW TARIFF BILL

A manifesto signed by over a thousand American economists calls upon congress to reject the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill and the president to veto it in case it is passed. Many of the signers are authorities on political economy. They are taking a non-partisan view of the subject and presenting it from the standpoint of what they conceive to be sound national economy. They are not politicians, they are not interested businessmen, they are not manufacturers, they are neither importers nor exporters. They are men who nevertheless have an intimate knowledge of commercial conditions here and abroad.

They point out that the wholesale revision undertaken by congress is a wide departure from what the president asked when he summoned congress in extra session. The supposed purpose of tariff revision was for the benefit of the farmer. The president's message made revision a part of his general program for farm relief which included the act setting up the farm board. Immediately the protected interests of the country got busy and set the machinery to work for a general revision of duties upward. We have had a vivid picture of the working of this machinery through the testimony before the lobby investigating committee of the senate, particularly in the industrial "welfare" work of Massachusetts and Pennsylvania. From it emerged a bill which increases rates on numerous articles of necessity. The consumer is to be taxed more for his clothing, for much of his food, for household equipment and building material.

The bill cannot fail to cause an increase in the cost of living and a decrease in the purchasing power of the working man's wage. It is of doubtful benefit to the farmer not only because it will increase his living and operating expenses, but because the added protection given his own products probably will have little or no effect in raising the prices of what he sells. This, the protesting economists point out, is because his difficulty is not that of competition by foreign producers, but inability to market his surplus crops outside of the United States. The problem is what to do with marketable surpluses, and in approaching it world conditions have to be considered rather than purely domestic. The prospect is then that the tariff will not only not benefit the farmer but will actually injure him.

There is a widespread belief that the high wage standards of the country are solely the result of the tariff, but this is far from the truth. Some of the highest protected industries pay the lowest wages and some of the non-protected industries pay the highest wages. Moreover, there are many millions of workers whose occupation has no relation to tariff. Protection is only partly responsible for American prosperity. American brains, ingenuity, progressiveness, initiative, resourcefulness, are as much responsible for the economic position we occupy as all of the tariffs combined. Both parties today accept the doctrine that our basic and important industries ought to receive tariff protection to equalize the difference in cost of production at home and abroad, but a tariff beyond that is an imposition on the consumer and a burden on our national prosperity. In addition it helps to augment the enrichment of the few at the expense of the many. There is every reason to believe that the present tariff revision represents protection of this character.

The Hungarian government has granted a concession for an electric power plant that will burn the low-grade peat of that country and supply power to Budapest and other cities.

England has 250,000 foreign visitors every year. Germany has eight times that number and France six times as many.

Significantly enough—the coin was not a dime—it was a NICKEL!

"COMMON COUNCIL PLANS ACTION TO KEEP DOGS QUIET"

Now let's approach this problem in a sane, scientific way. After all, dogs have feelings just like the rest of us. We can approach Bowser quietly and maybe talk the whole thing over like gentlemen:

"Bowser, of pal, do you really think it's necessary to make such a noise just about the time everyone's going to sleep?"

"Wuff." (Meaning, 'Aw, I was just trying to have some fun!')

"But, Bowser, don't you think you could adapt yourself to the great forward movement of our civilization and learn to keep decent hours like the rest of us?"

"Wuff." (Meaning 'what hours and what civilization?')

"Now just look at all the trouble they're having in India."

"Wuff." (Meaning 'What's that got to do with me?')

"Nothing, Bowser, except that it's a political uprising, and you dogs are getting yourself into politics—why the matter is even coming up before the Appleton council!"

"Wuff-wuff." (Meaning most anything.)

JOAN OF ARC'S VICTORY

On May 8, 1430, after 10 days of fighting, Joan of Arc drove the English from Orleans, the French city which they had besieged for 10 months.

She had been placed in command of 10,000 men and sent to aid Dunois at Orleans. Her arrival fired the enthusiasm of the weakened French forces and instilled in them a new confidence. On May 6, therefore, she decided to attack the English. Displaying uncommon strategy, Joan successfully led her forces against the English only to have her men lose heart when the enemy counter-attacked.

Her captives advised her to withdraw, declaring they would not participate in further attacks. But Joan refused to listen to them and, the next day, led the communal militia to the attack of Fourelles which was taken from the English after fierce fighting.

At once the face of the war was changed. The French spirit woke again and within a week, the enemy was driven from the principal positions on the Loire.

LOOKING BACKWARD

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Thursday, May 11, 1905

Invitations had been sent out for the jubilee convention of Knights of Pythias which was to be held at Odd Fellow hall June 1.

Marriage licenses were issued the day before to John Wachter and Lizzie Becher, Appleton; John Kamp, Appleton, and Lizzie Gehring, Grand Chute.

James Green was to leave that night for Chicago on business.

Harry Hayes had returned from an extended visit with friends at Eau Claire.

T. M. Ashton and Charles Waterman had returned from Fond du Lac where they attended the May music festival.

Irwin J. Church was to leave the next day for Butte, Montana, to accept a position for the summer with the street railway company.

Miss Emma Patten, daughter of Mrs. Margaret Patten, Appleton, was a member of the class which was to graduate from Mount Vernon seminary, Washington, D. C., May 25.

J. S. Wolf left the previous day for Chicago and Milwaukee on a brief business trip.

Allice Nelson, a senior at Appleton high school, gave an oration before the school that afternoon entitled "Marie Antoinette."

TEN YEARS AGO

Thursday, May 6, 1920

Despite a recommendation of the committee of the whole that salaries of all members of the police and fire departments be increased $10 per month, the council defeated the resolution the night before by a 6 to 5 vote.

Miss Bertha Lane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Lang, 855 Bennett-st., and Arthur Traut, Menasha, were married at 9 o'clock that morning at St. Joseph church.

Mrs. Edgar Walter entertained at a miscellaneous shower the previous Wednesday night at her home on Eighth-st., in honor of Miss Elizabeth Stoffel, who was soon to be married to Edwin Heymen.

Mr. and Mrs. Alois Dohr visited at Oshkosh the previous Friday with Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Schneider.

Miss Nola McCullough was guest of honor at a surprise shower the night before given by the Misses Alma Frill and Oldlands Glueckstein at the home of the former, Spencer-st.

Applications for marriage licenses were made that morning at the office of the county clerk by George L. Sullivan, Appleton, and Leora C. Mazum, Leona Lake; Peter Fumings, Freedom and Clara Eril, Appleton.

GROWING PAINS AND WHAT THEY MEAN.

A survey made in the county of Middlesex, England, showed that 25 per cent of the children there had complained of growing pains. A similar survey made in Rochester, N. Y., showed that 7 per cent of the school children had complained of growing pains. Heart disease was found in 1.8 per cent of Rochester school children and in 2.7 percent of London school children. Of the English children, 1 per cent had chorea (St. Vitus dance), while only 0.5 per cent of the American children had it.

There has been a disposition to ascribe the excessive prevalence of so-called rheumatism in England to the climate, to damp, cold houses and all that sort of thing. Even now some of our medical colleagues vigorously uphold this idea. Myself do not like to be all wet, especially when it is cold, but if I had to be I'd strive to hear up cheerfully under the discomfort, knowing that it couldn't rob me of such health as I might have to begin with, and having reason to believe—mind I say only believe—that a little cod liver oil ration would compensate pretty well for the ultraviolet I might miss by reason of the dark, foggy, dull, leaden, clammy, dismal, damp clothes-compelling weather or climate. In other words it seems to me the greater prevalence of so-called rheumatism fever or rheumatism in England is due to the comparatively small amount of ultraviolet rays that reach the naked skin of the Englishman. Remember, England lies in the latitude of Labrador, and the sun's rays are slanting up there and comparatively poor in ultraviolet at all times.

Although the English doctors, and some of our own, cling fondly to the name rheumatism or rheumatic fever, nobody in modern medicine doubts that such illness or illnesses are manifestations of infection, invasion of the body by certain disease germs, particularly the type or strain called streptococcus.

Dr. Albert D. Kaiser reports that a survey made in Rochester showed that 639 children out of 20,000 who had never had their tonsils removed, developed acute rheumatic fever, whereas 299 children out of another group of 20,000 between the ages of 5 and 15 years whose tonsils had been removed an average of five years before the survey, had developed acute rheumatic fever. As I have quoted Dr. Kaiser's studies here before as tending to discourage tonsillectomy, it is only fair to quote his conclusion from the foregoing and other data. He says "tonsillectomy should be practiced in children manifesting minor manifestations of rheumatism."

Some of the minor manifestations to which he refers are early recurrent tonsillitis, malaise, rapid heart, growing or joint pains. Among a group of 105 children whose only complaint was growing pains, 19 were found to have endocarditis (involvement of heart lining or heart valves). Dr. Kaiser reminds us that very serious rheumatic fever, involving the heart, for instance, may occur even though the patient never feels any joint pain or growing pain.

When a child has "growing pains" it is well to have the doctor investigate the conditions of the tonsils and keep a watch on the heart.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
Children Out of Luck.

Our 3 year old son had Vincent's angina last winter. After his recovery the doctor explained at length to myself, my wife and the child's deoting grandparents the danger of sore throats in children, and succeeded in scaring them so that any cheesy deposit on the tonsils or other sign alarms them greatly. But nothing was said about promiscuous kissing, and such contact between the child and his young cousins as they caution one another about exposure to drafts, wet feet and the like. (E. J. H.)

Answer—Maybe the doctor knew of the kissing hazard but feared to dwel on it lest the old folks think him a wild fanatic. You see, the public health authorities are holding such knowledge in abeyance, pending the vague future when the public will have enough intelligence to understand. This same situation explains the present practice of our most progressive public health officers, cautioning people about the danger of infection via the spray of uncovered cough or sneeze, but preserving polite silence about the same danger in the spray of ordinary conversation. Be patient—give us another 20 years or so and we'll dare to deal with all these things quite frankly.

Vitamin Concentrates.

Please inform us about a proprietary concentrate of Vitamin A and Vitamin D which I understand is many times superior to cod liver oil for infants. Our doctor seemed impressed by the new "dope" and advised me to stick to cod liver oil. (B. A. E.)

Answer.—So do I. There are satisfactory concentrates of the vitamins available, but they are very expensive and unnecessary except where the patient cannot get the vitamins in natural foods or cod liver oil.

Girl Victim of Tobaccoism.

Could you please advise me of a cure for the cigaret habit? I have smoked incessantly for the past 10 years. . . . Before I acquired the habit I had a very good voice, could swim well and was fairly successful in athletics generally. Now I can hardly get enough breath to walk to and from the office and I can't keep up with my gym class. (J. A.)

Answer.—Well, it's an old story, but nowadays young women have to see for themselves before they will believe it. Send a stamped addressed envelope and ask for instructions for breaking the smoking habit. No advice will be given unless your request indicates that you have the habit.

The Tynymites

By Hal Cochran

THE peedier lady said, "Hello! I s'pose you youngsters want to know just what to do with this big cart that I push 'round all day. Well, I will tell you. Yes, s'ree! This queer cart earns my bread for me. Of course I have to work and it is work that is far from play."

"Along the street folks hear me yell and bring out things they want to sell. I buy all sorts of things until my wagon's piled up high. I shorty fix things up a bit until I'm sure they're looking fit. And then I sell the things again. A wise old soul am I."

"Of course, on everything I take, a profit I am bound to make. That's how I earn my living. Now you know just what to do. And now, my lads, if you'd be kind, please tell me, if you do not mind, just how you spend the live long day. Are you boys working, too?"

Woe Scouty said, "I must confess that now and then we work, I guess, but usually we're traveling to see what we can see."

"Well, well, that's fine," the lady said. "Peckah you'd better run ahead and see some more things now. Don't waste your precious time on me."

The Tynies figured she was right and they had soon walked out of sight. The Travel Man explained things as they sauntered down the street. Some fine old buildings caught their eye and Clowny shouted, "Me, oh, me! I love to go sight-seeing. It is such a wonderful treat!"

They shortly reached a big round ball. At first they thought that it would fall away from where they were standing, but 'twas safe as it could be. Said Scouty, "Look, some folks live there!" The Travel Man replied, "That's rare. It is a modern sunlit home where air is fresh and free."

(The Tynymites are same famous German canaries in the next story.)

A BYSTANDER IN WASHINGTON

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington — Random notes in A Washington Day Book:

A glance at Ruth Hanna McCormick's record as a member of congress will reveal that she relied more on other methods to strengthen her political fences than her office as representative - at - large from Illinois.

Since the slim, dynamic daughter of Mark Hanna took her seat in the house of representatives in the 71st congress, beginning with the convening of the special session to consider farm relief and tariff revision on April 15, 1929, the Congressional Record credits her with having:

Introduced a total of 20 pension and claims bills.

Presented seven petitions and memorials to the house from constituents.

Insertion in the appendix of the Congressional Record of one speech delivered by her in Illinois on the subject of farm relief.

And no speeches on the floor of the house.

ELEGANT
Now that the pink-whiskered, sartorially elegant J. Hamilton Lewis of Illinois has been chosen by the democrats of that state to oppose Mrs. McCormick, Washington is talking of the days when "Iham" was a senator before.

Great is the revival of stories on the hill that concern the resplendent Lewis.

There is the one, for example, of how he was mistaken for the lead writer in one of Washington's most popular restaurants by a woman.

"Iham," with great pomp and formality, conducted the woman to a table and handed her a menu.

"What would you suggest for dinner?" she asked.

"Madam," "Iham" replied in most gallant fashion and bowing gracefully, "if I were not a married man I would suggest we dine together."

Whereupon he turned and walked to his own table.

DEMOCRACY
Elevation to a seat in the senate from the house of representatives has had little effect on tall Johnny Robison of Kentucky.

At 8 o'clock the other evening, unaccompanied, he was observed in a "one-arm" lunch room on Pennsylvania avenue within the shadow of the treasury.

The senator stood at the buffet counter, rubbing elbows with a messenger boy and a taxi driver until his order was filled. And he was calm, by the way, boiled halibut and mashed potatoes.

A "Who's Who in the National Capital," recently issued, failed to include the name of Mrs. Herbert Hoover, and purposely.

Only those people in Washington who have well-defined business or political connections were named. The editors of the volume could find neither for the wife of the President.

One job of being First Lady of the Land, then, must be a mythical title after all.

A six-year-old Tennessee boy was brought to the hospital by his parents to be cured of the cigaret habit. But what's the use, he'll probably take to drink now.

One reason we believe Cal Coolidge will do a lot of walking in his retirement is that he said on moving into his 16-room mansion recently: "It will make our dogs more comfortable."

ELECTRIC RATES IN CITIES VARY WITHOUT REASON

Charges Often Fixed on Basis of "What the Traffic Will Bear"

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of a series of articles by Mr. Jewell Cooke, noted Philadelphia public utilities expert, on electric rates for the home. Cooke directed Governor Pinchot's recent power survey in 1921, the biggest thing of the kind ever attempted.

BY MORRIS L. COOKE

Noted Expert on Electric Rates

Rate schedules for electricity used in the home fluctuate, over the United States, without rhyme or reason. They range from the fair rates which prevail in a few communities through a bulk of unjustifiably high rates in most communities, to a few which are absurd and outrageous.

Pittsburgh has a comparatively low top rate of 5 cents per kilowatt hour. The average domestic consumer in Pittsburgh uses 600 kilowatt hours a year, which is nearly double the average elsewhere. It just happens that the man who supplied Pittsburgh was farsighted enough to see the gain forthcoming from a low rate which would stimulate use of electricity.

But there was another community in Pennsylvania which paid 20 cents a kilowatt hour. There was no excuse for such a charge. In fact, when the company which had imposed it heard that it was going to receive statewide publicity because of the figure it promptly reduced the rate to 15 cents.

5-CENT RATE IS FAIR

We contend that a maximum 5-cent rate is the highest justifiable rate in nearly all cases but the top rates in communities near Niagara Falls, where the cheapest water power is available, are twice as high and more. Deacon N. Y. pays a rate of 12 cents. Other top rates in New York cities near Niagara Falls include: Fulton 10 cents, Hornell 11, Hudson 12, Ithaca 12, Oneida 11, Oneonta 10 and Plattsburgh 13. At the other end of the state a city the size of Yonkers actually pays 10 cents per kilowatt hour.

Other communities in New York state pay from 6 to 10 cents per kilowatt hour and the wide variation, existing in similar disorder over the country, is a demonstration of the utter disregard of standardization, as to form or price, not only between companies, but by the properties operated by the same organization, under similar conditions in approximately the same locality.

FIX OWN RATES

It has been carefully estimated that public utilities on the average fix their own rates without any regulation about 95 per cent of the time. There must be a clarification of rate bases, which are now extremely variable.

A recent major rate cut has been effected in Philadelphia. The old rate was 8 cents for the first 10 kilowatt hours, 7 cents for the next 25 and 5 cents for kilowatt hours after that. By changing the schedule from 8-7-5 to 5-5-3 the people of Philadelphia have been saved $900,000 a year. But it is interesting to observe that $5,000,000 of the electric company's annual income of $11,500,000 for domestic current came from the little consumer who always paid the top rate of 8 cents because he never used more than 10 kilowatt hours a month.

A decrease in the rate is invariably followed by an increase in consumption. This has been consistently true even since the years when electricity was regarded as a luxury for the few.

Most business concerns use uniform rates for the same class of customers and service throughout their territories. With consolidation of companies the territorial range of schedules has constantly widened. Now that current can be sent great distances from the point of lowest generation to the points of use, only artificial barriers, largely localistic, stand in the way of electric rates fairly uniform throughout the territory served for the same class of service.

MUNICIPAL PLANTS

The United States has no example of low-priced electricity furnished to the home on a scale comparable with that in Ontario, but a number of cities have succeeded in distributing electricity at substantial ly lower rates than are generally charged. Springfield, Ill., owns and operates its own electric plant. For the year ended February 29, 1926 its lighting rates were 1 cent for the first kilowatt hour, 3 cents for the next 70

SOME MORE RATES BY CITIES

Here is another table showing some of the varying domestic electric light rates charged by privately owned utilities over the United States. The figures are top rates (in cents) per kilowatt hour and when not on a straight-line basis apply to them from the first 10 to the first 200 kilowatt hours consumed. Average domestic consumption is around 50 kilowatt hours a month. Many electricity companies allow prompt payment discounts and some have special rates for cooking and heating.

and 23 cents thereafter. For cooking on a separate meter, the charge was 15 cents a kilowatt hour. The net profit of the plant had increased from $12,455 in 1917 to $159,137 in 1926.

Pasadena, Calif., also distributes electricity for less than usual rates. For the year ended June 30, 1927, its average rate for residence lighting was 4.8 cents per kilowatt hour and 2.7 cents for residence power.

Cleveland, Los Angeles, Seattle, Tacoma and Jacksonville are a few of the other cities operating their own plants at low costs and low rates, with increasing use of electricity by their citizens.

But in most cities the top rate on the first bracket of kilowatt hours is so high that few can afford to get out of it. In Hartford, Conn., for example, which has a rate slightly below the average—5.9 cents, only four per cent of the consumers use enough electricity to pay less.

CALIFORNIA CHEAPEST

California, as a section, appears to provide the cheapest domestic electricity rates. The state has a wealth of available water power. Tacoma, Wash., has generated electricity by water power for sale at extremely low rates, which have been reached by successive reductions. Houses are heated by electricity in Tacoma at a rate of only one-half cent, on a separate meter, per kilowatt hour.

The Cleveland Electric Light company has been for years operating under a maximum rate of 5 cents per kilowatt hour, imposed by ordinance of the city council. The rate has been shown to be sufficiently remunerative by the price the company's stock commands in the market, the company's high investment rating and the low rate at which it obtains its capital.

The Massachusetts Public Service Commission a year ago or two reduced the net maximum price at which the Worcester Electric Light company in Massachusetts could sell electricity to five cents.

More and more cities are going to come down to the five-cent top rate.

Kiwi Is Probably The World's Strangest Bird

Washington, D. C.—Ever hear of a kiwi? Rear Admiral Byrd has one. Not a real kiwi, but a silver model of a kiwi, presented to him by New Zealanders in honor of his flight to the South Pole.

"The kiwi is a singular bird," says a bulletin of the National Geographic Society from its headquarters in Washington, D. C.

To New Zealand the kiwi is a sort of national mascot. It owes its selection, apparently, to the fact that it is one of the strangest creatures living in an area of the world that is famous for curious beasts and birds. Kiwis are first cousins to the cross word puzzle emu bird and are relatives of the rheas and cassowaries.

"The kiwi has no wings. It cannot fly.

"When collectors brought the first kiwi skin and carcass to London, naturalists doubted there could be such a bird. Even today observers describe it as a cross between a gourd and a football.

"The adult kiwi is about as large as a hen, has over 20 feet, and a long bill. The law, like the 'possum' sleeps in daytime rolled up in a hole under the roots of a tree. It is also like a dog.

It rambles through the bush at night sniffing noisily as it smells the ground for earthworms and its said to growl if disturbed during the daytime.

"Curiously it emits a penetrating cry, 'hou-wai'.

"While the chief purpose of the long bill is to root out earthworms some writers report that the kiwi also uses its bill as a cane or prop to rest its head and neck when fatigue overtakes it.

When the mother kiwi lays an egg or two she is through. The male kiwi must sit on the egg or eggs and hatch them. And such goes! Naturalists marvel that the kiwi, a bird the size of a hen, can lay an egg eight inches long and 3 inches wide; an egg weighing one-quarter as much as the bird herself.

Daelke Is New Head Of Eagles

ARTHUR W. Daelke was elected president of Appleton aerle, at the annual election of officers Wednesday night at Eagle hall. Elmer E. Koerner was named junior past president, Julian A. Bender was chosen vice president, and Perry P. Donnelly was elected chaplain. Charles Schimpf was re-elected secretary of the aerle. The new treasurer is Howard D. Crosby, Webster Schillaber will be conductor, and Clarence Krabbe and William Schneider were chosen inside and outside guards, respectively. Hubert Wettstein was elected trustee for three years and Dr. D. S. Runnels and Dr. W. C. Felton were chosen aerle physicians. Installation of officers will be held June 4.

The lodge will sponsor an Eagle old time dancing party Friday night at the hall, featuring Isaac Duprey and his Southern Lumberjacks. This orchestra specializes in two steps, square dances, and old fashioned waltzes. Dancing will begin at 8 o'clock and continue until 1. The party is for Eagles and their friends.

It was decided to put sound deafeners under the blowing alleys, work to be begun immediately. A Mothers' Day class initiation will be held May 28, and plans are being made to take in between 25 and 50 candidates.

A report on the bowling tournament held recently at Milwaukee was given by Elmer Koerner, but as yet no final results have been announced as the prize list has not yet been received. Plans were made for the organization of a hard ball team. About 63 members were present.

North St. His subject will be the Appreciation of Music. Prof. Mursell has written two books on music and has appeared in several recitals at the college during the past two or three years. He is an authority on music, his special interest being the piano. Mrs. Wilson S. Taylor, who has recently returned from the international convention on the causes and cures of war, which was held at Washington, D. C., the first week in April, will give a talk on the convention. The committee in charge of the meeting includes Mrs. Frank Wheeler, chairman; Miss Inez Gurnee, Miss Dorothy Nelson, Mrs. Wilson S. Taylor and Mrs. H. M. Weston.

STUDENTS SING IN RECITAL

Students of Miss Helen Mueller will appear in a voice recital at Peabody hall Friday evening. Miss Ramona Huesmann and Miss Kathryn Uglow will be the accompanists. Those who will take part are the Misses Kathleen Liebl, Frances Beaubien, Lydia Peterman, Helen Andruskevich, Lois Schilling, Emmy Lou Williams, Edith Smith, and Lucille Austin.

CLUB MEETINGS

Mrs. Edward Lehman and Mrs. George Hogreiver were appointed on the committee to make arrangements for the annual banquet of Lady Eagles June 4 at the meeting Wednesday afternoon at the Womens club. Following the business session, cards were played and prizes were won by Mrs. Hogreiver, Mrs. Edward Delchon and Mrs. Lehman. Twelve members were present.

The Sunshine club will meet at 2:30 Friday afternoon with Mrs. Stella Shary, 911 E. Washington-st. Assistant hostesses will be Mrs. Dora Buttles and Mrs. Agnes Haterbeck.

The K and A club was entertained Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. T. A. Jacobs, Wrightstown. Eight members from Appleton and Kaukauna were present. Bridge was played and prizes were won by Janet Knight, Irene Poegnan and Louise Knight.

Mrs. C. L. Marston will entertain the Over the Teacups club at 2:45 Friday afternoon at her home on N. Park-ave. Mrs. Nina P. Purdy will be the reader, Mrs. H. F. Hecker will present the magazine article and Mrs. Homer Benton will discuss current events.

Dr. M. M. Bober, professor of economics at Lawrence college, will address a meeting of the Trinity club, campus philosophical group at 7:30 tonight at Hamar house. A brief discussion will follow the talk.

Mrs. Frank Schaubert, E. Wednesday, entertained the Wednesday afternoon Bridge club Wednesday afternoon at her home. Prizes were won by Mrs. Willard Peerenboom, Mrs. Emil Court, and Mrs. Thomas Hill. The next meeting will be in two weeks at the home of Mrs. I. Maxwell, Memorial-ld.

Mrs. George Schwab, State-st., entertained the R. B. Bridge club Tuesday night at her home. Prizes were won by Mrs. Gladys Vogel and Miss Martha Lueckel. The club will meet next Tuesday with Mrs. Vogel, C. College-ave.

The Town Girls' Association, an organization of Lawrence college students, will hold a down-town meeting this afternoon. All members are invited to meet at Hamar house at 5 o'clock. A meeting will be in charge of Mrs. M. M. Bober.

Women's Union Members Are Divided Into Groups

THE membership of the Women's Union of First Baptist church was divided into its various groups at a meeting of the Union Tuesday afternoon at the church. Leaders for the groups were named at this time.

Mrs. E. S. Miller will be leader of Group No. 1, and her workers are Mrs. Reno Clark, Mrs. A. Warner, Mrs. A. Packard, Miss E. Culver, Mrs. L. Clark, Mrs. H. Gillette, Mrs. I. Kimball, Mrs. C. Schneider, Mrs. J. Zimmerman, Mrs. F. J. Cooney, Mrs. C. Dawmerman, Mrs. S. R. Wags.

LARGE CROWD AT BANQUET OF CHURCH GROUP

About 100 people attended the annual Mother-Daughter banquet given jointly by the Young Women's Missionary Circle and the Women's Missionary society of Emmanuel Evangelical church Wednesday evening at the church. Mrs. W. F. Berg gave a toast to daughters, and Mrs. Bay Sailerich responded with a toast to mothers. The latter spoke on the meaning and origin of Mothers' Day. Miss Florence Schmidt gave a number of quotations of great men about their mothers, and Miss Marion Dettman presented a poem.

A pageant, "The Discovery," was given by Miss Aronell Bielek, Miss Gladys Albrecht, and Miss Rosetta Selig. It was based on the finding of a link of clothes mother and grand-mother used to wear, and was in the form of a dress review. A feature of the entertainment was the singing of mother and daughter songs to the tune of old favorite melodies, led by Mrs. N. Zylstra. The program was arranged by Mrs. Zylstra, Mrs. George Breitrick, and Ida Dickvoss. Mrs. Arthur Erdman was chairman of the dining room and the social committee included Mrs. William Luehke, Mrs. Arthur Schneider, and Mrs. Leonard Seybold.

CHURCH SOCIETIES

A program of entertainment will be given by the Christian Endeavor society of First Reformed church at 7:45 Friday night at the church. Songs, a play, and musical selections will comprise the program. A box social will follow the entertainment. Roland Klippenhan, Eva Engel, and Wilmer Werner are in charge of arrangements.

Games were played at the social meeting of Zion Lutheran Mission society of Zion Lutheran church Wednesday afternoon at the parish school auditorium. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Lillian Wheeler, Mrs. Clara Hoffman, Mrs. Jennie Buchert, Mrs. Effie Buske, Mrs. Elizabeth Hoffman, and Mrs. Elsie Secker. The next meeting will be a business session May 21.

Mrs. Ed Kuebler gave the educational topic at the meeting of the Ladies Aid society of Mt. Olive Lutheran church Wednesday afternoon at the church. She spoke on the cata-cata, in observance of National Music Week. Eighty members were present. A social hour followed the business meeting. The members decided to hold the next meeting on June 4 at Pierce park. If the weather permits. This meeting will begin at 2:30 instead of 2 o'clock. Educational topics for the next three months will be dispensed with if the meetings are held at the park.

A business meeting of the Young Peoples' society of Zion Lutheran church was held Monday night at Zion parish school. Preparations were made for a church picnic to be held in June. Following the business session, Mrs. John Engel, Jr., gave several short sketches.

CARD PARTIES

A large crowd attended the card party and social given by the Christian Mothers' society of St. Joseph church Wednesday night at the parish hall. Prizes at schafkopf were won by Selma Dell, Mrs. Joseph Houle, Ed Helman, and George Auers, at bridge by Mrs. R. Ebban and Miss Rosa Liethen, at dice by Annette Rechner and Genevieve Becker, and at plumpack by Mrs. P. Dohr and Mrs. J. Lehrer. Mrs. Peter Post was in charge of the party. Chet Manthe's orchestra of Kimberly provided the music.

The Christian Mothers' society of St. Mary church will sponsor a card party at 2:30 Friday afternoon at Columbia hall. Mrs. E. J. Femal and Mrs. Matt McGinnis will be in charge. Bridge and schafkopf will be played.

WEDDINGS

Miss Bernice Collins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Collins, 716 W. Spring-st., and Leonard Van Dinter, son of Martin Van Dinter, 833 W. Wisconsin-ave, were married at 8:30 Wednesday morning at St. Mary church, the Rev. Leo Binder performing the ceremony. Miss Effie Apps and Miss Helen Pfeiffer were bridesmaids and the bridesmaid was attended by Henry Van Dinter and Clarence Collins. A wedding breakfast was served to members of the wedding party at the Van Dinter home. Mr. and Mrs. Van Dinter will reside at 833 W. Wisconsin-ave. Out of town guests at the wedding were Mrs. N. Van Dinter, Little Chute, and Mrs. Mary Ferguson, Green Bay.

The Story of Sue

MARGERY HALE
© 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

RONALD'S mouth opened to speak to the girl. Whether he recognized her voice or not, Sue couldn't tell. But she placed a slim white hand over his lips. She didn't know what she was going to say or why she was going to say it.

But Corrinne saved her the effort. "Oh! I beg your pardon. I have the wrong car. I..." She laughed, and Sue caught a frightened sound in it. She wanted to open the door and pull her into safety, away from whoever it was that was threatening her in the night. But she wanted to know who it was. And if she didn't see now, Corrinne would never tell her. Besides, if there was anything that her sister's honest heart objected to, it was a spy.

A low murmur of a coming car, sounded, far in the distance. It grew louder. The girl stepped into the shadows. "Quick, turn out your lights," Sue ordered, and Ronald snapped the switch.

That was Corrinne. She's meeting someone, I don't know whom, but I've got to find out. That's why I came." She felt the words being said through no volition of her own. I...

Ronald's lips framed a whistling exclamation. "Of all the... Sue, you're a Number One sport. I'll admit I wondered what had happened to suggest a slip-away just as the dice was good. We'll find who he is, and I'll break his neck in two if you say the word."

Because it was so dark, and the air was so tense and strange, and though something sinister crept nearer and nearer as the purr of the engine grew louder, Sue asked: "Then you would do anything for Corrinne?"

"Certainly, since she's your sister," he answered. "You say the word and I'll do the deed. I'm yours to command."

His voice was so cheerful and safe... almost like Jimmy's in the old days when he had been her protector in everything from spiders to mad dogs. Ronald was a peach. Maybe she could like him very much sometime.

The car was almost to them. It bounced forward and stopped with a jerk. Its lights went off.

Sue knew that their own car would probably pass unnoticed since this was a usual parking place for college cars. They were at the side of the road and it was dark.

There was something familiar about that car... long, low, plated. She strained her eyes. But lots of boys had cars that were alike. You couldn't judge anything by that.

She hoped he would get out. She had to see him! Had to!

"Corrinne!" There was something oddly familiar in that one. She gasped and sat straight. It came again. "Corrinne?"

This time, a figure separated itself from the shadows at the side of the road, and Corrinne's voice sounded gaily.

"I didn't want to risk another wrong car. I almost did. Everything is beautifully O. K. Let's hurry, though. I'm so scared."

The car turned and swung off and with a bound the other car was after them, just far enough behind to be unseen.

But Sue's mind was in a jumble. Was it... Could it have been.

NEXT: Sue recognizes the man with Corrinne.

DISPLAY RELICS AT M. E. CHURCH FROLIC AND FAIR

Fortune tellers, balloons, squawkers, icecream, pop, hamburgers, popcorn, peanuts—everything a county fair usually boasts will be found at the Methodist church Friday evening when the Family Frolic and Fair will be held. The fair gates will open at 5 o'clock and close at 10 o'clock.

A one act play will have two performances during the evening, there will be an exhibit of relics and trinkets, including a display of the relics of Eleazer Williams, reputed to be the last Dauphin of France, a specialty number under the direction of Mrs. O. R. Kloehn's group, a talking doll feature by Donald McMahon and a fair game under the direction of the I. B. club.

Those in charge of booths include Mrs. Edith Wright, ice cream cones and cake; Mrs. Otto Zuehlke, chili, pie and coffee; Mrs. E. G. Schueler, doughnuts; Mrs. John Engel, Jr., homemade candy and cracker jack; the Men's club, hamburgers, hot dogs; Mrs. O. R. Kloehn, pop, popcorn and peanuts; a country store, Mrs. Otto Fischer and Mrs. W. D. Schaefer, balloons and other novelties, Mrs. L. H. Dillon.

The cast of the play, "With or Without," to be given under the direction of Mrs. John Engel, Jr., includes Karl Haugen, Lois Kloehn, Catherine Abbey, Mrs. H. E. Griffen, Loretta Ricker, Dorothy Davis, Helena Koletzke, Hettigton, Cora Guenther, Charles Widenstein, Mrs. E. M. Gough and Arthur Smith.

MRS. RUSSELL NEW HEAD OF FORTNIGHTLY

Officers of the Fortnightly club for the coming year were elected at a meeting Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Howard Russell 114 S. Meade-st. New officers are Mrs. Richard White, president; Mrs. Edward Mielke, vice president; Mrs. Henry Rothchild, secretary; and Mrs. Joseph Benton, treasurer. Those who are in office at the present time include Mrs. E. B. Morse, president; Mrs. Karl Haugen, vice president; Mrs. Homer Benton, secretary; and Mrs. F. G. Moyle, treasurer.

Mrs. Wilmer Schaefer reviewed "The Woman of Andros" by Thornton Wilder. Fifteen members were present. The club will be entertained at a tea May 21 at the home of Mrs. George Wettengel, Alton-st. when activities for the year will be brought to a close. Assistant hostesses will be Miss Mabel Wolter, Mrs. E. S. Colvin, and Mrs. George Nixon. Mrs. J. L. Johns will review "Byron" by Maurois.

TALKIE DIRECTOR HAS NO SNAP JOB, MR. PEARCE PROVES

Work and Worry and Plenty of It Are Associated With This Field

BY JESSIE HENDERSON
Copyright, 1936, by Cons. Press
Hollywood, Calif.—Anybody with a yen to become a talkie director would do well to consult first Leslie Pearce, directing "The Fall Guy" for RKO, and learn about pictures from him. Take a day in Mr. Pearce's routine, and then enter some good iron foundry. Take yesterday.

Mr. Pearce leaped to the lot with a glad cry at 8 a. m., to be met with the news that one of his players had been killed in an airplane crash and that, instead of spending time on personal grief, Mr. Pearce would have to retake several scenes in which the victim had appeared. All right. He gets set to retake the scenes. He gets set till noon, and begins shooting. Hey! Cut! Somebody has left out a snappy line of dialogue. Somebody else has deliberately cut out the snappy line. Both somebodies throw themselves pell mell into violent dispute. Mr. Pearce pours oil on the troubled writers, gets set again, and again the cameras begin to function.

Hullabaloo at the door. Lusty knocking which in the mike registers as a cannonade.

Cut! The retake is ruined. "What the—?" inquires Mr. Pearce, mopping his brow. In rushes the airplane victim to explain that he wasn't killed at all, and offers to fight Mr. Pearce for putting in a substitute. Well, it's 12:30. Mr. Pearce totters toward lunch.

He never makes it. An interviewer intercepts him to ask about his life history, for use in an obituary "just in case."

Ha! At last. The big scene. It is 4 in the afternoon, only six hours later than the moment at which Mr. Pearce meant to shoot the big scene, anyway. Everything is ready. A "take" of a street in New York city. The street noises record perfectly. The hull comes in the right place so the villain can get in his throat, and the hero is at the peak of his energetic reply, when bam! Gawrrr! Clankety-smash!

It's a noise in Constantinople, and it has spoiled the New York city sound track. Constantinople is located on a set in the next street on the lot, and there appears to be heck to pay in the golden horn. Mr. Pearce waits for the riot in Constantinople to die down, sends a liaison officer to ask the Turks to lay off for a spell, and starts his New York street scene again.

Comes the sunset. The final shot of the day is "in the can." Mr. Pearce, exhausted, collapses on a handy box which, as it appears, contains a resistance coil. The resistance coil short-circuits with a flash and a bang. And the message of Mr. Pearce to anybody with a yen to become a talkie director is: "Are you kidding me?"

SPORTS HATS GROW QUEERER EVERY DAY

Some of Them Combine Dull Shades With Bright, and So on

BY AILEEN LAMONT
Copyright, 1936, by Cons. Press
New York—Sports hats grow curlier and curlier, as Aileen in Wonderland said. Some of the newer Paris ones combine dull shades with bright shades, trim the hat with a wide band of grosgrain ribbon, and trim the ribbon with rows of flat wooden buttons. The buttons are shaded from dull to bright tones, and it's a wonder that anyone can keep his eyes on the sport instead of the spectator.

A certain voluptuous harem air hangs about London bodiceurs these days. Not only have lights grown soft and colors radiant, but you ought to see the lounging pajamas. Even negligees are pajamas now. For example, pale rose, luscious purple, or pure white pajamas of soft silk lavishly hand embroidered with fauna and flora that never grew on land or sea.

If you are planning a good cry, don't use one of the hand-painted handkerchiefs in the first place, the chiffon on which they are composed is so thin that a good cry would splash right through. In the second place, the hand painted scenery would run. Still, to thrust into the sports coat pocket, one of these handies with a hand painted stretch of woodland, a hunting scene, or a couple of mountains, is the height of swank.

On the Air Tonight

At present enticing Ed Wynn's "Simple Simon" at the Ziegfeld Theater, Ruth Etting will stay away long enough to join with Rudy Vallee and his Connecticut Yankees in a program of old and new favorites at 6 o'clock over WTMJ and the NBC network.

Helen Oelheim, contralto, and Della Baker, soprano, will be heard in a program to be broadcast over WBBM and the Columbia stations at 8 o'clock. They will be accompanied by David Mendoza's orchestra.

A program of the works of Edward MacDowell, American composer, will be presented over WTMJ and the NBC stations at 8 p. m. A feature of the program will be the playing of some of her husband's compositions by Mrs. Edw. and MacDowell, widow of the composer.

An hour of dance music will be presented by R. A. Rolfe and his orchestra over WTMJ and the NBC network at 10 o'clock. The orchestra is heard twice weekly over WTMJ.

Next of the series of remembrances of the old masters will be that of "Monte" at 7 o'clock, over WTMJ.

Fear Fight With Moslems At Eucharistic Congress

Carthage, Tunisia—(C)—Newspapers here today warned the 20,000 or more pilgrims who have assembled for the thirtieth Eucharistic congress that unbelievers will not be admitted to Moslem mosques. The warning was given with a desire to prevent friction between the clerics and laymen and the followers of Islam.

Action of Cardinal Lepicier, papal delegate, in asking release of 11 Arab students who were arrested over the weekend for planning an anti-Christian demonstration during the congress, has had a favorable influence on their compatriots, but the feeling between the two groups has not been entirely quenched.

Four thousand children assembled at Tunis this morning to receive their first communion. Adults were excluded from the ceremony. Masses were said at all churches in the region, and a pontifical high mass was set for this afternoon at the Carthage cathedral.

The first general assembly outside the Carthage cathedral will be held at 5 o'clock p. m. when "children of the Eucharistic crusade" will offer palms at the old amphitheatre in commemoration of early Christians who were given over to wild beasts there.

Thousands of early Christians became martyrs in the arena which stood in the Roman town succeeding the powerful city which, affluent under Hannibal, finally was destroyed and razed by the Roman legions.

There are 16,000 visitors here for the five days' religious program which began yesterday. More than 500 Americans are among those present, including 260 just arrived here from Constantinople last night.

and the NBC network. Mario Chamlee, tenor; a male quartette, a string quartette, and a trio of trumpets will take part in the broadcast.

A dramatization of the great train robbery at Roundout, Ill., and the way it was solved and more than two million dollars recovered will be enacted for the radio audience in a program to be broadcast over WBBM and the Columbia chain at 7 p. m.

"The Dakota Gold Rush" is the dramatic episode of the history of the West which will be given to a musical background by an orchestra under the direction of Joseph Koestner over WLS and the NBC stations at 9 o'clock.

A Message from The Fashion Shop

Three years ago we entered Appleton's mercantile field as retailers and stylists of Ladies Apparel.

We came here unannounced — without any bally hoo advertising or sensational announcements regarding our type of store — service or any other feature.

We did come here however, with a definite merchandising policy — A Friendly Store — Truth in Advertising — Personal, Friendly Service — and the merchandising of the smartest and most distinctively styled apparel of finest quality only.

We came here to fill the need of a high grade exclusive shop for misses and young women — specializing in individual garments of quality at Modest Prices.

How well we have succeeded is evidenced by the constant growing of a splendid clientele whom we are proud to serve. Continued confidence of hundreds of patrons who make this Smart Shop "Their Shop."

Gratifying annual increases in our business is evident that this Shop has adhered to its merchandising policy — and, has been warmly accepted as one of Appleton's smartest and most individual shops.

We are three years young — and, are now Appleton's Oldest Exclusive Ladies' Apparel Shop under one ownership — one management — one trade name. We came here to establish ourselves as a part of Appleton, commercially and civically. With that thought in mind — our merchandising policy would not allow us to employ irresponsible — sensational advertising.

Three years young — and the oldest shop of its kind in Appleton, we mention this again to acquaint you with the radical change this field has undergone within so short a period of time. It is a highly specialized field today — Buying and selling methods are different, the profession requires a thorough knowledge of style markets, of merchandise, its origin and construction, tailoring — dress making and a keen artistic mind for style.

Success in this branch of public serving is attained only by honest, sincere business methods and faithful adherence to a definite merchandising policy.

We are well pleased with our success in Appleton — we are very grateful to you for your share of it — and, we solicit your continued confidence and the confidence of every miss and woman in Appleton and vicinity.

We pledge ourselves to adhere to our fine policy as in the past three years — and to serve you even better as we enter our fourth year of business.

We are going to make you proud of wearing Fashion Shop Clothes — Tho we are now the oldest Ladies' Shop in Appleton — we will not cease growing and improving.

We have plans for the future, we hope to make The Fashion Shop one of the very finest in Wisconsin.

With your assistance we hope to establish the most complete serving Apparel Shop within a radius of many, many miles.

Tomorrow — we open our Third Anniversary Event, a real bargain celebration — our thanks to you with truly amazing values and savings on every garment in the shop. We include in this Anniversary Event our newest summer stocks so recently received.

We invite you to come early for your share of our Appreciation Values. You are promised savings such as you had not hoped to find now — in the heart of the season.

ALDERMEN DECIDE TO BUY FURNITURE FOR COUNCIL ROOM

Override Majority Report of Committee After Heated Discussion

Neenah—Following a heated discussion, the common council Wednesday night authorized the city clerk to advertise for bids for new furniture for the council chambers. Although the old council had authorized the committee on parks to purchase the furniture, the majority of the committee opposed the purchase in view of possible remodeling at the city hall, it was reported. It was felt the purchase should not be made until after the remodeling is completed.

In spite of this majority sentiment Alderman Robert Martin introduced a minority report recommending the purchase and the report was adopted.

A number of petitions and requests were received. They asked for a walk on part of Ladd-ave; lights on Third-ave near Wisconsin-ave; light at corner of Harrison-st and Fourth-ave; and walks on Seventh-st between Nicolet-blvd and Hewitt-sts where there are no walks. A request was received from the Daughters of the American Revolution asking that comfort stations at the park be kept open from May 7 to Oct. 7 and that benches and tables be put out for use of the park visitors. The Red Cross asked that a room at the city hall be arranged for use of the Red Cross secretary, Mrs. Bishop, who also is in charge of the city's poor. An invitation to the council to attend the annual Memorial Day ceremonies at Oak Hill cemetery and to take part in the parade on the morning of May 30, was presented and a resolution for a walk on the west side of Sixth-st between Hewitt and Green-sts was received. Petitions were granted and the requests referred to the proper committees.

The clerk reported on money received for perpetual care of cemetery lots owned by L. P. Hanson, Henry Blohm and Harriet Scherck, and his action in accepting the money was approved. Monthly reports of the police department, poor department and the justices, together with the quarterly report of sealer of weights and measures, were accepted.

CITY SEEKS PROPERTY

The board of public works recommended the city attorney secure riparian rights to property abutting the river between Lincoln-st and the Chicago and Northwestern railway bridge for building a retaining wall. The Lincoln-st sewer extension will be built behind the wall the space between the main land and the retaining wall to be filled and used as a park or playground. This will eliminate the sewer outlet and stagnant water near Theda Clark hospital. The report was accepted and a resolution passed authorizing Attorney John O'Leary to proceed with the action.

A report from the city planning commission, recommending several streets be renamed and suggesting names of streets in the MacMahon plat in the Second ward, was accepted and a resolution passed naming First-ave, Whitenack-st, Second-ave, Tyler-st, Third-ave, Jackson-st, Fourth-ave, McKinley-st, Fifth-ave, Roosevelt-st, Sixth-ave, Wilson-st, Washington-st, Adams-st, Ann-st, Main-st, Riverside, Wheeler-st and Cherry-st, Spruce-st. A communication from Miss Helen Arneemann objecting to naming streets after people because they had resided upon that street for several years was read and placed on file.

The committee on streets, highways and bridges asked that Stone-st in the First ward be opened up to the new high school.

Alderman William Schmidt suggested that several streets in that neighborhood be straightened out and opened up for through traffic. The same committee reported that Soo line crossings needed repair and that a light on west end of Ellen-st is needed.

MAY PLANT TREES
Removal of trees along the terraces where the new improvements are being made was discussed. Atorney O'Leary presented an opinion that the property owners could plant trees on the terrace but if the tree constitutes obstruction to traffic on a public road or street, it can be removed at the property owners' expense. The discussion arose after Alderman Schmidt had asked for an ordinance prohibiting the planting of trees hereafter upon terraces.

A resolution authorizing the attorney to revise the city ordinance and establish a municipal code, was passed. Among the ordinances presented for passage was one prohibiting dumping of garbage in the city limits; changing names of streets, and one outlining the duties of the board of health. The latter was not passed inasmuch as a suitable ordinance covering this phase of the city work will be included in the new code. Mayor Sande claimed the ordinance is unnecessary and that the health board is legally constituted.

Several damage claims against the city caused by defective sewers were referred to the attorney and finance committee. Bills amounting to $25,640.35 were authorized paid, and the appointment by the mayor of H. F. Anspach as a member of the police and fire commission was ratified by the council.

Question of the Wisconsin Power and Light company furnishing buses to the cemetery during the summer was discussed and the city clerk instructed to communicate with the office at Oshkosh.

Director's Hold Meeting

BASKET SYSTEM IS APPROVED AT BEACH

Neenah—The committee on parks and public buildings met Wednesday evening and authorized bids for establishment of the basket system at the public bathing beach. The beach will be without a life saver as the new caretaker will attend only to the bathroom and bathing suits. It was felt that there are enough bathers in the water to offer assistance should an accident occur.

Leorimar Bradke, who was in charge for the past four years, will be succeeded by Edward Toeppler, a member of the graduating class of 1930. Miss Margaret Zemlock is to be replaced by Miss Margaret Blenker. The new system will be installed as soon as possible.

RESERVE GROUPS MEET AT HALL THIS EVENING

Neenah—The annual observance of Fraternal Day will start at 8 o'clock Thursday evening at Equitable Reserve association hall on S. ## KIWANIS ASKS FOR NEW POST OFFICE

Resolution Requesting New Building Adopted by Club

Menasha—Definite group action made in an attempt to secure a new post office building for the city has been taken by the Menasha Kiwanis club, it was revealed Wednesday by Frank Leison, secretary. The action is in the form of a resolution, signed by all members of the club and sent to the post master general at Washington, D. C. The resolution reads: Whereas the city of Menasha, has by the 1930 census, showed itself to have grown approximately 33 1-3 per cent to a city of approximately 10,000 people, and

Whereas the growth in receipts of the Menasha post office has also grown in proportion to the paid increase in population or in excess thereof, and

Whereas, as members of the Kiwanis club of Menasha, Winnebago, Wis., believe that the city of Menasha is entitled to a modern, convenient and beautiful public post office building the city of Menasha, inasmuch as said city has never heretofore had such post office building for the convenience of its citizens, and

Whereas the Kiwanis club of Menasha appreciates the efforts extended by Honorable Florian M. Lamont, member of congress, in behalf of the city of Menasha, in regard to the appropriation for a post office building,

Now, therefore, be it resolved by the Kiwanis club of Menasha, Wis., that request be made for the construction of the proposed Menasha post office building and this resolution and request is hereby submitted for said purpose.

STIMSON TO MAP DETAILS OF ARMS PACT AT HEARING

Senate Foreign Relations Group Begins Consideration on Monday

Washington—(AP)—The senate foreign relations committee will begin its hearings on the London naval treaty next Monday with Secretary Stimson, chief delegate to the recent conference, explaining its provisions and the events leading to the agreement.

On the following day, the senate naval committee plans to institute hearings intended to ascertain the views of ranking officials of the navy department on the big-cruiser clauses of the pact. Chairman Hale believes they represent a departure from established American principles.

Thus, the senate early in the week will be officially embarked upon its discussion of the treaty, which administration leaders are confident will lead to its ratification.

Few senators have pronounced a definite attitude toward the pact. Chairman Doran of the foreign relations committee, has given it his conditional approval and it has the support of Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader and Reed, Republican, Pennsylvania, who were members of the delegation and hold places on the committee.

The naval committee plans to call Secretary Adams who was also a member of the delegation, as its first witness. It is possible, however, that he will be unable to appear on Tuesday as he may be summoned before the foreign relations committee at that time.

Hale believes that the treaty involves a disregard of the American policy of building up the fleet of 10,000-ton 8-inch-gun cruisers. Congress has authorized the construction of 23 vessels of this type, whereas the pact would limit the United States to 18.

The house appropriation committee late yesterday struck from its report on the $377,035,000 naval appropriations bill statements predicting economies to be achieved as a result of the treaty. For passages praising the work of the American delegates and estimating future savings, it substituted a statement that "the committee did not undertake to pass upon possibilities that might flow therefrom in such a way as to indicate commitments."

CHARGE 2 MEN DROVE THEIR CARS TOO FAST

Two men, arrested Wednesday on charges of speeding, were to be arraigned in municipal court before Judge Theodore Berg Thursday afternoon to answer complaints. Both men were arrested by Gus Hirschorn, motorcycle officer. They are Edward Madalski, 1071 Island-st., Milwaukee, charged with driving 31 miles an hour on E. College-ave, and Ovi Smith, 413 N. Division-st., charged with driving 31 miles an hour on E. Wisconsin-ave.

New Judge

FORMER APPLETON LAWYER IS JUDGE

E. C. Smith Takes Over New Duties of Municipal Court at Tomahawk

E. C. Smith, former Appleton attorney who moved to Tomahawk last January, has taken over his duties as municipal judge in that city, the office to which he was elected in April without opposition. The municipal court in Tomahawk has been closed since the death of Judge H. G. Bell, last summer.

Mr. Smith was born on a farm in Kewaunee-co., and during the time he practiced law in Okauchie-co. he was a candidate for district attorney several times. In 1910 Mr. Smith opened a law office at Oconto where he practiced law for five years; he then practiced law at Seymour for 10 years; and moved to Appleton in 1924 to practice law here for five years.

OKLAHOMANS FLOCKING TO CITIES OF STATE

Oklahoma City, Okla.—(AP)—Oklahomans are leaving the smaller towns and villages and moving to cities of more than 10,000 population, partial federal census reports make certain.

Statistics available from 155 cities and towns of the state show an aggregate gain of 56,911 or 12.3 per cent despite heavy losses reported by the smaller communities.

Thirty-six of the 66 towns of less than 500 population, which already have reported, show an aggregate loss of 1,813 or 8.2 per cent.

Only one city—Pawhuska—reported a decrease in the 5,000 to 10,000 classification, while seven others showed gains which brought the increase total to 14,342 or 36.6 per cent.

All cities in the 10,000 or over group reported heavy gains, with not one chalking up a decrease. The aggregate gain in this classification so far is $9,344 or 37.2 per cent.

LIQUOR PROFITS DROP

Regina, Sask.—(AP)—A decrease of $631,166 in Saskatchewan's liquor profits for the year ended March 31 over the previous year shown in the annual statement today of Howard McConnell, provincial treasurer. Profits for the year were $2,395,413. Several government stores reported operating at a loss.

RAILROAD SHARES RECOVER PART OF RECENT DECLINES

20 Per Cent of Total Loss
Made Up in Last Few Days

BY CHARLES F. SPEARE
Wall Street, New York—(CPA)—

That phase of the stock market liquidation which has been represented in the persistent decline in railroad shares of all degrees of value and which brought this group on Monday to an average about 10 points below the high of the year and close to the low of 1929, has been followed by a recovery in the last two days of about 20 per cent from the total loss.

Some of the high dividend paying rails and the lower grades of carrier stocks, which may be affected by mergers sooner or later, made yesterday's additional advances during Wednesday's session. There has been what Wall Street calls "good buying" of them by bargain hunters and by investment trusts in the last few days on the theory that they had discounted a considerable portion of the effect of current poor earnings and were selling on a yield basis that warranted their purchase regardless of the immediate market trend in them.

Preliminary figures of railroad gross earnings for April do not show up well compared with a year ago, but they are relatively better in some sections of the country than those for March or February.

NO GAINS SEEN

So far as railroad managers can estimate from present traffic tendencies, there will be no material gains this month or in June, when gross earnings are again expected to make an unfavorable exhibit with those of last year.

Considerable attention was given Wednesday to the analysis of the first quarter results made public by the bureau of railroad economics. This covers gross operating revenues, net railway income, operating expenses, taxes, and most important of all, the percentage of earnings on property investment in the eight regions into which the railroads of the country are divided.

Operating revenues in the quarter decreased approximately $150,000,000, or 10 per cent. This not only reflected the falling off in revenue from freight, but a continuation of the long downward trend in passenger traffic. As an offset to the loss in gross earnings, the railroads were able to reduce their operating expenses by about $60,000,000, or 5.4 per cent, and in the three months they paid in taxes $7,200,000 less than in the first three months of 1929. It is extremely difficult for a carrier to readjust its expenses in a short time to a 10 per cent reduction in gross earnings especially when, as in the present situation, it feels a responsibility for continuing employment in order to assist the government program for sustaining business.

GREATER EARNINGS DROP
Consequently, the percentage of decrease in net earnings in the March quarter is found to be very much greater than that in gross operating revenues. Actually the loss from last year's figure was about $32,000,000, or 32 per cent, compared with the 10 per cent reduction in gross. This brought about the smallest rate of return on property investment for the country as a whole, and for certain of the regional divisions, in many years.

As an indication of how severe conditions were in the March quarter, the bureau of railway economics analysis states that thirty-four class 1 railroads operated at a loss in this period. In other words, they did not cover their actual expenses and taxes. Therefore they were unable to put anything aside for fixed charges or dividends. It often happens that in this same quarter many roads barely cover their fixed charges. They do not expect to earn their dividends until later in the year. Conditions are seldom so bad however, that they show in the "red" in their operating account.

The severest losses were in the eastern and western districts and in the south.

Two sections of the country stand out conspicuously in comparison with the others in having had a fairly good March quarter. There are good New England, which earned 5.54 per cent on its property investment against 3.86 per cent for the central eastern region, and the Pocahontas region, which earned 8.11 per cent, or much above the standard rate of return compared with 2.89 per cent in the southern district. The smallest return was that in the northwestern region, which was only 1.30 per cent on property investment compared with 2.88 per cent for the total western district, and 3.18 per cent for the southwestern region.

On Vacation

John Freude, rural mail carrier on route 2 at the Appleton postoffice, started his annual vacation of two weeks Thursday. During his absence his work will be taken care of by Walter Long, substitute carrier.

More Prize Winners To Be Announced Tomorrow In Money Earning Idea Test

Tomorrow the third from the last list of prize winners in the Appleton Post-Crescent's On to Washington contest will be announced.

Who will be the lucky boys and girls whose money-earning suggestions win a half-dollar this week? Every rural and parochial school graduate in the county will be watching eagerly for the paper to find out if he has won a prize.

The total number of letters received this week was very close to what the contest editor expected and he hopes the boys and girls will continue to write to him until the last week of the contest. The last prize list will be published on May 21, which, incidentally, is Home Merchants Day in Appleton.

If you are not among the prize winners this week just grit your teeth, get down to work, and make up your mind that you will be there in either the second last or the last lists. Keep right on trying until the end. Never say die. Don't be discouraged. That's the proper spirit to show.

FOUR CHIEF ISSUES IN NEXT CAMPAIGN

have stood four-square with him on all major policies and appointments.

While not openly threatening reprisals, it is known that in at least one instance the administration forces considered seriously encouraging an opposing candidate in the primaries if the senator in question did not line up with the president on important votes in the senate. It is not claimed that Mr. Hoover is behind such a move, but that his friends are threatening opposition as a means of exerting pressure.

Economic factors will furnish the background in the campaign, with the unemployment figures playing a vital part. The Republicans will have to defend the theme that conditions are gradually improving, while the Democrats are already preparing to point to the business depression as the result of over-optimistic statements of U.S. and preceding administrations. Basically of course, no administration has very much to do with the ups and downs of business, but so long as the politicians insist on claiming credit for future prosperity when elections are in the offing they are faced with the necessity of defense when the economic curve goes in the wrong direction. Pick-up in industry, therefore, in the autumn or an unchanged condition will furnish the answer to the whole campaign.

out is original, clever and practical, then you will get a prize.

But, please remember, you cannot expect to win a prize if the suggestion you send in has already appeared in the paper or if it has been submitted previously by some other student. Just bear that in mind. Sit down now and see if you can't figure out an idea which will bring you a half dollar as a prize in the Post-Crescent's contest.

FIREMEN CALLED OUT TWICE WITHIN HOUR

The fire department was called out twice Wednesday night. The first call came about 10:10 when a bonfire at the city home on W. Spencer street threatened nearby buildings. The firemen watched this blaze for an hour. The second call came at 10:45 from the corner of W. Eighth and Spruce streets. A stump was afire and the firemen watched this blaze for half an hour.

WOMAN REFUSES PARK HONOR

Mrs. L. R. Itell, of Edmonton, England, has modestly refused the recent offer of the Edmonton Council to name a city park for her in recognition of her work in the district. Mrs. Itell spends her days in collecting contributions for a co-operative club which supplies provisions, and her evenings in presiding as chairman of the Edmonton District Council. She is also a Midsex County Councillor and a Justice of the Peace.

HOME MERCHANTS OFFER CASH FOR BEST PROGRAMS

Contest to Be Conducted in
Merchants Day May 23

Notices were mailed this week by A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools, to rural 4-H clubs, home economics clubs, parent-teacher associations, rural schools and other rural groups, announcing the contest which is being conducted by the Appleton Home Merchants association in connection with home merchants day in Appleton on Friday, May 23.

The entertainment contest, which is to be staged at the armory that afternoon, is one of three major features expected to attract an unusually large number of rural residents to Appleton that day.

In the morning the eighth annual county field day will be held at Wilson Junior high school athletic field. In the afternoon, beginning at 2 o'clock, and continuing until 5, the entertainment contest will take place at the armory.

Cash prizes of $15, $10 and $5 are being offered by the home merchants to the rural groups presenting the best entertainment. Any rural group of any nature is eligible to enter the contest. The only rules are that entries must be filed with Mr. Meating on or before May 17. No entertainment feature shall last more than 15 minutes.

This means that it will be possible for between 10 and 12 rural groups to appear in the program.

REGISTER EARLY

This illustrates the need of registering as soon as possible for this contest because when a sufficient number of entries have been received further entries will be rejected. After all the applications are in each rural group will be assigned to a place on the program. The entertainment presentations may consist of any feature which the club desires to present. There may be short plays, musical selections, readings, recitations, pantomimes, stunts or demonstrations of any nature.

Judges in the contest have not yet been chosen, but they will soon be announced by the special home merchants association committee in charge of the day's program.

An admission charge of 10 cents will be made to those attending this entertainment and all the funds realized will be used to help the graduates on their trip to Washington.

A group of rural school students will sell refreshments at the armory before and after the entertainment and all the proceeds of this sale will be used to help pay the expenses of the graduates.

Winners of this contest will be announced at the mass meeting that same evening at Lawrence Memorial chapel. This mass meeting is the third and final event on the day's program.

Angora—(CP)—The Turkish parliament, trying to help newspapers and magazine burdened by expense connected with the new alphabet and doubled tariffs on paper, is considering granting government subsidies of from $1,000 to $4,000 annually to each publication.

PROPOSED EMBARGO ON RUSSIAN COAL EXCITES INTEREST
Many American Manufacturers Eye Suggestion With Disapproval

BY J. C. ROYLE
Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press
Washington—(CPA)—Proposals for an embargo against importation of Russian coal which have been made to the treasury department are being watched with a calculating and disapproving eye by some American manufacturers.

The anthracite cooperative congress has made the suggestion to the treasury officials on the grounds that Russian hard coal should be excluded under the 1923 tariff act, which carries in its provisions an anti-dumping clause. The proposal is endorsed by the American Federation of Labor.

The labor men assert they have proof that the Soviet government is using forced labor and convict labor in the production of coal. There is no doubt that the coal is of excellent quality, coming from the immense beds of the Donetz basin. It is claimed the Soviets can mine it, run it to the port of Mariupol, on the Sea of Azov, through the Black Sea, the Dardanelles, the Mediterranean and across the Atlantic to New England and Canada cheaper than coal of similar quality can be shipped to Canada and New England from the anthracite fields of Pennsylvania.

HARD STRUGGLE NOW
The anthracite industry of Pennsylvania is having a hard struggle against the competition of liquid and bituminous fuels. Moreover, the working agreement between miners and operators in the anthracite fields runs out in August and negotiations must begin shortly for its renewal. Anthracite unquestionably has lost many of its market outlets. Operators and miners agree on that. If Russia takes others, the operators will have added difficulty in making profits, and the miners will have less chance of asking and getting better wages and working conditions.

But the treasury department now finds itself caught between the horns of a dilemma. Russia, selling its coal at a profit, is using the money therefrom to buy huge quantities of American agricultural and mining machinery and ships. If a coal embargo goes into effect, it is believed it would stop the flow of ready cash to producers of other commodities bought through the Amtorg Corporation, the official purchasing agency of the Soviets.

The United States does not recognize the Soviet republics, but money is recognized under any disguise by the modern manufacturer. The United States shipping board recently sold 29 ships to the Amtorg Corporation. These, it is true, were not to operate in Trans-Atlantic trade; but with the margin of profit, trans-shipment would not impose great hardships since they are to operate under the Soviet flag.

Another factor has just been injected into the situation by the investigation of Grover Whalen, police commissioner of New York, to testify before a senate committee as to the political activities of the Amtorg Corporation.

The treasury department is now working on a plan to extricate itself from the horns of this dilemma. It is probable that the tariff commission will be called in to help solve the problem.

POEMS BY KAUKAUNA WOMAN READY SOON
A book of poems "The Merry John and Tommy Book," written by Mary Roberta Corcoran, Kaukauna, will soon be off the press, according to the author. The 22 poems in the book are written about the children of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Wolf, 1417 N. Brewster. Miss Corcoran is a sister of Mrs. Wolf.

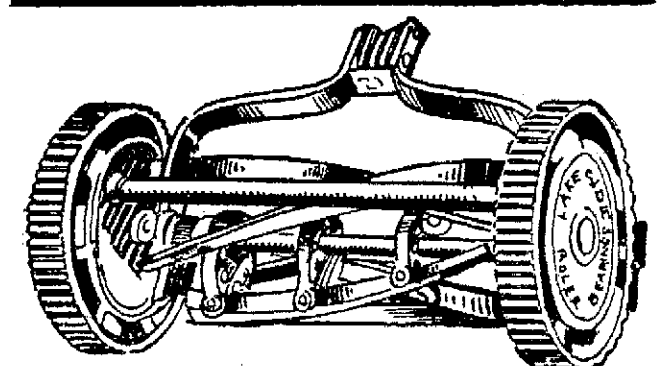

The art work in the book, which contains 15 cuts, was done by Miss Irene Baker of this city. The poems, with titles such as "The Vitamin Brothers," "The Three Wolves," "The Roller Skates," "Our Neighbor's Cat," "Brother Wolf and Brother Rabbit," and "The Parade," is especially adapted to child reading.

FORMER HOBO OF AMERICA BUILDS SOVIET RAILROAD

And He Completes Tremendous Undertaking Way Ahead of Schedule

BY LEMUEL F. PARTON
Copyright, 1930, By Cons. Press
New York.—(CPA)—Once there was an American hobo, denizen of jails and jungles, tamping ties now and then on middle western road-building jobs, who dreamed that he was boss of the biggest railroad building job in the world. Then he woke up and found it was all true, not a dream at all.

It was Bill Shatoff, soap box orator, around Division-st. and North-ave. Chicago, in the wintertime, and brake-beam philosopher in the summer, who was first in command in driving through the 1,700-mile Soviet railway, the "turksib," from Siberia into Turkestan.

It was a four-year job, costing $100,000,000 and it has just been completed, a year and a half ahead of schedule. Bill Shatoff popped the bull whip over 500,000 men and 200,000 camels. It is regarded here as one of the most remarkable feats of railroad building in the world, and Ralph Budd, president of the Great Northern Railway, will go to Russia this summer to inspect it and other units of the Soviet system.

Shatoff is now about 50 years old. Twenty years ago, in Chicago he was the companion of Grusenbergh, who later known as Borodine, looked after Soviet affairs in China; of William Nathanson, Hippolyte Hovel, Alexander Belkman, and others of the grandiose intellectual vagabondia of that day who saw the world revolution just around the corner. Grusenbergh was earnest and methodical and wanted to build the Troma truck by truck. It was he who established the "Beig Preparatory School" in Division-st. for the incultation of revolutionary doctrine.

SHATOFF LARGE MAN

Shatoff, six feet two, with a loose flop of blue-black hair and a roaring voice, wanted to bring everything off at once. Although big and belligerent, he was at the same time the most bookish of the lot and usually carried around three or four worn and tattered books with which to confound his enemies. He was a thirty-second degree anarchist and could and did recite whole pages of Kropotkin and Bakunin. He loved arguments, parades, and long words. According to old friends of Shatoff here, the story of his rise to power in Soviet Russia is as follows:

When the Czarist government fell in 1917, Shatoff left for Russia soon afterward. Nothing is known of his activities during the Kerensky-Milukoff regime. When, later, the bolshéviki were assailed by the white armies at Leningrad, the commander in charge of the defense forces lost his head and was about to turn over the city to the invaders. A huge, black haired man with a belching voice suddenly appeared out of the disordered ranks of bolshéviki soldiers and shot the frightened commander.

He then assumed command and summoned the others to a scolding attack, which he led, outside the walls.

HE SAVES CITY

The city was saved and Shatoff was placed in charge of pretty nearly everything in those parts, including banks and factories. He fought through to the end of the campaign against Wrangle, Denekin and Yudenitch. From then on, he seemed to be all over Russia at once, organizing and building and fighting. Once, as commissar of something or other, he alighted at a small railroad job and gave the boys a lesson in lining up rails and sloping in spikes. He had liked railroading, as long as it didn't interfere with soap, boric, and he taught the Russians to sing.

"Work all day with no sugar in your tea."

"Elastic rock on the king's high-way."

Naturally, he was the one best bet for the building of the Turkestan railroad. He drove it through with a chutzpah that it is said, the one-humped camels had two humps on them when they frisked. The road runs over the great plain invaded by Tamerlane and Conqueror, connecting the present central Asia railroad at Aris Zhekistan, with the trans-Siberian road at Novosibirsk. It runs 700 miles of the 1,700 along the Chinese border and opens up a vast productive region in the autonomous Soviet Republic of Kazakhstan. In connection with a $250,000,000 irrigation project, being built under the direction of Arthur Powell Davis, Oakland, Cal., engineer, it is expected to make possible the growth of a vast supply of cotton, relieving the Soviet government of its annual expenditure of $70,000,000 for cotton in America. It will also make Turkestan a great wheat outlet for Russia.

The loss to the world each year by rusting is said to be more than $2,500,000,000.

Junior Red Cross Lauded As Great Peace Agency

Washington.—(AP)—Characterizing the Junior Red Cross as the world's greatest organization of children, Dr. H. D. Wilson, national director of the American Junior Red Cross, said today it was also one of the most potent existing factors in a march toward greater international understanding.

Dr. Wilson was the final speaker before the four-day annual meeting here of the Senior American Red Cross. He said 7,000,000 Junior members were now enrolled in American public schools, while 5,000,000 other children were enrolled in the schools of 45 other nations.

One of the organization's current major activities, Dr. Wilson continued, involves an exchange of letters and photographs, descriptive articles, samples of industrial products and specimens of stamps and flora between children in all parts of the world.

"The values of this international correspondence," he said "are found in the supplementation of the usual text book material in various subjects; in the sympathetic understanding it establishes between the corresponding children and teachers and in the real friendship it creates which may be of profound significance in future international relations."

The Junior Red Cross director said that at the end of the world war the organization of children had an aggregate membership of 15,000,000. It was saved as a peace-time agency, he said, through the insistence of educators in many countries.

During the time that America was in the war, Dr. Wilson continued, more than 15,000,000 useable articles valued at more than $10,000,000, were made by the juniors. In addition, he said, $1,000,000 was raised.

"The efforts of the last few years," he said, "have been made with minor amounts of money. No solicitation is ever made of the juniors for disaster funds. Yet they come in."

ROSEBUSH DELEGATE TO Y. M. C. A. CONFAB

Oshkosh.—(AP)—More than 150 delegates to the fifty-first annual state convention of the Y. M. C. A., last night attended a banquet addressed by Walter H. Head, president of the state Bank of Chicago, and treasurer of the National Y. M. C. A. He made a plea that the youth of America be trained in views of service rather than materialistic philosophies.

J. B. Modest, Milwaukee, and Judson G. Rosebush of Appleton, were named as delegates to the national convention. The sessions continued here today.

Payne Whitney, a friend of her family, in the proposition to drill the first well on acreage near that formerly held by Marland. Out of this connection grew the Kettleman company.

Whitney is reported to have interested Talbot, Chrysler and McRoberts in the proposition and together with Miss Hollins and her brother, McKim Hollins, they put up the $100,000 capital of the company. The capital was used to buy government permits.

The larger stockholders received for their share in the sale: Miss Hollins, $2,500,000; Talbot, $1,500,000; McKim Hollins, $750,000; Payne Whitney estate, $500,000; Chrysler, $500,000; McRoberts, $500,000.

The Mexican Seaboard Oil company drilled the discovery well. Whitney told the late Ogden Mills, Sr., of the venture, and he offered to drill on behalf of the Mexican Seaboard for a slice of the Kettleman company's acreage. Mexican seaboard bought in its famous gusher in October, 1928.

Colonel Kenney, after disassociating himself with Marland, attempted to interest major companies in Kettleman hills. In 1929 he bought stock in the Kettleman company and became its technical advisor.

ANOTHER PROBE OF RADIO CORPORATION HANGING FIRE NOW

New Senatorial Investigation May Be Conducted Against Firm

BY ROBERT MACK
Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press
Washington—The rocky road of senatorial investigation again lies before the Radio Corporation of America.

Having just completed a most thorough inquiry into the ramifications of this organization and radio in general, the senate interstate commerce committee has decided to reopen its investigation to learn the why and wherefore of the latest proposed reorganization of the activities and ownership of this company and its associated and affiliated interests. Just how far the new inquiry will go depends upon developments in the immediate future.

John Lord O'Brien, assistant attorney general who has been directing the work of the department of justice in determining whether the RCA is bulging out of lawful bounds, has been called by the committee to tell about the department's views at this stage of its investigation. He will be asked, behind closed doors, to reflect the department's judgment as to whether the consummation of the new reorganization of RCA, under which General Electric and Westinghouse would relinquish their holdings in subsidiary companies of the RCA but assume substantial control of the parent company itself, violates the Sherman and Clayton Anti-Trust laws.

Should the committee, now considering new communications legislation, and operating with the power of subpoena, be satisfied with Mr. O'Brien's testimony, then the new investigation might stop there. It was indicated by committee members. On the other hand, the committee may decide to go through another comprehensive inquiry on its own with the objective of delving into reasons for the shift in the basic RCA organization.

Simultaneously, David Sarnoff, RCA president, announced that the special meeting of stockholders had voted for the 100 per cent increase in capital stock of the company which makes possible the reorganization of the reorganization. But Mr. Sarnoff stated although he is convinced the unification program is in the public interest and entirely within the law, the transfer will not be made until the department of justice has had advance notice. He said he would do this so that the federal government "might have full opportunity to make any test, which

Marinette-Co Provides Large Variety Of Fish

BY B. A. CLAFLIN
If you want a fine outing and do not wish to go far to get it, here is a suggestion which is based on my own personal knowledge of the country and conditions existing therein. Many of the inquiries I receive contain requests for information on some locality where trout, bass and pike can be taken. Such places in Wisconsin are limited in most sections where bass and pike abound there are no trout waters. We know that, but the outsiders do not.

One of the best regions where these different varieties of fish can be taken is in Marinetteco. You may camp, as a few prefer, or you may put up at one of the excellent resorts which, by the way, are never crowded. As to these I will be glad to furnish confidential information to anyone writing me. I may be able to help them avoid possible pitfalls.

The pike season opens May 25. The angler who desires to try for these big scrappeels, and also to catch the streams for trout on the same trip, will do well to visit the region I have mentioned. Boats can be procured on the Peshtigo river. The pike fishing is good anywhere from Caladron Falls down. And it is perhaps best if under taken shortly after the season opens. The big fighters run up to fifteen pounds and more in weight. More snails and ones will be taken of course, but any of them will furnish you sport according to the tackle you use.

It is easy to locate within a few minutes walk or drive from the river, and still be within easy distance of the Thunder and its branches where the trout are, so that both kinds of angling may be enjoyed in a day and with little traveling. Later on when the bass season is open, you can get them at various places on the Peshtigo. I have enjoyed some excellent sport with these scrappeels. Two lads—along the big shoulders which line the shores I use a fly rod and surface lure for them because of the greater fun experienced in playing them.

On the right shore above the Thunder and going upstream, about a mile distant, is an excellent place for trout fishing, or other wise of the legality of the corporation's position.

The senate committee decision to inquire into the transaction was prompted by demands from the independent radio industry led by B. F. Gurney, president of the Gurney-Gumson Co. of Chicago in O'Fallon, Ill. Schutte executive secretary of the Radio Protective Association for Northern pike. Old sunken stumps and debris form a natural rendezvous for them. When you offer them the right lure they take it with a smash. Around the rocks nearer the bridge Wallace will be found although this is not generally known. Live minnows are the best lures for them.

It is worth anyone's time to visit the pond on the Handsaw creek and watch the trout breaking water constantly at times for surface insects. Fishing is prohibited there however, but you are only a few minutes walk from the Thunder where you may cast to your heart's content. For diversified angling this region is hard to beat, roads are very good and the scenery all one can ask for.

Moscow—Dr. pay days are deferred for Russia. The commissariat for home affairs has prohibited the sale of vodka, wine and other alcoholic drinks when the ghost walks.

AIR MAIL AGAIN SHOWS INCREASE DURING APRIL

Appleton's air mail business, following the precedent established last January, again showed an increase in April over March, according to a report from William H. Zuehlke, acting postmaster. In April a total of 198 pounds of mail was sent from the local office compared with 164 pounds in March, 179 pounds in February, and 129 pounds in January. Mr. Zuehlke said, that exclusive of sundries, the average amount of mail here is now more than 15 pounds. He said he looked for this increase to continue again this month because of the unusual interest being shown by Appleton people in the air mail service. Unusually regular service has been rendered by the valley mail line since the first of the year, Mr. Zuehlke pointed out. The daily plane has missed only two days since Jan. 1 and both of these misses resulted when severe snow storms made flying impossible. At Green Bay, in April there was a total of 220 pounds of mail dispatched via the air.

New York—Some Britishers whose polite bewildered smiles were noticeable at a dinner in honor of the Earl of Derby have had a joke decoded for them. General Haib, wisecracked that an ancestor of the earl attached his name to an indistinguishable but what Americans call "Derbies" are known in England as "Bowlers".

Washington—Down to the cellar has gone the carpet on which Nicholas Longworth and Allen Roosevelt were married. It long graced the East room. Though the census taker isn't likely to be a marksmen, chances are he will be told to "fire away" and "shoot" when he begins asking questions.

In a debutante it's Charm

in a cigarette it's Taste

MANY FINE QUALITIES make up the "charm" that is Miss America's, but her genuine wholesomeness appeals most of all.

IN A CIGARETTE, TOO, the real appeal is wholesomeness of taste.

WITNESS CHESTERFIELD'S popularity, growing every day. No flash in the pan, but enduring popularity, earned by giving smokers a cigarette of better quality, richer aroma and finer fragrance, blended and cross-blended to just one end... "TASTE above everything".

We state it as our honest belief that the tobacco used in Chesterfield cigarettes are of finer quality and hence of better taste than in any other cigarette at the price. LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

BOY, GIRL HEAD 1930 GRADUATES

Kenneth Kendall and Esther Gherke Lead High School Seniors

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—With less than one half of a point between them two members of the high school have been selected as valedictorian, while Esther Gherke will be salutatorian. Aside from their excellent scholastic records both students have taken active part in the four years school activity. Miss Gherke was a member of the high school debate team for three years, a member of the band for four years and has three years of service with the orchestra. She represented the school in this year's oratory work. Miss Gherke has completed her plans for entering the state university.

Kendall showed qualities of a thorough student and his interest in contest essay work brought him signal honor a year ago when he won second place in the state flag contest sponsored by a Milwaukee newspaper. His prize was $200. During the past year he won similar honors in essay entered in a contest sponsored by the Knights of Columbus. He is taking one of the roles in the class play, "I'll Explain Everything."

COUNCIL DECIDES TO LEAVE TRAFFIC LIGHTS ON AVENUE

Informal Discussion Reveals Majority Sentiment Against Change

Traffic control signals will be set up at all the College-ave street intersections named in the original resolution adopted by the common council last fall, it was decided yesterday at an informal meeting of the council preceding its regular session last evening.

Considerable sentiment was expressed for taking two of the traffic signals from College-ave and placing them at the intersection of Richmond-st and Wisconsin-ave and at the intersection of Memorial drive with W. Prospect-ave, but an informal vote showed a slight majority of council members favoring leaving the signals where the first resolution specified.

Installation of the signals, designed to control pedestrian as well as automobile traffic, will be started at once.

Mayor Goodland expressed the opinion in his inaugural address last April that some of the traffic signals might be taken off College-ave and placed elsewhere and this statement aroused a storm of protest from merchants on W. College-ave. They insisted that the signals be erected as a protection to motorists and pedestrians.

A number of the aldermen, however, have consistently opposed the signals, arguing that they are no protection to pedestrians and will tend to confuse traffic.

SUPPORTS OBSERVANCE OF FREE GOVERNMENT

Madison—(P)—Observance of the 50th anniversary of the founding of the representative government on the North American continent has the full support of Gov. Walter J. Kohler.

The governor yesterday said that Gov. Frank G. Allen of Massachusetts had invited Wisconsin citizens to join Massachusetts in the observance of the 50th anniversary. Gov. Allen, J. L. Ford and George Boardman, representing the American Legion of the Bay State recently called on the governor and presented the invitation from Gov. Allen.

"Much of what is best and most fundamental in American institutions had its inception among the men and women who settled in Massachusetts three centuries ago," Gov. Kohler said. "The state has many historic spots associated with all periods of American development from early colonial times to the present. In addition, it has many fine cities and villages, interesting institutions, and a wealth of scenic beauties."

The celebration of the tercentenary of the founding of the Massachusetts Bay Colony will be held between June 1 and Dec. 1.

'ASH CAN ALLEY' DRAWS HUNDREDS TO YOSEMITE

Washington—(P)—Sliding down hill in ash can covers is the popular amusement of winter visitors to Yosemite National park, California.

Word received at the department of the interior says that 1500 persons have used the slide, named "Ash Can alley," in a single day.

The handles to the slides are removed and the coasters squat in the improved slides.

Every imaginable form of winter sport is being enjoyed in the park. During February the first annual intercollegiate winter games contest will be held for the cup sponsored by President Hoover. The three day events include hockey, snowshoe and ski races. The trophy will be presented to the winning college on February 22.

HUGE BRIDGE READY SOON

The bridge over the harbor at Sydney, Australia, is nearing completion. The structure, costing $20,000,000, has a span of 1,650 feet, and accommodates a roadway 57 feet wide, four electric tracks and two ten-foot footways. It is estimated that changes in temperature will cause a maximum expansion of 14 inches. The bridge is the world's largest of its type.

Party Women Of Britain Find Advance During Year Wasn't Startling

London—(P)—After their party has been almost a year in power, Labor party women of Great Britain are figuring up their losses, their gains, their achievements and their opportunities lost. The ledger nearly balances.

Feminists shout loudly that England has known efficient politics only since women wielded their recently-won suffrage and elected the last Labor parliament May 20 a year ago.

Anti-feminists point distressed fingers at the unemployment problem and industrial depression and say it is all the women's fault.

Neither is right, in the opinion of observers, who say that while the women have done a great deal with their new-found power, they have also used it unwisely many times.

The 14 women members have not done anything spectacular. They have taken a comparatively small part in the debates and have introduced very few public bills.

The only public bill introduced in the present session was an important one dealing with the status of illegitimate children in Scotland, introduced by the duchess of Atholl, one of the three Conservative women in the house.

Margaret Bondfield, the only woman member of the cabinet, as minister of labor has fought a hard and well planned battle over her unemployment insurance bill. This is an essentially Labor party piece of legislation, as are all matters dealing even remotely with the unemployment problem.

Susan Lawrence, the tall well-built, closely cropped gray-haired parliamentary secretary to the minister of health, is the only other woman holding a ministerial post in the house.

The ministry of health has had many bills going through the legislative mill and Miss Lawrence, as second in command of them, has had a busy and successful time.

During the debate on the widows' pension bill, the patient school-teacherish Miss Lawrence often clashed with the quick and frequently impertinent Lady Astor. These verbal spats across the floor from Labor to Conservative benches caused great amusement to the house.

The American-born little noble lady, who was the first woman elected to the commons, has had a busy year, but not in the house. First she was busy getting elected from Plymouth, which she won with a greatly reduced majority. Then she was busy entertaining the American delegates to the naval conference. She is generally known as the "woman's champion" and promoters of legislation of interest to women particularly always call on Nancy Astor for help.

Little Ellen Wilkinson, the red-headed diminutive Labor representative of Middlesbrough. Last, has been contributing her debating ability to many government bills. She has continued her fight for admission of women to the British diplomatic service and her campaign for better quarters for women M. P.'s in the house. She is also an influential member of the house kitchen committee.

Ellen, black-haired Jenny Lee, a miner's daughter and the youngest member of the house and Megan Lloyd George, the pretty blondish daughter of the Liberal leader, are seen constantly together and are known as the "three musketeers." Their youth and enthusiasm for their jobs seem to be their main points of common interest.

Miss Edith Picton-Turbervill, the tallest woman member and the holder of the amateur archery championship of South Wales, is waiting patiently for the opening of the Indian discussions. She spent seven years in India and is intensely interested in all matters pertaining to British rule in that country.

Dr. Marion Phillips, Labor member from Sunderland, besides making two or three universally praised speeches on the housing bill, has designed a sort of uniform for women M. P.'s. It is a plain black, smock-like coat which protects the truck beneath, gives a little warmth when the parliamentary walls become too chilly, and looks very neat. Her chief task during the year has been in connection with her job as chief woman officer of the Labor party.

Mrs. Mary Hamilton, Labor M. P. who has just completed a biography of Ramsay MacDonald, is a member of two important government committees that function outside the house of commons, the royal commission on the civil service and the league of nations assembly and committee.

MAKE INSPECTION OF RURAL ROUTES

John Letter, superintendent of mails at the Appleton postoffice, has started his annual inspection of the six rural routes from the local office. Mr. Letter spends a day on each route with the mail carrier. Inspection is made of roads, condition of mail boxes, lettering on the boxes and other conditions. The work will take a week and Mr. Letter will submit a report on his inspection to the department at Washington, D. C.

6 MORE COUNTY CHEESE FACTORIES IN CONTEST

Six more cheese factories in the county have entered a beautification contest conducted this summer by the Appleton Kiwanis club and the Marshall Dairy Products company of Madison in conjunction with the state department of agriculture, according to Gus Sell, county agent. Already 20 factories have entered the contest, making a total of 25 enrolled this year. One contest is being conducted for Outagamie factories only by the Kiwanis club and the other, by the Madison company, is being conducted for all factories in the state. The new factories in the contest, with the name of the owner or operator, are: Cicero factory, town of Cicero, Robert F. Drucker; Clover Blossom factory, town of Cicero, Otto Bruns; Shady Elm factory, town of Seymour, W. B. Peters; Sugar Bush factory, town of Deer Creek, L. H. Peters; Box Elder factory, town of Black Creek, J. N. Felton.

Informal Discussion Reveals Majority Sentiment Against Change

Traffic control signals will be set up at all the College-ave street intersections named in the original resolution adopted by the common council last fall, it was decided yesterday at an informal meeting of the council preceding its regular session last evening.

Considerable sentiment was expressed for taking two of the traffic signals from College-ave and placing them at the intersection of Richmond-st and Wisconsin-ave and at the intersection of Memorial drive with W. Prospect-ave, but an informal vote showed a slight majority of council members favoring leaving the signals where the first resolution specified.

Installation of the signals, designed to control pedestrian as well as automobile traffic, will be started at once.

Mayor Goodland expressed the opinion in his inaugural address last April that some of the traffic signals might be taken off College-ave and placed elsewhere and this statement aroused a storm of protest from merchants on W. # CUL DE SAC PLAIN IS STOREHOUSE OF HAITI'S WEALTH

American Agricultural Experts Plan to Develop Export Products

BY HAROLD P. BRAMAN (Associated Press Staff Writer) Port Au Prince, Haiti —(AP)—

On the edge of this seaport, extending back to the border of Santo Domingo, lies the plain of the Cul de Sac which American agricultural experts here term the future "gold mine" of Haiti.

Rich in potential export wealth, something of which Haiti now has nothing, the vast plain is only sparsely planted with products capable of being sold in other lands, and it awaits the hand of the developer.

Except for some sugar and coffee, Haiti consumes all it produces, and imports much besides. The American experts are trying to convince the country that it never will amass any degree of wealth and get into the prosperous class unless it develops an export trade.

These men advise the careful and planned planting of such export products as can be marketed satisfactorily, and they believe the Cul de Sac is an excellent spot to put such plans into operation. There are other larger valleys awaiting development, but this one is near to the ships and close to civilization.

Corn, sugar cane, coffee, bananas, tobacco, and similar products could be raised to much advantage, and cotton of an excellent fiber would well repay the effort to plant it in large quantities, say the Americans.

The experts have been trying to get the Haitians to raise corn in hope they will get enough to export. Several special types of corn have been developed on various agricultural extension farms. The chief difficulty is educating the peasant, who takes his few pounds to market and lets it go at that. The foreign experts are convinced someone with vision will have to do the developing.

An instance of development here on a large scale is a large sisal plantation near Cap Haitien in the north of Haiti. There 1,500 natives raise sisal of a standard type for export, but it probably will be a few years before this experiment is turned into cash.

Though the government and the American advisers insist the taxes are payable, the tobacco and alcohol taxes have cut down production of these two products. The people detest them as a matter of principle, and even after President Hoover's investigating commission left, large placards denouncing the taxes remained in prominent places all over Haiti.

INCREASE IN TRAFFIC ON RIVER LAST MONTH

There was a marked increase in traffic on the Fox river last month, according to a report of A. F. Everett, government engineer. During the past month the locks between De Pere and Portage were opened 1,614 times, 70,889 tons of freight, and 154 passengers passed through them.

Most of the freight was hauled between De Pere, Kaukauna and Appleton, according to Mr. Everett. Most of the passengers were commercial fishermen, who are again active on the lower river, seining rough fish, including carp, suckers and others.

There was little or no traffic on the upper Fox river, between Menasha and Portage during the past month. The locks between the two points were opened nine times, and only one ton of freight passed through them, and no passengers, according to Mr. Everett.

Arabian Kings, Enemies, Bury Hatchet On Warship

BY MILTON BRONNER

London—"Welcome, oh brother—welcome King Feisal of Iraq!" "Welcome to you brother—welcome King Ibn Saud of Nejd!"

Two tall, bearded, Arabs, clad in immaculate white, embraced and kissed after the manner of their countrymen. The suite of King Feisal and the 150 armed warriors of King Ibn Saud looked on. Ibn Saud's banner, a great green sheet, flapped in the breeze. On it were written in Arabic the words: "There is only one God and Mahomet is His Prophet." It was like a scene out of the "Arabian Nights," dating centuries back in time.

But the tone of modernity, the pulse of the twentieth century crept in, because the meeting took place on the British warship Lupin. British seaplanes zoomed around the vessel. Feisal and his party had been conveyed there in the British warship Neaculus and Ibn Saud in the British cable ship Patrick Stewart.

DIPLOMACY KILLS A WORRY

But the big thing was that the two kings, with an ancient enmity between them, had been brought together in amity. In amity they signed a treaty of peace and understanding. It was one more victory for the clever British diplomacy. It made one less worry for the British government.

The story dates back to the World War. The British got the Arab tribes to revolt against Turkey and help them in their campaign against the Turks. British troops crashed through enemy lines and captured Mesopotamia and Palestine. After the war was over, Britain was given the mandate for Palestine and Mesopotamia. The Emir Hussein, a friend of the British, was made king of the Hedjaz—that part of Arabia which contains Medina and Mecca, the two holiest cities for the Moslems. That part of Palestine beyond the Jordan was set up as a separate state—Transjordan. King Hussein's son, Abdullah, was made king of it. After a while, though, Britain still held pretty securely to Mesopotamia because of the Mosul oil fields. The country was set up as the independent land of Iraq and was given a king—Feisal, another son of Hussein. Iraq is a land of magical names. Its great rivers are the Tigris and Euphrates, which are again and again mentioned in the Bible. Its capital is Bagdad, celebrated in song and story throughout the ages.

A BELLIGERENT PURITAN

It looked as if Britain were sitting pretty—three puppet kings over three Arab lands; three kings favorable to Britain, which rules over more Moslems in its colonies and dependencies than any other white power. Then trouble came on swift wings. Trouble's other name was Ibn Saud king of Nejd, that portion of the vast Arabian peninsula inhabited by the Wahabites. These people are to ordinary Moslems what the Puritans used to be to ordinary Christians. Fervent in their faith, austere in their habits, they were, nevertheless, great warriors.

Ibn Saud made war on King Hussein and England could do little to help the latter. In no time Ibn was master of Medina and Mecca. Hussein escaped and abdicated. Ibn was now king of the Hedjaz and sultan of Nejd. Since then he has extended his power, until it present he rules over practically all of desert Arabia.

But just over the border from his lands is Mesopotamia, ruled by the son of his old enemy, Hussein. The two rulers had ancient grudges. Clashes between the warriors of each were frequent. The frontier limitations were placed in doubt. There was material here for another internecine Arab war.

IT TOOK SOME COAXING

That's where the clever British stepped in. It took a lot of coaxing, but they finally got the two kings on board the same British war vessel and left them to talk alone in the captain's quarters. When they parted, they parted not as prospective enemies, but as friends. They had agreed upon mutual recognition of the independence of Iraq and Nejd. They agreed to exchange diplomatic representatives. Both said they would outlaw tribal raiders who crossed each other's frontiers. They agreed to establish a permanent frontier commission to take up all disputes and settle all quarrels about the frontiers by arbitration rather than by war. Ibn Saud went farther and said he would give favorable consideration to Iraq's claims for reparations arising from raids by Wahabi warriors in recent years. Both kings are to maintain police posts to see that the harmony thus established is not broken by irresponsible tribes.

PAPER INSTITUTE IS PRAISED BY PAPER MAN

That the Institute of Paper Chemistry will assume national proportions eventually was the prediction of W. A. Wertheimer, president of the Tillman Pulp and Paper company, Kaukauna, in an address before the Pacific section of the Technical Association of Pulp and Paper Industries at Longview, Wash., recently.

Explaining the transition in the pulp and paper industries from the methods used in the past to the new technical procedure, Mr. Wertheimer said, "Yesterday there were no laboratories, no engineers, or technical men. I remember in the early days when we were trying to mix colors. The old 'super' resented the outside advice of men who had made special studies of the color problem. Gradually we saw small departments grow up to handle this branch; these became small laboratories and gradually the demand grew for technical men."

The big question facing the paper industries is what kind of man will run the mill of tomorrow, he said. The Lawrence college Institute will help solve this problem, the paper men were told; it should solve the question of transition from the old time "super" to the new type technician.

FARM MORTGAGES ARE NOT BACK OF CRASHES OF BANKS

Bankers Themselves at Fault, Farm Department Claims

Madison—(P)—In a lengthy statement issued today the state department of agriculture and markets sought to curb the impression that the closing of some 15 state banks since Jan. 1 was caused by farm mortgages.

The state department placed upon the banker the blame for recent suspensions of financial institutions. "Rumor in a good many instances," the statement said, "has attributed these suspensions to frozen assets in the way of farm mortgages when the fact of the matter is that no bank that had sound farm mortgages whose valuations were conservatively based on its earning power was in any way embarrassed."

"It was the banker who used poor judgment in making loans and who took on overvalued farm mortgages with many times a second and third additional mortgages, which caused financial difficulties."

"There is no sounder investment today than a Wisconsin farm mortgage when the loan is based on the earning power of the farm. Like stocks and bonds, farm land is worth what it will earn. During and immediately after the war, with highly inflated real estate values, some mortgages placed upon these inflated values have been a thorn in the side of the banking profession, which should not at this time reflect back to sound valuation of Wisconsin farms."

The department said that seven insurance companies in Wisconsin have increased their real estate holding from $15,000,000 in 1926 to $19,000,000 in 1929. This, the department contended, should be an indication of the value of Wisconsin farm credits.

"It is idle to talk about farm insolvency when one of the banks just suspended had farm deposits of nearly a million dollars," the department said. "That the farmer is as prosperous as we would like is idle to assert, but that he is prostrate and bankrupt and not deserving of credit is equally unjust. No matter what variation may come in the valuation of a good farm, its physical property still remains and it will have earning power as long as the nation requires food and clothing."

MAY POSTPONE MEETING OF SOCIAL WORK GROUP

Madison—(P)—The meeting of the committee of prominent citizens named by the Wisconsin Conference of Social Work to study penal and charitable conditions in the state set for the week of May 12 may be postponed. The conference office said today Gov. Walter J. Kohler has signified deep interest in the project and expressed the desire to be present at the organization conference. If he is unable to attend during the week of May 12, the committee will defer its first gathering, conference officials said.

STUDENTS TO WRITE FINAL EXAMS MAY 17

1,700 Sixth, Seventh and Eighth Graders Will Write at Seven Centers

More than 1,700 sixth, seventh and eighth grade students of Outagamie county rural schools are facing their annual ordeal of final examinations on May 17. The pupils will write their examinations, as in past years, at seven central districts in the county. These districts are: Kaukauna, Black Creek, Seymour, Shiocton, Bear Creek, Appleton and Hortonville. Plans for the examinations are being made by A. C. Meating, county superintendent of schools. Examination questions and papers are being prepared at Mr. Meating's office and the list of persons who will have charge of each district will soon be ready. There are about 40 eighth grade students, 600 seventh grade and 700 sixth graders who will write examinations. Schools will write their exams at the district closest to each.

Education in Spain has shown substantial growth. Five thousand new schools have been opened up in that country during the past decade.

Talks To Parents

LITTLE BOOKS BY ALICE JUDSON PEALE

In buying books for the young child there is a factor to be considered which is quite apart from their content. The actual look and feel of a book means much to a little child.

In the case of my own little girl I find that the big books containing many stories and illustrations are the ones which she brings to me when she wants me to read aloud, but that the tiny editions of such stories as Peter Rabbit and Little Black Sambo, each one in its own separate binding, are the ones which she herself takes out of her bookshelves to play with and handle and to "read" to her family of dolls.

It is these little books which she especially loves although the big ones occupy a respectable place in her esteem.

There is something about collections of stories in a single volume or in sets which presents the little child from taking them to his heart. They have their place perhaps, but he does not regard them

Happy Woman Tells How She Lost 19 Pounds of Fat In 27 Days

During October a woman in Montana wrote—"My first bottle of Kruschen Salts lasted almost 4 weeks and during that time I lost 19 pounds of fat — I feel better than I have for years."

Here's the recipe that banishes fat and brings into blossom all the natural attractiveness that every woman possesses.

Every morning take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast.

Be sure and do this every morning for "it's the little daily dose that takes off the fat."—Don't miss a morning. The Kruschen habit means that every particle of poisonous waste matter and harmful acids and gases are expelled from the system. At the same time the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels are toned up and the pure, fresh blood containing Nature's six life-giving salts are carried to every organ, gland, nerve and fibre of the body and this is followed by "that Kruschen feeling" of energetic health and activity that is reflected in bright eyes, clear skin, cheerful vivacity and charming figure.

If you want to lose fat with speed get an 85c bottle of Kruschen Salts from Schlitz Bros. Co., 3 stores, or any live druggist anywhere in America with the distinct understanding that you must be satisfied with results or money back. adv.

REMOVE OLD TRACTOR IN RIVER NEAR BRIDGE

The old tractor that has been sitting so comfortably on its haunches in the river east of the S. Oneida bridge for nearly two years, was prised from its moorings this week by a construction company crew. Nestling in the rocks and lapped by the shadow water, the old tractor has been an eyesore ever since it was left there by a construction company after the new piers were constructed under the bridge. Many excuses for its being there were offered, but the one least contested was that "it washed in over the dam."

Nearly 140,000 persons attended vocational agricultural meetings in North Carolina last year.

IN BED FOR 3 MONTHS: THEN KONJOLA WON!

Cedar Rapids Man Spent Small Fortune Seeking Relief—New Medicine Brought First and Only Help

MR. VERNON A. KELCHNER

"For three months I was confined to my bed because of stomach and kidney disorders," said Mr. Vernon A. Kelchner, 138 E. Avenue, West, Cedar Rapids. Even after that siege, I was forced to bed for two or three weeks at a time. I spent a small fortune in search for health, but nothing seemed to do me any good. As soon as I had finished a meal, I was attacked by terrible pains. Then my kidneys became disordered and brought on severe back pains. Nervousness followed and I became a physical wreck.

"I secured several bottles of Konjola and started the treatment. I began to grow better almost immediately and my friends remarked upon my improved appearance. My stomach was cleansed and invigorated and my digestion became better than in years. No matter what I ate, I was not troubled with pains. My kidneys and nerves were restored to normal activity. Today, I am well and happy. I know this sounds impossible but every word is the truth."

"Konjola works with the important functional organs of the body. It drives the poisons from the system, cleanses the organs of elimination, brings abundant and glorious health. It is recommended that Konjola be taken from six to eight ounces to get the best results. Konjola is sold in Appleton, Wis., at Schlitz Bros. Drug Store, and by the best druggists in all towns."

Feeling Thrifty?..

WANT to cut car costs? Who doesn't, on occasions! We know how it is... so does Goodrich, whose tires we sell. Goodrich, you see, realizes that all of us like a bargain now and then. But they can't see why a bargain tire can't be a good tire. So their engineers got together awhile back. Set out to build an outstanding tire at a sensationally low price. A tire that could carry the name Goodrich. A tire that would live up to Goodrich standards on the road. Result... the Cavalier. Big and husky. Oversize in air cushion. Thicker and tougher in tread. Built to fight off rough roads and high speeds and take its own sweet time about wearing out. But—built to sell at prices that beat even ordinary tires for real savings. We've got a full stock of Cavaliers on hand right now. All sizes... including a couple for trucks. And as our contribution to this money-saving party, we're offering them at special prices. Cutting the figures even lower than they usually are. We want you to see this tire. Want you to look over our prices. Come in... see what we've got... and you'll walk out with a nice saving in your pocket!

as peculiarly his own until he is at least eight or nine years old. Among other things they are apt to be so expensive that he is often admonished if he handles them with the freedom natural to him. I believe that a good part of a child's love for books is learned through being permitted to handle them intimately and affectionately. Every child should have at least some books which he may be allowed to treat quite as he likes. This does not mean that he should mistreat them by scribbling in them or tearing them apart but rather that he should be permitted to treat them much as he does a favorite toy which becomes warm and shabby in the course of love and service.

Old Lumber Camps Were Famous For Real Fights

By B. A. CLAFLIN

Back in the days of pine lumber smelters, saloons and street brawls the residents of our northern saw mill towns heard little from the outside world. Their interests were chiefly centered in their own limited environments. Amusements were crude, yet they were undoubtedly enjoyed more heartily than are those of today. Baseball was played and large sums wagered on the outcome of each game. Grounds were laid out in the most approved manner. The suits of Cap Anson and the famous Kelly were copied to the braids on their caps.

As it was with baseball, so was it with the other forms of sport in vogue those days. Log rolling, dog fights and human fights were staged in all seriousness. Of them all, however, the human fights drew the largest crowds and were most enjoyed. Tradition has brought down to us tales of unbelievable contests where in brawn and muscle played the leading parts. Accounts of the prowess of some of those oldtime scap-pers make the doings of Old Cap Collier or Vidocek look like a war of old maids in a milk booth. Undaunted courage was evident in those mills. They fought to the death unless separated by force. The brand of Cain was preferred to that of Judas Iscariot.

The deeds of some of those "hard-boiled" scap-pers have been engraved on the memories of present day survivors who like nothing better than to tell tales that will listen to their tales. One of them, pet characters was "Big Jim" Murphy who lived in Menominee, Mich. His strength was prodigious and according to his admirers, he was never licked. Although he picked no set ups.

SHOWED NO FAVORS

"Big Jim" took them as they came. No favors shown.

Another character who has a niche in the hall of fame was a man named Hamilton. He was camp boss for Mann Brothers who logged on the Flat Rock river, near Gladstone. It is said of Hamilton that he, too, was never licked in over a hundred fist battles with the toughest of those early day lumber jacks. One day one of the houses became unruly and refused to move. Hamilton knocked him down with a blow on his fist.

To return to "Big Jim" Murphy. Speculation was life as to who would have won had he ever mixed matters with Hamilton. But, unfortunately for his story, they never came together. "Big Jim" was one of the fun of Frost and Murphy. He in the camps. And let it be known that he was boss in every sense the word implies. Like Hamilton and Hargis who worked for Pimochle Armstrong he did a s crew, to the limit. No man of it ever saw the camp in daylight save on Sundays.

In those days, "floaters" often called at the logging camps. They would work for a day or two, get "fed up" and then disappear. This usually occurred when there was a shortage of help. But the floaters worked while he was there. He fully earned the grub stake he received. On one occasion a character of this kind known as "Big Scott" applied for work at Murphy's camp. The boss knew him and somewhat dubiously agreed to take him on. He came as lately clothed and was provided with a "four point" much more the cost of which was to be deducted from his pay check later on. He worked just two days, and then blew one morning. "Big Jim" upon learning that he had gone started doggedly after him. For hours he followed the trail of Scott. He came up with him at noon.

FLOATER IS DOWNED

The floater was a man of tremendous size and strength, apparently the equal of "Big Jim" and he would not could fight. Peeling their mudmaws these two heavy giants went at it. The fight lasted an hour. When it was over, the floater lay hors du combat in the snow. "Big Jim" with the four-point in chinaw which Scott had run off with on his arm returned to camp. He had no explanation of what had taken place out on the trail, but a closed eye and gashed lip spoke eloquently enough for the crew to understand.

A peculiarity of those old time woodsmen was the fact that, once any one of them acquired a reputation as a fighter of more than ordinary ability, he was marked to defend his honors with considerable regularity. Always the occasion was brought about for him to demonstrate his ability.

During the hey day of "Big Jim's" popularity, there lived in Marinette a man named Jack Snow. That was not exactly his name but survivors will know who I mean. He stood six feet, four in his stockings weighed two hundred and fifty pounds and carried not an ounce of fat. Truly, he was a foe worthy of any man's steel. He was so hard, as the story goes, that every time he smiled his face cracked. And fight he did sooner fight than eat. And a word brought it on any time and anywhere.

Snow had heard much of "Big Jim." Too much in fact to suit him. Such a state of affairs could have but one ending. One day he was in a saloon on Hallave, Marinette, when "Big Jim" went by. Some one called his attention to the fact that Murphy was passing. Out through the door he rushed.

Come back here, you big bum, he roared. You may be able to lick any one in Menominee, but you're in Marinette now. How good are you any more?

Good enough to lick you, answered Murphy, turning back.

CROWD SOON GATHERS

A crowd gathered at once, circling about the two grunts as the first blow was struck. "Big Jim" let the an non first at Snow's head and took a punch between the eyes in return that would have felled an ox. Back and forth they surged. It was give and take no backing up and no quarter. Now and then their huge bulks knocked to the ground a man or two who became too interested and crowded too close.

Without a moment's respite, these heavy men of brawn stood toe to toe and slugged each other viciously. One of "Big Jim's" eyes was closed and Snow spat forth a couple of teeth in a stream of blood. Finally they clinched and went to the ground. Snow's head striking with a loud thump. It weakened him, it would have killed an ordinary man—and Murphy took advantage of it. Smashing after, he drove to his opponent's head. They labored breathing came in hoarse gasps.

Some of Snow's friends realized that their champion was in a bad way. In fact he no longer offered resistance. Then, seeing that one of his sympathizers aimed a kick at "Big Jim's" head. It knocked him

Thomas-Goldblatt Fight Stirs Up Much Interest

LAST AMATEUR SHOW OF SEASON PROMISES TO BE A SELL-OUT

Herbie Thompson and Leo Champeau Are Booked in Semi-windup

FEW sporting events, and probably no fight has ever stirred up Appleton as much as the approaching battle between Winston "Windy" Thomas, New London and Bennie Goldblatt, Chicago, winner of the Chicago Tribune Golden Glove tournament, which will take place in armory G Thursday evening, May 15. Announcement of the fight as the headliner on the American legion last card this season, was made a few days ago and the way fans are flocking for seats indicates that the S. R. O. sign will be out long before the fight time.

Thomas, just a high school youngster, is the pride of this section of the state and whenever he appears on a card the fans know something will happen. However, it has been hard to get an opponent for the Windy river boy that can make Windy fight at his best. Legion promoters figure they have someone now. And in passing it's not out of place to mention that Windy specifically asked for the Goldblatt match.

The Chicago boy comes to Appleton with a father manager and trainer and advance word is that Pinky Mitchell, former junior welterweight champ of the world will second the invader. Goldblatt has had something like 289 amateur fights and has several times turned down flattering offers to turn professional. He has been rated a sensation in all the midwest fistic centers where amateur fights hold sway. Pinky Mitchell's desire to be second to Goldblatt is prompted by more than friendship for the young star, Matchmaker H. W. Miller of the legion said recently. Mitchell has a great desire to be back of some fighter who can take Thomas measure for the New London boy has downed every protegee Pinky has been able to pick up around Milwaukee.

THOMAS HOPES FOR WIN
Thomas has high hopes of closing the Appleton season with a victory that will rate him one of the leading 135 pounders in midwest amateur circles. To beat Goldblatt decisively will be a big feather in Thomas' hat.

Announcement of the bout brought demand for a full section of seats for New London fans and they expect to invade the armory in throngs. Tickets have been placed on sale at the usual places in Appleton and indications are the select seats will all go when the first long rings.

The semi-windup next week will show two of the fastest leather tossers in this section of the state pitted against each other for the second time in two months. The boys are Herbie Thompson and Leo Champeau, the former a stable man of Thomas at New London, the latter from DePere.

Two months ago the boys fought here and their battle was a sensation and the talk of the town for weeks. They started at each other like a couple young cyclones when suddenly Champeau sent Thompson sailing across the ring and through the ropes out into the laps of the cash customers.

Perhaps a bit dazed, the New London boy climbed back through the ropes and went after his man as if going through the bricks. He finally tossed the leather Champeau so he had the DePere boy was forced to take the count in the second frame.

Four other bouts are being arranged for the card, according to legion officials and they'll all be top-notchers. Because the card is the last this season the vets hope to make it the best and close the first year of amateur boxing in Appleton with a flourish that will pave the way for another successful season beginning next fall.

H. S. TRACK SQUAD GOING TO WAUSAU

Shieldsmen Will Compete in Quadrangular Tournament Saturday

Appleton high school track team Saturday will take a jaunt into an almost foreign territory for weekend track competition, being entered in a quadrangular meet with Wisconsin Rapids, Stevens Point and Wausau at the latter city. It will make the first time in a good many years the Orange has wandered away from the valley for any kind of athletic event.

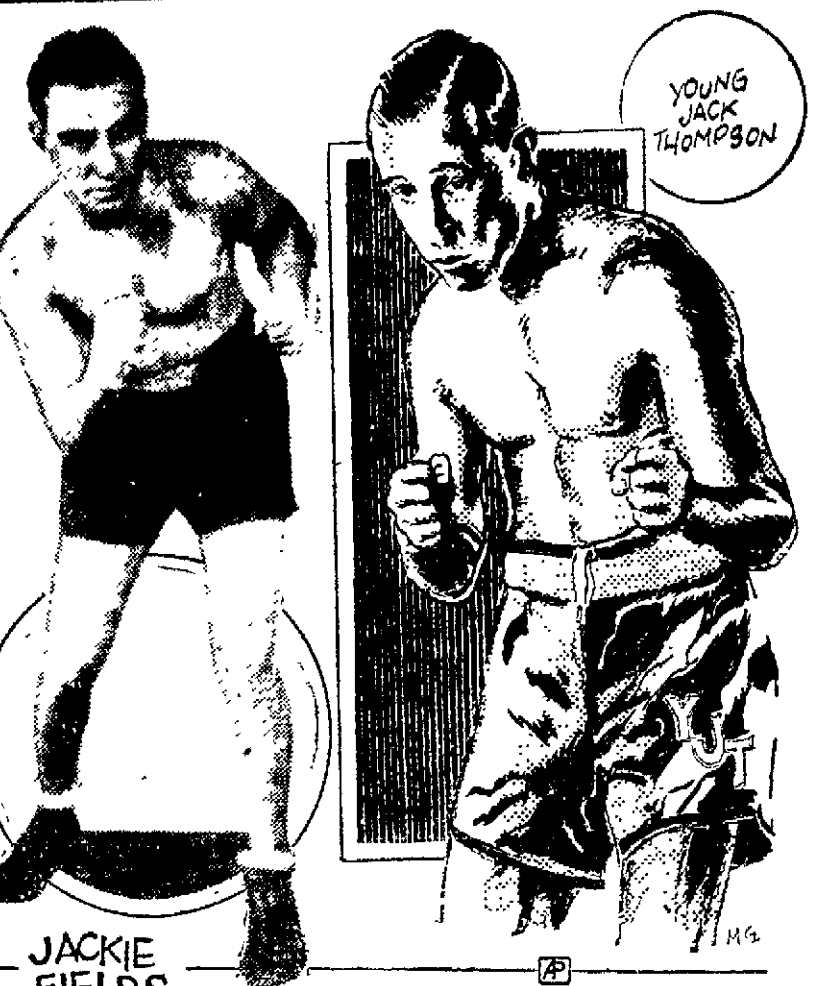

A bit downhearted but not at all pleased with his squad as result of its showing at the Manitowish wets last Saturday, Coach Joseph Shields has been drilling the boys long and hard this week. He had them out at Whiting athletic field Monday evening despite the fact they competed Saturday and got in considerable work with the college team making a layoff.

The showing of Wolgram in the dashes was highly pleasing to Shields and he now is working on other members of the team who shows signs of developing into first point winners. The Coach hasn't the best of facilities in track because of the necessity of training on the college field where Coach Denney also works with his men and of course has first preference.

With the rainy carnival history, Shields now can't forget about the boys in an event.

Montreal, Brock, Portland, Detroit, outplayed Leland (Young) Zazzano, Jersey City, (10).

Complete Training

JACKIE FIELDS
THOMPSON already is safely below the 147-pound limit, while Fields' handlers expect he will make the weight easily when the fighters go on the scale at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Appleton To Present Strong Ball Club In Valley League Race

BY GORDON R. MCINTYRE
WITH two victories in practice games as starters, Appleton baseball league is practicing and awaiting the word that will send the team on its way through the valley schedule beginning next Sunday at Kimball. Marty Lamer's Kimberly Little club will be the opponent.

Managers Lew Smith and Eddie Kotla are all enthusiastic about the opening of the league season as a result of their team's showing during the practice tiffs. Deating Clintonville in the first battle of the season was no easy job and when the squad pounded out a merry victory over Waupaca last Sunday it looked just that much better.

To all indications the only worry the two bosses of the locals have at this writing is the pitching problem. At Clintonville three hurlers were used with good enough success and three again tossed leather at Waupaca. They were Sam Ogle, Clarence Stoffel and a chap named Connell and Dats Crowe. The latter pitched last week against Waupaca.

SAINT PAUL MAY DISPLACE KERNS AS A. A. LEADERS

Ernie Wingard Hits Homer and Hens Beat Milwaukee Brews, 5-4

CHICAGO—(P)—St. Paul, a team most baseball experts agreed would be wrecked because of the wholesale graduation of its 1929 stars into the major leagues, today looked like the big dark horse of the American association pennant fight.

Infused with new talent, the Saints have been playing excellent baseball and today had a big opportunity of detaching the Louisville Colonels from first place and taking the lead themselves in the pennant race.

While held to but four hits yesterday by Deberry and Poli, the Saints took advantage of every Louisville misplay, bunched their safe blows and dropped the league leading Colonels for the second straight game, 4 to 1.

Kansas City, 1929 titleholder, continued its winning ways yesterday and defeated Columbus, 2 to 1. The victory lifted the champions from fourth to third place and dropped Columbus from second to fourth.

Milwaukee dropped closer to the cellar by losing its fifth straight game to Toledo, 5 to 4. Ernie Wingard won the game for the Mud Hens in the eighth inning. He battled for Bullock with a man on base and promptly derailed a home run blick up in the centerfield bleachers. Jenkins, Milwaukee centerfielder, also parked a homer with a runner on the paths.

Minneapolis and Indianapolis, still members of the second division group, rested yesterday because of rain.

ZACHARY TURNS IN FIRST WIN OF YEAR FOR YANKS

Browns Get Three Hits Off Earnshaw but Win Anyway, 2 and 1

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer
JONATHAN THOMPSON ZACHARY of the New York Yankees is not the oldest pitcher in the American league, in spite of his nickname, "Old Tom." Nor is he by any means the youngest. Tom became 35 years old yesterday and he celebrated his birthday in a home showing the youngsters a few things.

Last year Zachary led the American league pitchers by winning 12 games without a defeat. He also had the best earned run batting, giving but 33 in 120 innings. Up to yesterday, Tom had not done so well during the chilly spring days but with the advent of summer weather he scored his first victory, beating the Cleveland Indians, 2 to 1.

Zachary received some aid from another Yankee pitcher, Babe Ruth, and from Roy Sherd. Ruth contributed largely to the five run tally which decided the game by hitting his fourth home run of the season with two on base. Sherd came to Zachary's rescue when he weakened in the late innings.

Except in three National league games yesterday, the pitchers had the better of the major league batters. Froy of Cincinnati and George Earnshaw of the Philadelphia Athletics turned in the best performances, each allowing only three hits. Froy won his game but Earnshaw lost.

BROWNS WIN 2 AND 1
Two of the three hits off Earnshaw were made by the opposing pitcher, Walter Stewart of the St. Louis Browns, who pitched a six hit game. The third was a home run by Sam Rice with one man on base which gave the Browns a 2 to 1 decision. Froy won his third straight game and his second 1 to 0 contest by stopping the Boston Braves.

Earl Whitehill of Detroit had the better of three Washington pitchers, holding the Senators to six hits for a 3 to 1 triumph. The Tigers got eight blows. Horace Lisenbee allowed the Chicago White Sox a dozen hits but kept them helplessly scattered while a young Tom O'Leary led the Boston Red Sox to a 6 to 4 victory.

The St. Louis Cardinals were in the front rank of the heavy hitters yesterday as they hammered five Philadelphia pitchers for a 16 to 11 victory. The game produced 35 hits. Not far behind came the Pittsburgh Pirates and New York Giants, dividing 21 hits in Pittsburgh's 15 to 8 victory.

The Chicago Cubs continued the assaults on Brooklyn pitching by hitting steadily and at the proper moments to gain a 9 to 5 victory after Brooklyn had opened the game with a home run drive that brought four tallies in the first inning. Glenn Wright and Del Bissonette hit successive homers in this frame and Bissonette added a second in the sixth inning. Charley Root hurled the whole game for the Cubs although he allowed 12 hits.

S AM LANGFORD is a good judge of cauliflower, by and large. . . . ## SORE HEEL SENDS HORNSBY TO BENCH

Chicago—(P)—Rogers Hornsby was back on the bench with his sore heel today while the Cub management and his physician pondered over his condition.

Ever since the spur-like growth was cut away from his right heel last winter, the Rajah's ankle has been sore. At last, it was decided he only needed a short rest. When the pain did not cease, it was decided to fix work as a cure. That has failed, and a physician is employed.

Hornsby had two teeth extracted several days ago and may be forced to part with his tonsils, too.

NORTHEASTERN GOLF TEAMS DON'T PLAY FOR WHITING TROPHY

The Frank Whiting cup is not up for competition in the Northeastern Wisconsin Golf association tournament which is to be staged Sunday, July 13, on home courses of the various clubs with the scores telegraphed into the association secretary. The association gives a cup to the winner of the tournament, and it remains in permanent possession of the club.

A report last week from Appleton said the Whiting cup was the trophy played for. The Whiting cup is competed for in another tournament in which several Fox river valley golf clubs enter teams. The trophy was put up by Frank Whiting, Berlin hotel owner.

DENNEY TAKES 9 MEN TO MILWAUKEE TRACK TOURNAMENT

Brussat, Wolfe and Cinkosky Only Three Entered in Special Events

FIVE men for special events and four to form a mile relay team will be sent by Lawrence Denney to the state college University of Wisconsin track meet at Milwaukee Friday afternoon and evening, according to Coach A. C. Denney. The trial events in the meet will be staged during the afternoon in Marquette stadium with the finals in the evening in the Hilltoppers' lighted stadium. The four men will be the first night track meet ever held in the state.

Ray Brussat the Vikings' crack dash man will compete in the century and the broadjump, Ross Cannon and Granville Calhoun in the pole vault, with Bradley in the broad jump. John Cinkosky will toss the javelin and make up the fifth man in the special events.

From showings of the boys in recent meets they should qualify Friday afternoon and enter the finals in the evening. Brussat and Cinkosky both scored victories at Ripon last week while Cannon and Calhoun tied and carried off pole vault honors for Lawrence.

John Cinkosky's efforts with the javelin will be closely watched for he has a chance to win the state title. Last week at Ripon he won with a toss of 171 feet but will find stronger competition in Rasmussen of Carroll who has thrown the spear 176 feet. The best Johnny May of Wisconsin has accomplished is a toss of 169 feet.

Members of the Viking relay team will be Fischl, Bradley, Wolf and Rasmussen. A year ago at the first field tourney held, Lawrence placed third, Wisconsin being first and Marquette second.

MILWAUKEE—(P)—Track stars from two Wisconsin universities and four colleges today were entered in the state's first outdoor twilight track and field meet to be held at the Marquette University stadium here tomorrow night.

Coaches admitted the night meet was more or less experiment, but after the success of night football games at the stadium they believe no difficulties will be encountered. Events are scheduled to start at 8 o'clock.

Teams are entered from the University of Wisconsin, Marquette University, Carroll, Lawrence, Beloit and Ripon colleges. The Badgers enter as favorites after coping last year's state intercollegiate title.

George Little, director of athletics at the University of Wisconsin, will act as referee. Ted Cauty, the big-voiced megaphone man who cried the Texas, Kansas, Illinois, Drake and Ohio state relays, will announce the starlight meet.

Peckinpough Thinks He Has Championship Club

BY JOHN B. FOSTER

NEW YORK—Chief Roger Peckinpough, with a smile as wide as the world's broad jump record illuminating his countenance, led his Cleveland Indians into the Yankee camp recently perched on the front seat of the American league baseball handwagon despite a handicap of injured players.

The Philadelphia Athletics have gone into a tie for first seat honors with Peckinpough's men, but the Indian leader is undismayed. "If you did not carry such a handicap in injured players where would your team be now, Mr. Peckinpough?"

"Well, I don't know. It couldn't have been any better than it was Sunday when he went to the top of the race by defeating Boston. A clever thing to do away from home."

"We usually play well away from home when our pitching is good." "But your pitching is almost always good."

"Yeh. See what Harder did in Boston. Came to the rescue for us and got credit for winning two games in succession. Pretty good kid, that kid. Pitched for New Orleans last year and year before that was born in Nebraska. He is one of those well balanced six footers carrying poundage with height. Got stuff to go along with it because they fed him right when he was an athlete in short dresses. We've got some more good pitchers you haven't seen as yet."

"Some folks think you have the best pitchers in the American league." "All right to think, but too early to say. Have you a player by the name of Jameson on your team?"

"Say, you kiddin' me? That old bo, sure is going. I've a good notion to get back myself and play short, but he might show me up. Batting nigh 400 this year. Been among the leaders. Runs like a three year old Steals bases under the noses of old timers. Saved us when we lost Averill, because Averill tried to use a ball for a roller coaster and turned his ankle. Great player that Jamie. Got any idea of winning the pennant?"

MIGHT WIN PENNANT
"Of course. I would hug such an idea if my team was seventh in the race if it had won about as many games as it had lost. How you going to tell what may happen these days. Can't tell, can you? Can't tell anything about it. Detroit, for instance, check a block with hard luck. Tell me that Detroit was picked to win."

FOUR TEAMS BEGIN SOFTBALL SCHEDULE
Four more teams in the American softball league will swing into action this evening, all of them making their 1930 debut. The league season opened Tuesday evening with the Tattle press beating the Coated Paper company 19 and 3 and the Machine company beating the Telephone company 9 and 1.

Thursday evening's games will show the Pettibone Peabody company versus the Power company on Roosevelt school diamond and the Fox River Paper company versus the Chair company at Wilson grounds.

LANDIS PASSES ON PLAYER'S SALARY CLAIM

CHICAGO—(P)—Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis has upheld the salary claim of Joseph Smith against the Cincinnati club of the National league.

Smith contracted with the Reds last year for $1,600 but was subsequently released on option to the Peoria club of the Three Eye league, which sent him to North Platte of the Nebraska State league. At North Platte, he received only $80 a month whereas he contended he should have received $1,500 for the season.

The Reds were ordered to reimburse him within 10 days because they held his services on option during the entire season.

FOUR NATIONAL VETS DECLARED INELIGIBLE

Chicago—(P)—Four National league veterans have been declared ineligible by Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis for failure to sign new contracts.

They are Edd Roush, giant outfielder; Johnny Cooney, Boston infielder; Chester Nichols, Philadelphia pitcher, and J. Pete Fowler, pitcher for the St. Louis Cardinals.

Should the ineligible have a change of heart and decide to sign new contracts, they must be reinstated by Commissioner Landis with customary deductions from salaries for idleness.

SEE NEW GATE RECORD IN GIANT-CUB SERIES

Chicago—(P)—A new National league attendance record for four games today appeared certain for the impending series between two of the greatest rivals in the circuit—the championship Cubs and the New York Giants.

Given a good break by the weather, more than 150,000 spectators are expected to jam Wrigley field for the four games, which start tomorrow.

EXPECT RECORD ENTRY LIST AT KENTUCKY DERBY

Performance of Horses in Races During Next Few Days Being Watched

BY ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK—(AP)—With the fifty-seventh running of the Kentucky Derby only ten days away, the probable starting field has narrowed down to some thirty of America's outstanding three-year-olds.

If more than 22 answer the bugle call on May 17, it will be a record for the Kentucky turf classic. Two years ago Reigh County conquered twenty-one of the country's best in his memorable mud victory.

Whether a record number goes to the post depends much on the performance of William Woodward's Gallant Fox in the $50,000 Preakness to be run tomorrow at Pimlico. Trainers and racing fans alike agree the brilliant son of Sir Gallahad III is a chance that the vice president of the Jockey club may not choose to ship his star to test for the blue grass feature. If Gallant Fox wins the Preakness, the grapevine telegraph says he will be withheld for the Belmont Park and Saratoga three-year-old stakes, features his owner would much rather win.

Gallant Fox is now being quoted at 4 to 1 in the future books but a victory tomorrow at Pimlico would lower his quotation to 3 to 1 or even shorter. The only horses given a chance by the future bookmakers to defeat the Woodward are High Foot, Tannery and Gallant Knight.

The withdrawal of Mrs. Graham Fair Vanderbilt's Desert Light, Clifford A. Cochran's Flying Heels, William Zeigler, Jr.'s Spinach and the Everglades stable's dedicate has taken much of the stiff opposition out of the race. E. R. Bradley has two real threats, however, in Breezing Thru and Buckeye Poet, the first of which is considered the best by the master of the Idle Hour farm. In Kilkerry and Broadway Limited, the $65,000 son of Man O' War, the Texas-owned Three D's stable has a pair, which may upset all day. Broadway Limited, a non-winner as a two-year-old, has been working sensationally but Dick Vestal, trainer of the Texas thoroughbreds, says Kilkerry is the class. He won one race in the mud last year.

The probable derby field with the owners' names as follows:
Ante Bellum, H. P. Headley;
Breezing Thru, E. R. Bradley;
Buckeye Poet, E. R. Bradley;
Broadway Limited, Three D's stable;

Kilkerry, Three D's stable;
Crack Brigade, T. M. Cassidy;
Crazy Coat, H. P. Whitney;
Chimney Sweep, H. P. Whitney; Gallant Fox, Belair Stud;
Flying Gal, Belair Stud;
Gallant Knight, Audley Farm;
Gone Away, William Zeigler, Jr.;
Sarazen 11, Mrs. Graham Fair Vanderbilt;
Full Dress, Glen Riddle Farm;
Her Grace, Rat Parr;
High Foot, Valley Lake Stable;
Ladron, Johnnie N. Camden;
Longus, R. C. Stable;
Michigan Boy, J. L. Pontius;
Ned O, G. W. Foreman;
Swinfield, W. J. Salmon;
Sydney, J. N. Camden;
Tannery, E. F. Pritchard;
Woodcraft, Audley Farm;
Grattan, Rancocas Stable;
Quaterback, M. L. Schwartz;
Sun Falcon, W. S. Kilmer;
Gold Brook, Howe stable.

What the Stars Did Yesterday

Chick Hafey, Cardinals—Hit home run and triples in fifth inning, driving in five runs as Cards defeated Phillies 16 to 11.

Frank O'Doul, Phillies—Took first place in National league batting with five hits in five times at plate, including three doubles.

Del Bissenette, Robins—Hit two home runs but Robins were defeated by Cubs, 9 to 5.

Babe Ruth, Yankees—Fourth home run of year helped Yankees defeat Indians, 8 to 7.

Sammy Hale, Browns—Home run with man on base defeated Athletics 2 to 1.

George Earnshaw, Athletics—Held Browns to three hits but lost.

Bennie Frey, Reds—Won third straight game by holding Braves to three singles.

INSTALL SCALES TO TEST EXCESS LOADS

Detroit—(AP)—Determined to enforce the law that denies overloaded trucks the use of certain highways, the Michigan highway department soon will install pit scales along principal trunk roads.

State police will halt and weigh trucks suspected of carrying loads in excess of what the pavement will stand. The driver of an overloaded truck will be compelled to unload part of his cargo on the spot. He also may get a ticket for court appearance.

It is proposed to install scales in places where it will be impossible to avoid them by detouring.

St. Louis Failing To Support Major Clubs

BY FRANCIS J. POWERS
Copyright 1930
CHICAGO—The major leagues are somewhat alarmed, and with reason, at the decline of baseball interest in St. Louis where the Cardinals are now attempting to fatten the gate by moving their Monday games forward and playing double headers on Sunday. Baseball men, with whom the writer has talked, are not greatly in favor of the move but can offer no serious objection if it provides greater returns at the turnstiles.

The idea of making Monday open on the schedule has been tried in various minor leagues but never before in the majors. It is an established custom in the Pacific coast

WISCONSIN WINS 4TH BIG TEN BALL GAME

Chicago—(AP)—Wisconsin has battered past another barrier in its rush for the Big Ten baseball championship, defeating Northwestern yesterday, 16 to 12. It was Wisconsin's fourth straight victory of the campaign and tightened its grip on first place.

The Wildcats led a 5 to 4 lead at the end of the fifth inning and then a storm of singles, doubles, triples and home runs broke. Wisconsin bunched six hits for six runs in its half of the sixth and Northwestern came right back with four runs. The next inning was scoreless but in the eighth, Wisconsin scored four more to take a 14 to 9 lead. Two more runs finished the Badger attack in the ninth and Northwestern's rally fell short after producing three runs.

Poser of Wisconsin hit one home run, three singles, walked once and scored four runs.

Sports Question Box

Question—Is Ken Rouse, former Center on U. of Chicago football team now a pro wrestler?

Answer—No, Rouse wrestles merely for fun; to keep himself fit.

Question—Did Gene Tunney ever say which fighter punished him the most?

Answer—Yes he did. Harry Greb.

Question—Coaches here rule that if a batted ball hits the batter after he has had two strikes and he is standing in the box the batter is out?

Answer—If the batter attempts to strike at the ball he is out but not necessarily so unless he does.

Many Call Lake Eyre Australia's Dead Heart

Washington, D. C.—A region whose edge has been in sight of a railway for 40 years, yet has come to be known only in the last year—such is the Lake Eyre basin of Australia, according to a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

Lake Eyre might be called Australia's "Great Salt Lake," says the bulletin. It is located over about 200 miles southeast of the geographical center of the continent and because of its desert surroundings has been called "Australia's dead heart."

LIES BELOW SEA LEVEL
The lake and its immediate surroundings constitute the only area in Australia that lies below sea level. Its shore line is 30 feet lower than the ocean waters that surround the continent. The bottom of the lake can be considered with little error as at the same level for Lake Eyre is in reality only a tremendous salt flat that is covered from time to time with a few inches of water. It becomes a lake after droughts are broken by unusual rains in the far away Queensland plains, so that floods rush down the usually dry river courses that lead to this closed basin.

But quickly the shallow covering of water evaporates and the lake becomes first damp and then dry. "The recent exploration of the lake was accomplished in a plane, from which photographic maps were made. At the time of the flights the lake was so dry that a line plane taxied along its center, stirring up a cloud of dust.

"Later to check on the observations that had been made from the air, a party left a railway station 50 miles from the main lake and after great difficulty covered the intervening rough country in a motor car.

waters built up they bring large amounts of mineral matter which are precipitated building up roughly 100,000 feet. Eventually elevated mounds are created which contain in the top 100 feet of water.

The means of building the mounds is not known. The mounds are built up by the action of the wind and the action of the water.

ANTS LIVE IN "LAKE"
A surprising discovery on the bed of Lake Eyre was the existence of colonies of ants some distance from the shore. Lizards half a foot long scurried over the surface as far as five miles from the shore. They are pinkish gray, the exact color of the salt crust.

"Along the western margin of Lake Eyre are 'mud' spaces' which apparently are natural basins in which water is held. The lake is not a single body of water but a series of basins separated by low ridges. The ridges are composed of sand and silt and are covered with a thin layer of water.

This is one of the reasons why so many seconds and obsolete radio sets are being dumped.

THE BIG SHOT

by FRANK L. PACKARD

SYNOPSIS: The Big Shot discovers that Enid Howard is the woman who has thrice thwarted his plans, only a few hours after he had confessed his love for her. He overpowers Phil Martin when he comes to Enid's rescue and summons his gangster pals to aid him. In the meantime he convinces Enid he is not her brother and she is happy. The Big Shot's accusations of complicity to aid Phil in the gang leader's capture removes the suspicions he had formed of Enid's activity as a criminal. They are taken away in a closed car by Izzy Myers and a gangster, headed for the "Old Homestead." Its significance terrifies Enid. They are being taken for a ride.

Chapter 38
PRISONERS

THAT gangland phrase—taken for a ride—that she had seen so often in newspapers—now came home to Enid in all its bald, stark meaning? Was death waiting at the end of the road?

It was like the last ride of the condemned—on the way to execution—and the horror of it had seized upon her.

There had been moments when she had so very nearly lost her self-control; moments when she had so very nearly broken down. To bring shame upon Phil and herself for her cowardice! To invite the sneers and taunts and ribald laughter of such scum as these! That was all that had saved her. Her pride. The pride that she prayed would still keep her head high at the last.

She knew no illusions. She knew there would be no mercy. She knew what gangland "justice" was. She knew that murder was the way these men earned their daily bread. There was no chance—none—unless they, Phil and herself, could in some way make their escape.

Her thoughts became chaotic. The Big Shot wasn't Roy... That would have been horrible now... Would Martha ever know?... What would Martha do when she returned and found that there was no one there any more?... It didn't seem even now that this was real... It couldn't be real... She had been so happy at Martha's... It had been so quiet and homelike... And she had thought that perhaps by working very hard she might someday make a little name for herself with her pen... That was what she had come forth to study, to gather material, and work... and, instead, this was the result.

A ride!... That dread phrase again!... It she—

The car swerved suddenly, turned into what seemed to be a sort of driveway, or lane, bordered with trees, and almost immediately the headlights picked up the outline of a house—a long, rambling house, like a farmhouse it looked as, the car swinging now, the headlights described an arc and swept their rays along the length of the building. The car stopped.

Izzy Myers was prodding at her viciously with the muzzle of his revolver. "Get out!" he ordered harshly.

She felt her way to the ground. It was very dark. The lights of the car had been switched off, and there were no lights showing in any of the windows of the house. She looked around her, striving to accommodate her eyes to the darkness.

The two gangsters were taking Phil from the car—and, from the snuffling sounds and the snarled oaths which accompanied their commands, were obviously performing their office none too gently. She stood still, obedient to Izzy Myers' restraining grip upon her arm.

She could see a little more clearly now. They were standing close to the front porch, and now the door of the house was being opened.

"Who's there?" a man's voice demanded sharply from the dark interior.

"I guess you know, don't you?" Izzy Myers grunted in reply.

"Oh—you, Izzy?" exclaimed the voice in a tone of relief. "Well, I had to be sure. You're early, ain't you? The trucks won't be along for another hour."

Izzy Myers laughed gratingly. "Well, we've brought you the first load," he said. "We've got a couple of visitors for you here; and the Big Shot will be along in a little while."

while with Ma Kane—and maybe Pa Kane, too, I dunno. I guess you'll have a houseful—but this pair ain't fussy about their accommodations. The Big Shot said to tie them up in the barn until he got here.

"Oh, so that's the lay, is it?" There seemed to be something eager and malicious injected into the voice from the doorway. "Sure! All right! We'll try to make 'em nice and comfortable! I get you!"

"Then get a move on!" Izzy Myers jerked out. "Bring some rope and a lantern!"

"Sure!" said the man. "I won't be a minute!"

And then it seemed to Enid that for a little while she became curiously detached from her surroundings, as though she had become mentally weary to the point of exhaustion, and that her mind stumbled and refused to function save only in a strange, numbed, apathetic way.

She was conscious that her hands were tied behind her back, and that she was being made to follow a light that danced ahead of her. She was conscious that a big door made a creaking grating noise as it was unbarred and opened, and conscious that she was being fastened to something so that, though she was still standing on her feet, she could not walk any more. But all this did not seem to convey any concrete meaning to her.

Then, suddenly, at the sound of Izzy Myers' voice almost in her ear, her mind snapped back to normal again.

"If it'll amuse you any while you're waiting," he chuckled evilly, "you can shout your heads off; but it won't otherwise do you any good, 'cause there's no one within miles of here. I'd advise you, though, to save your breath until the Big Shot and Ma Kane get here, as I've a hunch you'll have to use your lungs then some!"

The barn seemed to be empty of everything, the floor quite bare, as though—yes, her mind was functioning again, and perhaps only too clearly now for her own composure and her own good—as though the place had been cleared out and put in readiness for—what? What the trucks were bringing? Probably! Did it matter? The gangsters, Izzy Myers, and the man with the lantern were going away now.

The barn door closed. She heard it being barred—and then the men's receding footsteps gradually died away.

"Enid, keep working at your wrists," Phil's voice came quietly, inspiringly out of the darkness. "There's always the chance of getting them loose, you know."

"Yes," she said, and began to struggle with her bonds. But they were very tight—she could scarcely move her wrists at all.

"Just keep at it!" he said encouragingly. "We can talk at the same time. And there's something I want to say—something I want to ask you. Will you forgive me for what I thought and what I said of you in your room tonight?"

"Phil—don't!" Her voice broke a little in spite of herself. "You'll make me cry—and I don't want to cry. There is nothing to forgive. Nothing! Nothing! How could there be! How could you have thought anything other than you did? Oh, please don't ever speak of forgiveness again!"

"All right—I won't," he said. "But there's something else. Last night in the taxicab. You remember, Enid? I told you what you meant to me. I told you that I loved you. And you said there could never be anything between us. Do you remember?"

"Yes," she said faintly.

"Was it for my sake? Because you thought that man was your brother—because you thought your brother was a criminal?"

"Yes," she said again.

"Then you did care?" His voice was trembling, eager. "You care now—Enid, you care now?"

"You know I care," she whispered. "God keep you, Enid," he said hoarsely.

ELECTRIC SERVICE HEARING ADJOURNED AFTER TESTIMONY

Commissioner Rules Paper Company Must Submit Evidence Too

Kaukauna.—The hearing conducted by the Wisconsin Railroad commission to determine whether Kaukauna Electric Utility, Wisconsin Michigan Power company, or the South Shore Utility company has prior rights to legally furnish the village of Combined Locks with electric power, was adjourned Wednesday afternoon after testimony was taken. The motion for adjournment was made after C. Arnold, representative of the South Shore Utility company, stated that his company had ceded all rights to serve the territory, that is now the village, to the Combined Locks Paper company, which furnishes that territory with lighting. Commissioner MacDonald stated that the paper company must then be considered as a utility and must be represented at the hearing. He adjourned until a later date at which the four companies will be represented.

The railroad commission called the hearing in order to get facts to determine which company should have the right to serve Combined Locks. The other two companies would then have to secure permission from the commission or reach an agreement with the utility with prior rights to serve. In that territory. The investigation was started after the South Shore utility company requested that the previous filed rates with the commission be recalled and new ones filed for furnishing electric energy in that territory.

REACH AGREEMENT

A hearing by the railroad commission with the Kaukauna Utility and the Wisconsin Michigan Power company was held last year to determine which company had prior rights to serve the village. Before the hearing closed the two companies reached an agreement in which both would supply the village with electricity. At that time it was not known that there was a company by the name of North Shore Utility, it was reported. When it was learned that there was a third company serving in that territory the commission investigated and called for a hearing.

A. K. Ellis, vice president and general manager of the Wisconsin Michigan Power company, represented that company. He stated that the first customer served by his company in the town of Buchanan, in which Combined Locks is located, was Martin Kilsdonk, on May 5, 1917. He named several other persons to whom service was started about that time. John DeGroth was the first customer to be served in the territory that is now the village of Combined Locks. The village was incorporated in 1920. DeGroth was given service in 1919.

The Wisconsin Michigan Power company held a permit granted to

PASTOR ACCEPTS CALL TO KAUKAUNA CHURCH

Kaukauna.—The Rev. John Scheib, pastor of the Reformed church at Campbellsport, has accepted a call from the Consistory of the Immanuel Reformed church here to take over the pastoring of the church. The Rev. Scheib tendered his resignation at Campbellsport and it was accepted. He will complete his work there on July 1 and will take over the duties here Aug. 1. He will take a vacation during July.

The Rev. Scheib succeeded the Rev. E. Worthman here. The Rev. Worthman resigned to become pastor of the Reformed church at Kell. His resignation takes effect July 1.

Roosevelt Field, N. Y. — A new wrinkle in the air is irresistible to Colonel Lindbergh. Motoring home with Harry Guggenheim after a flight he noticed a new 300-horsepower amphibian in the air. Back to the field he went and accepted an invitation to try the craft out.

its predecessor, Wisconsin Traction, Light, Heat and Power company, from the town of Buchanan July 23, 1913, to serve the town with electric service. This permit was approved by the county board and the county and state highway commissions. In August, 1923, the village gave the company a contract to light the streets.

TESTIFIES FOR CITY

Herbert F. Woolverth, superintendent of the Kaukauna utility department, testified for this city. He said that the city was serving customers in the town of Buchanan until June 1, 1912, at the time when the city bought the Kaukauna Gas, Electric Light and Power company. Prior to this time the company was serving customers in that territory. Some of those who were receiving electric service at that time in the town of Buchanan were John Hermans, J. Licht, C. Carnot and Theodore Weber.

Part of that territory was later annexed to the city of Kaukauna. Kaukauna continued to serve customers in the town of Buchanan until at the present time there are 19 and a half miles of lines there. The municipal utility company made a contract with the Combined Locks Paper company on Sept. 6, 1916, to furnish service to the mill. The city also furnishes electric energy to the town of Onoda, town of Kaukauna, town of Vandenberg and the village of Little Chute. The municipal utility made a contract to furnish street lights in the village of Combined Locks on Dec. 28, 1927.

The South Shore Utility was represented by J. P. Frank and C. Arnold stated that the company was granted a franchise by the village board of Combined Locks giving the right to supply the village with electricity. This was the only franchise granted. He said that the Combined Locks Paper company was serving the village and that those rights were given to the South Shore company.

Among those who were called as witnesses in regard to the city of Kaukauna furnishing electric power in the town of Buchanan were L. C. Wolf, city clerk; William Johnson, accountant for city; August Paiman, Roy Nelson, Peter Brill and William Carnot. J. A. Sullivan, village clerk of Combined Locks, testified that a franchise had been granted to the South Shore Utility.

During the entire hearing the Kaukauna Utility expressed a doubt as to whether there was a company or corporation known as the South Shore Utility company. Attorneys representing the municipal utility were Joseph LeFevre and George Mooney.

COMPLETE PLANS FOR POPPY SALE

Legion Auxiliary Will Sell Artificial Flowers on May 24

Kaukauna.—Plans for the poppy sale on Saturday, May 24, are almost completed by the ladies of the Legion auxiliary, who have charge of the sale here. The poppies are made by disabled soldiers and the proceeds are used to help their families.

"Saturday, May 24, will be Poppy Day throughout the United States," the committee says. "On this day millions of Americans will wear the little red poppy of France and Flanders in memory of the men who gave their lives in the World war."

"When you buy your poppy, think of the disabled veteran in a hospital or convalescent workshop who has fashioned the little blood-red flower. Think of the fatherless family whose struggles during the coming year will be lightened by the coin you drop into the poppy worker's box."

"Think of the brave American boys who lie beneath the waving poppies in France. By thinking of these things you will understand the true significance of the poppy."

All corners in the business district of the city will be patrolled by members of the auxiliary. They will start early in the morning and will work all day.

POOR COST KAUKAUNA $371.25 LAST MONTH

Kaukauna.—City poor cost $371.25 during April, according to the monthly report of R. H. McCarthy, poor commissioner. Fuel cost $24.25 and rent amounted to $21. Forty-two dollars was spent for merchandise while aid given cost $103 and cost $168.

Social Items

Kaukauna.—Miss Lonelle Driessen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Driessen, 118 Doty-st., was married to Jule P. Schommer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Schommer of Little Chute at 8 o'clock Wednesday morning in Holy Cross Catholic church. A wedding high mass was celebrated by the Rev. P. J. Lochman. Attendants were Miss Margaret Driessen, sister of the bride, and Jack Croell of Little Chute.

Miss Driessen was graduated from Kaukauna high school several years ago with honors. She was employed at the Thilmany Paper mill.

A wedding breakfast and dinner were served at the home of the bride's parents. A reception was held during the day. Late in the afternoon the young couple left for a week's trip to Milwaukee and Madison. They will reside at 530 Main-st., Oshkosh, where the bridegroom is employed.

Out of town guests were Mrs. and Mrs. M. H. Roth, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Schroeder, Mrs. Chris Velle and daughter Phyllis, Carl Nebel and Miss Ruth Nebel, and Miss Vanetta Friday of Oshkosh; Miss Gertrude Meyer of Green Bay and Mr. and Mrs. N. Schommer and family of Little Chute.

The Lady Elks will meet at Elks hall on Second-st. Friday afternoon. Mrs. Alvin Warnecke will act as hostess.

CONDUCT LAST RITES FOR NICHOLAS JAECKELS

Kaukauna.—Funeral services for Nicholas Jaeckels, 57, who died Saturday evening after a lingering illness, were held at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning from St. Mary Catholic church. The Rev. C. Ripp was in charge of the services and interment was in St. Mary cemetery. He was born in Germany. He came to this country and settled in St. John. A number of years ago he came to Kaukauna where he resided until his death. He is survived by his widow; one daughter, Mrs. A. Helms; one sister, Mrs. Margaret Nilles of Hubert; eight grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

ELKS TO CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY AT CLUB

Kaukauna.—Plans for the celebration of the 35th anniversary Thursday evening of the Kaukauna Elks, lodge No. 862, have been completed by the committee in charge. Music will be furnished by Melita Californians. Cards will be played and lunch will be served at 11:15 in the evening. Several hundred are expected to attend. The committee in charge is composed of Joseph J. Jensen, John Conyer, C. E. Haight and R. H. McCarty.

FINES IN APRIL TOTAL $8, CHIEF REPORTS

Kaukauna.—Fines during April amounted to $8, according to the monthly report of Chief of Police R. H. McCarty. Fines were $2.75 and disbursements amounted to $5.00. There are $34.25 still pending and city funds are $25.75. Four were arrested for disorderly conduct and one for drunken driving. Five summonses were issued and 10 garnishees served.

Don't Cut Tops Off Of Spring Flowering Bulbs

Urbana, Ill.—May gardeners with a penchant for neatness make the mistake of cutting the tops off of spring flowering bulbs as soon as they are through blooming, according to H. B. Dorner, chief in floriculture at the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois. This should not be done as the plants need the leaves to develop new bulbs and to store up food material for the next season, he explained. Premature removal of the leaves presents proper development and the bulbs do not bloom the following year.

SHOULD BE KEPT COOL

"If the bulbs are to be replanted, they should be dug up as soon as they become dormant and stored until the coming autumn. They are best stored in a cool basement and may then be planted in September or October. Narcissus and crocuses should be planted as early as possible."

ROTARY APPROPRIATES $100 FOR LANDSCAPING

Kaukauna.—The Kaukauna Rotary club appropriated $100 to the Kaukauna American Legion for landscaping the river park on Oct. 1 at a meeting Wednesday noon at Hotel Kaukauna. The Legion also has appropriated $100 for this purpose.

FASHIONS HIT IRISH FARMERS

Ben Pruch was in charge of the program after the dinner and business meeting. Talks on trout fishing since the opening of the season on May 1 were given by Hugo Wolfenbach, R. H. Radsch, Dr. E. J. Beal, Dr. G. J. Flannigan, Ben Pruch, Joseph Jensen and Arthur Schmalz. All the speakers described their trips. Next week Mrs. Ed Flynn, city nurse, will be the speaker.

RIVETS MAKE THE TRUCK TANK GASOLINE-TIGHT

THE TORRID ZONE STEEL FURNACE

is gas-tight and dust-tight because it is riveted

Walls and ceilings seldom have to be repapered or repainted in a home that's heated with a Torrid Zone

Furnace of boiler-plate steel. Floors, furniture and woodwork are singularly free from dust. It's all in the way this furnace is built.

For just as the truck tank is made gasoline-tight by hot-riveting and cold-calking . . . so the Torrid Zone is made gas, smoke and dust-tight.

And the air in a Torrid Zone equipped home is bound to be clean and healthful . . . for several reasons. First, the air is never tainted with coal-gas. Second, the air is moistfully healthful because a Torrid Zone humidifier has twice the evaporating area of ordinary water pans right inside the casing and, furthermore, is positioned for most rapid evaporation. Third, proper air circulation is guaranteed when a Lennox Furnace man installs according to the Standard Code. A Lennox Torrid Zone equipped home is a safe and healthy home for every member of the family.

And what's more, the Torrid Zone is economical. It is designed to heat with from 10% to 20% less fuel than ordinary furnaces. Whatever your fuel . . . hard coal, soft coal, coke, lignite, wood, gas, oil . . . it is sure to go farther with a Torrid Zone! Without a doubt, this is the finest heating unit that science has devised. Wherever it operates, in homes, churches, schools or stores, all the many advantages of warm air heating are fully realized.

Come in and see the interesting features. We want to show you its sturdy locomotive grates, its "lazy" shaker. We want to give you a booklet describing other features. Plans and estimates will be quickly furnished on request. Free engineering service from the factory for special problems. # MAINE SENATORS HELPED TO BLOCK WOODPULP TARIFF

Paper Mill in Maine, Near Canadian Border, Has Advantage

BY RUBY A. BLACK
Post-Crescent Washington Correspondent

Washington — Wisconsin paper manufacturers who sought to get in this tariff bill a provision taking liquid woodpulp off the free list can thank the two Maine Senators for the failure of the Senate to take the action the paper makers sought.

One paper mill in this country, at Madawaska, Me., right on this side of the Canadian border, imports its woodpulp in liquid form, in a pipe line from the Canadian to its paper mill in Madawaska.

Because this mill does not have to use American labor to convert woodpulp back to liquid form, as do all other American paper companies, it can make its paper at a cost of about $7 or $8 a ton less than can any other company. The company which has this advantage is a Canadian concern.

Sen. David I. Walsh, Dem., Mass., proposed to take liquid woodpulp off the free list, which would have put it in a "basket" clause bearing a duty of 10 per cent. C. C. McLaren, forester of the Tomahawk Paper company in Wisconsin, told the Wisconsin land commission on March 3, that the Wisconsin kraft paper mills are threatened with extinction if the Walsh amendment was not passed.

When Sen. Walsh first proposed his amendment, Sen. Frederick Hale of Maine, who "inherited" his seat in the Senate from his father, opposed it and it was defeated.

IGNORES TELEGRAMS
The trouble with Sen. Hale was that he had paid no attention to telegrams and letters from other paper manufacturers urging him to support the measure, and had simply noted that it was a Maine mill against which the amendment was aimed.

After that, however, Sen. Hale heard in no unmistakable terms from paper makers all over his state and asked Sen. Walsh to bring his amendment up again. Everything was set for the amendment to go through, Sen. Reed Smoot, chairman of the Senate Finance committee, having agreed to it.

Sen. Hale seems to have forgotten that he has a colleague Sen. Arthur T. Gould, who lives up on the Maine border and has many business interests in Canada, particularly lumber interests. People are always forgetting that Sen. Gould is a member of the Senate, for he takes little part in that body's proceedings, calls it "a damned farce", and is not seeking reelection this year.

So, to the astonishment of Sen. Hale and Sen. Walsh, when the amendment was brought up again Sen. Gould arose and made a speech against it. Sen. Walsh was so enraged at this split in the Maine delegation that he withdrew his amendment, saying he did not care to make a fight for a project of chief interest to Maine when the Maine Senators were disagreed on it.

FINISH PRELIMINARY WORK ON NEW ADDITION

This caused Sen. Hale great grief, and left the Wisconsin, Michigan, and Maine paper manufacturers without protection on liquid woodpulp. All the other paper companies have to buy their woodpulp in hardened form and convert it back to liquid.

Largest Floor Space Is Found In Chicago Mart

Chicago—(AP)—A department store for merchants, the Merchandise Mart, where they may shop for the shopper, will be opened May 1.

Its 20 floors and tower occupying two blocks above the Chicago and Northwestern railroad tracks, make up one of the world's largest buildings, so far as floor space is concerned.

The gigantic structure, looking down upon the backward flowing Chicago river, is the first of the city's air-tight buildings. Special legislation, and particular action by the state commerce commission were necessary before the caissons could be sunk.

Manufacturers and wholesalers of virtually all department store items, 600 tenants, will have space in the building. Accommodations include a merchants' club in the tower. At the top of the tower is a convention hall. The second floor is an exhibition hall.

On the 19th and 20th floors will be radio broadcasting studios.

The builders of the structure claim the 7,500 craftsmen who worked on the Mart constitute the largest army of workers concentrated on one structural job. In the building were used 60,000 tons of steel, 29,000 bricks, 40 miles of plumbing, 15 passenger elevators and 5,500 windows. The Mart stands on the site of the old Northwestern passenger depot.

"Invaluable" Say Society Women

MELLO-GLO Face Powder is preferred by beautiful women because it leaves no trace of flakiness, pastiness or irritation. Stays on longer—no shiny noses! Made by a new French process—prevents large pores. Spreads more smoothly—gives a youthful bloom. Very pure. Use MELLO-GLO Face Powder. It's wonderful.

PLAN TO ATTEND GREEN BAY PARTY

It is expected 10 local employees of the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad company and their wives will attend a dinner dance to be given by the Women's auxiliary of the Old Northern Wisconsin Railroad Employees' club at Hotel Northland at Green Bay, Saturday evening, according to W. B. Baalig, local agent. About 150 people from throughout the Lake Shore division are expected to attend. The dinner party will start at 6:30 in the evening and will be followed by the dance.
